ITALIANS FEAR MASSACRE

Fleeing by Thousands from Ottoman Dominions, While All Foreigners Are Quitting Tripoli.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 27.—With an Italian fleet cruising off the coast of Tripoli and an Italian ultimatum in Constantinople demanding a guarantee equivalent to a protectorate over the country, the outlook is regarded as of the blackest.

Though Italy has offered to pay a heavy money indemnity for the cession of Tripoli, it is not expected that the Turkish Government will accept the offer, for the Young Turks are a military party and their prestige, already damaged by the loss of Bosnia and Eastern Rumelia, would suffer an irremediable blow by the surrender of Tripoli without armed resistance.

If war result, there seems, according to English authorities, no possibility of preventing the conquest of Tripoli by Italy. Some German experts predict another Adowa for Italy, but, while Turkey has from 25,000 to 30,000 men in Tripoli, the Italian fleet can shut off reinforcements of men, supplies, and ammunition.

The Turkish fleet is a negligible quantity, while Italy now has four squadrons mobilized and ready for action.

The first squadron, consisting of four modern battleships of high speed and great power, with three new armored cruisers, a scout, three destroyers, and a mine ship, has already arrived on the African coast.

The second squadron consists of three older battleships, four armored cruisers, and a scout. It will proceed to Turkish waters to deal with the Turkish fleet in case of hostilities.

The third squadron, of three old battleships and one armored cruiser, will act as a reserve.

The fourth squadron, of two cruisers and eighty destroyers, torpedo boats, and submarines, will cover the Italian coast.

However good a fight the Turkish forces in Tripoli might put up, there is no possibility of striking at the Italian mainland, and thus the war would be localized, and, it is believed here, speedily ended.

Peril of Further Upheaval.

While official disclaimers are made on behalf of Italy that she is pursuing the policy of "grab" which Austria began in 1908 and Germany continued at Agadir, it is a sign of the times that there is some expectation that Turkey may seek an escape from her present dilemma by securing "compensation" from her weaker neighbors. The Constantinople Government, it is suggested, may argue thus: "Italy is seizing Tripoli from us because she knows we cannot defend it, and though she has no right to do it, if Europe is prepared to admit the doctrine in her case that might is right, it must admit it in our case, and we will help ourselves to Greek territory in compensation, as we know the Greeks are weaker than ourselves on land and sea."

Or, again, the Greeks, with the prospect of war between Italy and Turkey, may themselves decide to strike, looking to Italy for help. In the Turkish crisis of 1908 they were induced to keep quiet only by the assurance of the powers that they should ultimately receive Crete under a pacific arrangement. Three years have passed, and that promise has not been fulfilled.

Here is another danger point in the situation, which, as The Times's Vienna correspondent points out, has hardly begun to develop. "The chief peril," says the correspondent, "lies in the state of affairs in the Ottoman Empire itself. Without heeding rumors such as those disseminated here to-day (Tuesday) that the Sultan may abdicate, it suffices to draw attention to an undated dispatch published by the Politische Correspondenz in which mention is made of the declining prestige of the Committee for Union and Progress, whose influence over the civil and military authorities in various parts of

ROCKEFELLER'S FLAG FLYING.

Oil Man Celebrates Getting of His First and Only Job 56 Years Ago.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 26.—John D. Rockefeller issued his first statement to the public in many years to-day. It was in the shape of a message expressing his thankfulness for a long and successful business career following the gaining of his first job fifty-six years ago. Incidentally, it revealed the fact that Mr. Rockefeller held only one "job" in all his career.

This is the statement:

> The flag is flying over Forest Hill today in memory of fifty-six years ago when I secured my first and only situation in the forwarding and commission house of Hewitt & Tuttle on the river. I am very grateful for this memory.

The statement was made by Mr. Rockefeller to his brother-in-law, George Rudd, who telephoned it to the papers.

JUST ADDRESS IT NEW YORK.

Mr. Hoyer Proves That a Card Will Be Delivered from the Main Post Office.

Charles E. Hoyer of Stapleton has been reproaching the Staten Island Postmasters for their lack of enthusiasm in the good cause of putting erring and misdirected letters on the right track, and pointed his remarks with a wager that illustrated how much better such things are done on the other side of the upper bay.

A few days ago Mr. Hoyer heard that a letter addressed to him was reposing in the Richmond Post Office, to which it had been misdirected. He sent a messenger to fetch the letter and saw that before reaching Richmond it had been missent to Port Richmond and had dropped in at Dongan Hills on the way to the little country Post Office. There it was destined to remain till the time should come for it to be returned to the writer with the inscription, "Not found."

After speaking his mind on the subject, Mr. Hoyer wagered one of the Postmasters that a postal card addressed to Charles E. Hoyer, New York City, would be promptly delivered, and he held that its delivery would bear witness to the greater energy and system in such matters employed by the big offices in Manhattan. The card was sent and delivered in short order.

Suits to Oust Hunnewell Councilmen Filed—They Will Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 26.—Suits to oust the four men members of the Town Council of Hunnewell, Kan., were filed in the Supreme Court here shortly after noon today by Attorney General Dawson. The suits are the outcome of the long-standing feud between the Councilmen and the woman Mayor, Mrs. Ella Wilson, who was elected last Spring. She appealed for State aid. The four Councilmen are F. J. Lander, President; B. Keir, J. F. Richardson, and J. O. Ellis.

The Attorney General charges the quartet with the following: Wilful misconduct; failure to meet as a Council; meeting in a hotel bedroom to embarrass the Mayor; failure to notify the Mayor of the place of meeting; meeting in secret; passing a pretended ordinance without giving the Mayor a chance to be present; failure to confirm appointments for pure malice; failure to provide a tax levy, and failure to co-operate with the Mayor in suppressing crime.

According to statements made by the Councilmen in Hunnewell last night when their resignations were demanded by Dawson, they will fight the case to the end.

Some of the people of Hunnewell are supporting the Councilmen in the fight they are making. It was learned to-day that at a mass meeting held Saturday at Hunnewell $250 was subscribed by business men in a few minutes to help pay the expenses of the four Councilmen against whom ouster proceedings have been filed.

READ MRS. EDDY TO THE LAST

Christian Scientist Found Dead with "Science and Health" in His Grasp.

William B. Parhan, a stenographer, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Parhan, a former leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Central Park West, was found dead in bed at 1,050 Forest Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday, a copy of Mrs. Eddy's "Science and Health" in his grasp. His bed was strewn with Eddyite pamphlets and he had evidently met death while reading. Coroner Shongut was called and gave a certificate of death from tuberculosis.

Mrs. J. C. Higgeman of 1,029 Clinton Avenue, who brought Parhan his breakfast each morning, was the first to know of his demise. She told the Coroner that she had called Dr. William A. Goodall of 309 East 148th Street on Monday to see Parhan, when she learned that he was in a serious condition, but Parhan had refused to talk with the physician. Parhan's mother is on the Pacific Coast.

WANT TO MARRY THOMPSON.

Man Who Gave Up Wife to Another Gets Three Offers by Mail.

Frank Thompson of Fairground, L. I., who, when his wife told him recently that she had transferred her affections to the son of a wealthy Manhattan sewing machine manufacturer whom she had met at Midland Beach last year, signed voluntary separation papers and then formally announced her desertion at a dance given by "The Lonely Four," need mourn his wife no longer. There are at least three young women in the United States who are so willing to take the place of Thompson's wife that they have written to tell him about it. Two of the writers live in Brooklyn, while the third is out in Kansas. She writes:

"I have just read in the paper of your case, and I thought if your wife had left you that you were a free man, and if you are how would you like to correspond with a Kansas girl? That is, if you care to. I am sure there would be no harm in it if it were carried on properly. I will give you a slight description of myself. I have blue eyes, brown hair, fair complexion, stout looking, good character, and am refined young woman. My age is 21. I am a good housekeeper and cook and can also do other things such as in the way of entertaining. If these few lines should come up with your approval and you would care to write to me, I should be glad to hear from you."

Thompson refused to show the other two letters. He hasn't made up his mind whether he will answer them.

GOV. DIX REMOVES GRESSER OF QUEENS

FRAUD IN CULVERT WORK

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Gov. Dix will issue an order to-morrow removing Lawrence Gresser as President of the Borough of Queens. In a memorandum made public from the Executive Chamber to-night the Governor fully sustains charges of inefficiency, incompetency, and neglect of duty which were preferred against Mr. Gresser more than a year ago.

In reaching this decision Gov. Dix acted on the findings of Samuel H. Ordway, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes as a Commissioner to take testimony in the Gresser case. Commissioner Ordway rendered his report on June 16 this year recommending the removal of Borough President Gresser. The report of the Commissioner fully sustained the charges on which Mr. Gresser now is to be removed, and just stopped short of finding him guilty on the graver charge of corruption, which had been made by those who asked for his removal.

Gov. Dix, it was said, purposely withheld his decision in the Gresser case until a late hour this evening, when it could have no effect on the primary fight which is going on in the Borough of Queens between the Gresser forces and the followers of former Borough President Joseph Cassidy. The two factions for many years have been contending for control of the Democratic organization in Queens. The decision came as a surprise to a good many people who were aware that all of the influence of Mayor Gaynor with the Governor had been exercised in Gresser's behalf.

The Governor's decision proved pleasing news to the followers of Tammany leader Charles F. Murphy at the Capitol. Joseph Cassidy, Gresser's opponent, has had the full support of the Tammany delegation.

The recommendation of Commissioner Ordway on which Gov. Dix acted in ordering the removal of Borough President Gresser was to this effect:

> I am of the opinion that he (Gresser) has been inefficient and incompetent, and has been neglectful of his duty to protect the city and Borough of Queens against fraud and corruption on the part of his subordinates.

The Governor's Decision.

In a memorandum ordering the removal of Borough President Gresser, Gov. Dix says:

"Mr. Gresser has held public office in Queens County practically continuously since May 1, 1896, and has been Borough President since April 30, 1908, having held the unexpired term of Bermel, resigned, till Dec. 31, 1909, and thereafter holding by election.

"He was, therefore, chargeable, when he took office, Jan. 21, 1910, with all knowledge of the existing conditions in the government of the borough.

"There is no ground to believe that when the voters elected him, in November, 1909, they were aware of the wrongdoings in the departments under Mr. Gresser, and which were fully set out in the Commissioner's report, hence he is not entitled to claim immunity as from a vote of confidence.

"The Commissioner recommends the removal of Mr. Gresser for inefficiency and incompetency and neglect of duty. To pass on this recommendation I must estimate his character as well as his administration in his present term. In this view the conduct of his department throughout both his terms must be considered, though still respecting the rule laid down by my predecessors that specific acts of a preceding term are not subject to censure.

"The President of a borough must administer the borough affairs through subordinates. The Charter provides a system of department heads, under the President and subject to his appointment, investigation, and control. While no public officer should be held responsible for isolated misdeeds not within his actual knowledge, he must be held to account for general and widespread corruption, inefficiency, and incompetency in the departments under him without regard to his actual knowledge.

Evidence of Corruption.

"With this principle in mind I find from the report and from the evidence that corruption and incompetence were general in the departments of Queens Borough from April 30, 1908, down to and including the first six months of 1910.

"It appears that political contributions were regularly assessed; that employes were removed from office for political reasons; that the construction of sewers has been unreasonably delayed; that the highways have been neglected or improperly repaired; that frauds were committed in the construction of culverts, in padding payrolls, in the petty cash funds, and in the Sewer Department; that apparently a large proportion of the subordinates of the Borough President were corrupt and inefficient. The existence of such conditions is not compatible with the existence of reasonable competency and efficiency in the Borough President or with the view that he has actively exercised his duties.

"I therefore approve the conclusion of the Commissioner that Mr. Gresser has been inefficient and incompetent and has been neglectful of his duty to protect the city and the Borough of Queens against fraud and corruption on the part of his subordinates.

"An order for the removal of Lawrence Gresser from the Presidency of the Borough of Queens will therefore be made."

The charges on which Borough President Gresser was removed emanated from two different groups of residents in the Borough of Queens. On July 22, 1910, Charles Pope Caldwell, William F. Matthews, and Arthur E. Keating, representing a large committee of citizens, filed a petition with Gov. Hughes charging Borough President Gresser with gross neglect of duty, political favoritism, and general incompetence in office. On Aug. 2 similar charges were again filed against Mr. Gresser by Charles A. Brodek and others. The latter complainants were Governors of the Progress Society of the Rockaways. In both instances the removal of Mr. Gresser was asked for.

Gov. Hughes sent the case to Commissioner Ordway, and the latter spent several months in hearing testimony on the charges before he rendered his report. There were nearly twoscore counts in the charges.

The successor of Borough President Gresser under the statute must be elected by the four Aldermen from the Borough of Queens at a meeting which the Mayor must call, and at which he must preside.

Former Borough President Cassidy, who is believed to control a majority of the Aldermen from Queens, has stated that he himself is not a candidate for the po-

HITCHCOCK CARRIES MAIL IN AEROPLANE

NEW WORLD'S FLIGHT RECORD

Lieut. Milling, U. S. A., Carries Two Passengers for Nearly Two Hours at Nassau Boulevard.

By flying continuously for 1 hour 54 minutes 42 3-5 seconds with two soldiers of the United States Army tucked away in the spare seats of his aeroplane, Lieut. T. De Witt Milling, a fledgling aviator of less than two months' experience, captured yesterday for the United States and an American-made biplane the world's record for the longest two-passenger flight.

Lieut. Milling's flight was made as the second event on the programme of the International Aviation meet at Nassau Boulevard. It was witnessed by about 1,200 spectators, who wildly cheered the young flier and his companions.

Other events which made the day a notable one were a flight by Postmaster General Hitchcock in a biplane driven by Capt. Beck, U. S. A., in which he delivered a bag of postal cards to the Mineola Post Office, and a short exhibition flight by Mlle. Dutrieu, the young woman flier from France, who holds the most notable world's records for women pilots.

The flier whom Lieut. Milling succeeds as record holder in the two-passenger event is Mamet of France, who in a French-built monoplane carried two passengers during the second Rheims meet, in July, 1910, for 1 hour 36 minutes 4 seconds. Mamet's record, which was undisturbed for fifteen months, was the most venerable record in the world of aviation, every other world's record having been smashed in the intervening months of flying.

Milling a Wright Pupil.

In achievement in the air Milling now takes a place with Atwood, who brought home to the United States the world's record for the longest cross-country journey after it had been in European keeping for many months. Milling was trained by the Wrights at Dayton, and flew in a Burgess-Wright biplane. He is 24 years old, and is the youngest flier of the army and navy group, whose home grounds are at College Park, Md. The record is the first notable winning to be made by an army or navy flier. By breaking the record and passing a total of 100 minutes in the air Lieut. Milling won, in cash, a prize of $1,000 offered by the Hotel Knickerbocker. This still brings his prize money well below that of Grahame-White and Sopwith, the two English fliers, who have carried away the bigger prizes of the speed events.

His flight as a spectacle hardly became interesting to the spectators along the side lines until the American record of 1:18:22 was passed. As the megaphone men made the announcement to this effect all eyes were turned upon the steadily speeding aeroplane with its three men aboard. The machine was making something over forty miles an hour, flying on an even keel at a height of 200 feet. Without varying its course or the evenness of the flight it continued to glide along, much after the manner of riders in a six-day bicycle race. People held their timepieces and continued to watch the steady "grinding" against time.

From the moment when the megaphones announced that the American record made by Beatty last month at Chicago was broken until the time for the world's record to fall was a matter of only twenty minutes. To win the $1,000 prize, which required a flight of 100 minutes, called for two minutes more of watching.

Rousing Aeroplane Salute.

There was not the slightest faltering of the biplane during this period of watching. Before nineteen minutes had elapsed the automobile horns about the course took up the "aeroplane salute" and sent up their noisy greetings to the trio in the air for fully five minutes after that time. The period covered the time needed both to break the world's record and win the prize. Milling and his passengers waved their hands as bombs, shooting upward, carried the news to them that a world's record had been achieved. They continued to circle the field for nearly fifteen minutes more and then glided gracefully to the field in front of the judges' stand.

Earle Ovington, the aerial mail man, ran out to greet the trio, and he carried Milling in to the judges' stand upon his shoulders. The army and navy associates of the young flier congratulated him warmly, making way only when they saw Attorney General Wickersham and Postmaster General Hitchcock coming up to offer their congratulations.

The three bombs by which the close of the day's events was announced, were set up immediately after Milling had landed.

Of the previous numbers on the programme perhaps the added event of Postmaster General Hitchcock's visit to Mineola on a mail-carrying aeroplane attracted the most interest.

At 4:50 o'clock, when it was announced that Aerial Postman Ovington would leave with the day's mail, it was found that there were thirty pounds on hand, while Ovington did not care to take in his speedy monoplane more than fifteen pounds.

Postmaster General Carries Mail.

The Postmaster General volunteered to carry the remaining package, which was just then augmented by 100 postal cards brought forward by Mrs. Timothy L. Woodruff, who announced that she had held them back especially so that the Postmaster General would be their carrier.

Capt. Beck brought out his Curtiss biplane, equipped with a 75-horse power motor, and announced that he was ready to accommodate Mr. Hitchcock as far as Mineola and return. Attorney General Wickersham walked out on the field to bid his associate Cabinet Member farewell.

"Have you made your peace with the publishers?" asked Mr. Wickersham.

"No, I haven't," Mr. Hitchcock replied, "and what is more there is no second-class mail on this aeroplane. It costs too much to carry it this way."

The machine, upon its release, shot high up into the air and speeded directly into the path which Ovington had taken a moment before. A ribbon of vapor from the engine unraveled itself far out behind the machine and caused some uneasiness, as it was a phenomenon which had not been previously observed during the meet.

Ovington's monoplane acted as a scout car for the biplane, and headed toward the field with the biplane not far behind it. The spectators saw, during the latter part of the journey, a biplane performing the unusual feat of overhauling a mono-

PRIMARIES BRING FEW NEW LEADERS

JAMES AHEARN IN A FIGHT

His Arm Broken by a Policeman's Club —Marx Hopelessly Beaten by Wright —Gruber Victorious and Dady Wins.

Joseph Cassidy came to the top again in the troubled politics of Queens, as the result of yesterday's primaries, and James Ahearn, Tammany leader in the Nineteenth District, Manhattan, had his arm broken in two places by a policeman's club in a row at a polling place. These were the chief results last night of several weeks of strenuous campaigning.

Cassidy carried three out of four districts. In Brooklyn Col. Michael Dady won as usual. In Manhattan and the Bronx none of the regular leaders was unseated. Edward H. Healy, regular Republican leader in the Thirty-third District, received the closest vote, and a recount may have to decide the winner. Healy says he received 532 votes to his opponent's 522. His opponent is Albert Simonds. There are 29 protested ballots in this district, Healy claiming 20 in his favor.

William Halpin, regular Republican leader in the Seventh District, easily retained his place. He received 544 votes, and his opponent, John G. Glass, got 309.

Col. Abraham Gruber, who was believed to have a tough fight on his hands, had no trouble at all in defeating Willie B. Davis in the Seventeenth District. Gruber got 1,082 votes to his opponent's 483.

There was a hot contest in the Eighteenth Assembly District, where Peter Gatens disputed the leadership of Joseph J. Nejedly. Nejedly held his district by an even 200 majority. He got 586 votes against his opponent's 386.

In the Thirty-third District, where Healy's vote against Simonds will be close, the first returns showed 522 in favor of the former to 512 in favor of the latter. Later returns showed an increase of ten for each side, but the vote will have to be taken to the Board of Elections. Healy claimed his election early this morning, but Simonds wouldn't concede it.

In the First Republican Assembly District there was a three-cornered fight, but William G. Rose, the present leader, easily retained his seat, getting 630 votes. George A. Schlucher received 272 and Hugo Nowak 159.

William C. Hecht, leader in the Twentieth, was perhaps the easiest victor of all the Republican contestants. His opponent received 7 votes, and he polled 569.

The Democratic leaders in most cases had a walkover. In the Tenth ex-Coroner Solomon Goldenkranz easily defeated his opponent, Dr. Morris J. Kline, the latter receiving only one-fifth of the votes in the district.

In the Thirteenth John J. Curry retained his leadership against Francis P. Coughlin, who has run for leader several times before. The present leader received about six votes to every one cast for Coughlin.

In the Twentieth, ex-Sheriff Nicholas J. Hayes was again victorious, this time over Henry H. Lazarus. The latter received about one-seventh of the vote cast for Hayes.

Percival F. Nagle in the Thirtieth won hands down from his opponent, John J. Sullivan, who was put up at the last moment, receiving nearly 2,000 votes to his opponent's 200.

In the Thirty-first, Alderman Samuel Marx, contending against William J. Wright, the present leader, was snowed under, Wright receiving twice as many votes as the Alderman. The vote was: Wright, 1,525; Marx, 813.

William E. Morris easily retained his leadership in the Thirty-fifth Assembly District. Charles C. Marrin was defeated by about 2,000 votes.

Contrary to expectation, no fight developed in the Twenty-seventh (Republican) District, where B. W. B. Brown is leader.

There was really little disorder at the polls, despite the frantic appeals of candidates in advance of the primaries for protection. Leader Ahearn in the Nineteenth and Edward H. Healy, a Republican, in the Thirty-third, who received a fractured arm at a fight at the polls and was sent to St. Luke's Hospital, were the only casualties.

Leader Ahearn, who was making a stubborn contest against John J. Hines, got into a fight in front of the polling place at 106th Street and Amsterdam Avenue about 5 o'clock. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital with his arm broken in two places.

Ahearn's injuries were partly due to the fact that Police Commissioner Waldo had shifted about 7,000 policemen. One of the new policemen was on duty at the Amsterdam Avenue polling place when Ahearn and several others arrived there.

The policeman pushed his way into the fight, which immediately followed Ahearn's arrival. His club descended twice upon Ahearn's upraised arm, and with a cry of distress the leader fell to the pavement. The crowd then dispersed. An ambulance call was sent in, but before the ambulance arrived Ahearn's friends bundled him into the automobile, and he was whisked away to the hospital. No arrests were made.

If Ahearn retains his leadership it will be by a close vote. At the close of the counting of ballots last night his followers claimed their leader's election by only 27 votes. James J. Hines, Ahearn's opponent, insisted that a recount would be necessary.

Possibilities of trouble caused Commissioner Waldo to assign reserves also to the Thirty-first District, where Marx was fighting Wright. It was feared that trouble would result in this district because Marx had requested help from the Sheriff through Gov. Dix. Both sides brought out the voters with automobiles. Both sides claimed the district up to the very last hour.

There were crowds about the polling places all day and several times clashes with the police were narrowly averted. Both Marx and Wright made circuits of their districts with large bodyguards. The contest in this district was at fever heat all day and only the activity of the police kept heads from being broken.

Early in the day Sheriff Shea sent out a call for 400 Deputy Sheriffs. He said it wasn't his fault that he had selected men prominent in business and other walks of life. Among them were Howard Taft, nephew of the President; Henry P. Davison, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Harry and Walter Conant, Franklin Simon, importer; Joseph Erlanger, son of Abraham Erlanger, the theatrical manager; Harry, a son of Henry B. Harris, another theatrical manager; James B. Regan and John Stack of the Hotel Knickerbocker, Alfred L. Seligman, Myer Strasbourger, Max Arnheim, W. B. Cordoza, Philip Sachs, Abraham Liebman, Martin Steinthal, Joseph W. Stern, and "Big Bill" Edwards, the Street Cleaning Commissioner.

None of these individuals, so far as could be learned, paid any attention to the Sheriff's admonition to appear at his office for service or deposit the necessary $10,000 bonds. All, however, sent

INFANTRY OFF FOR PANAMA.

Tenth Has Gone and the Twenty-eighth May Follow Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 26.—The Tenth Infantry, which came to San Antonio last March with the manoeuvre division, left to-day via Galveston for a two years' stay in the Panama Canal zone.

The belief is general in army circles that the Twenty-eighth Infantry, now in camp, as part of the manoeuvre brigade will soon follow the Tenth to Panama. Army officers expect the force of troops on the Isthmus will be rapidly increased as the canal nears completion.

FIRST HARVARD AT HARVARD.

Lionel, Descendant of Founder's Cousin, Arrives from England.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 26.—To enter Harvard University, founded by his ancestor, Lionel de Jersey Harvard of London, arrived in this city to-day on the steamer Canadian, from Liverpool. As soon as his baggage had been examined, he left for his rooms at Weld Hall.

A boy of eighteen years, Harvard is not a direct descendant of John Harvard, the founder of the university, but is descended from Thomas, a second cousin of John Harvard.

SLUNGSHOT HITS MRS. DAVIS.

Clerk of Wallkill Was Driving with Wife in the Woods.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 26.—While John M. Davis, Clerk of the Town of Wallkill, and wife were driving in the woods near this city, last night, Mrs. Davis was struck on the back by a slungshot. She screamed, and Mr. Davis turned in time to see the outlines of a man as he disappeared in the darkness.

The blow which Mrs. Davis received caused her to faint, and her husband held her from falling while he hurriedly drove to their home. The police are investigating. It is believed the blow was intended for Davis.

Rebellious Indians Slay Resident of Town They Sacked.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26.—Wenceslao France, a resident of Acala, in the State of Chiapas, was crucified by rebellious Chamula Indians when they sacked that place last Saturday, according to a telegram received by El Imparcial to-night from Tuxtla Gutiérrez, the State capital.

DIES AT HUSBAND'S BEDSIDE.

Mrs. Isaacs, Architect's Wife, Had Gone to See Him in Hospital.

Mrs. Eva Isaacs, wife of Harry Isaacs, an architect of 1,013 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, died suddenly in Seney Hospital last night. She was seated at the bedside of her husband, who had undergone a slight operation to remedy a chronic disorder Friday last, and fell suddenly to the floor. Nurses and internes hurried to an adjoining room, where it was found she was dead.

Although her husband's condition was not serious, the hospital authorities decided that it would be inadvisable to tell him that his wife was dead. They let him believe that she was being cared for in another room.

Mrs. Isaacs was 57 years old. Her death was due to heart disease.

WORKED IN MAN'S DRESS.

Italian Woman Brought Over Under Contract, Officials Say.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 26.—Dressed as a man and working as a common laborer on a farm near Mellen, Wis., according to an agreement made between her father in Italy and her cousin, which was to be binding for five years, Monica Dossette, an Italian woman, 35 years old, was brought here by United States immigration officers to-day.

The woman is about 4 feet 6 inches tall and weighs between 90 and 100 pounds. When she arrived at the farm of Peter Devero in May, 1910, she was equipped with overalls and then sent out to work as a laborer. After the day's work was over she had to saw wood, she charges.

Pending deportation, the woman has been placed in the hands of an Italian family in Duluth.

CHICAGO'S NEW PARK PLAN.

Might Gain Large Acreage by Dumping Waste in Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—A plan to make 100 acres a year of public park land out of Lake Michigan without cost to the city was submitted to the City Council last night by the Chicago Plan Commission. The scheme suggested is to allow contractors who cart away ashes, cinders, excavated earth, and other materials the privilege of dumping the waste in the lake, provided they build retaining walls at their own expense.

The report estimates that 4,600,000 cubic yards of waste material could be obtained each year. At present 2,000,000 cubic yards of waste is hauled far out in the lake at great cost to contractors. The report points out that, while the park area of Chicago is only 3,600 acres, Boston has more than 12,000, and New York 8,000.

ESCAPE IN CROSSING CRASH.

Man and Woman Unhurt When Train Smashes Wagon Carrying Them.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 26.—While crossing the Long Island Railroad on the Roslyn Road, a station wagon, in which was Miss Henrietta Firth of Glenhead and Herbert Simonson, was struck by a Mineola Fair special train.

Mr. Simonson was driving and Miss Firth sat in the back seat. The country is open at this point, with the railroad tracks stretching straight away in either direction.

The horse got over the track in safety. The two occupants were thrown out, the wagon wrecked, and the rose ran away. Mr. Simonson and Miss Firth were taken to the Nassau Hospital, where it was found they were only shaken up.

Fox Terrier Hides $14,000 in Gems.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Diamonds alleged to be worth $14,000 were taken from the home of Mrs. Robert I. Miller yesterday by her little fox terrier. When Mrs. Miller discovered that the chamois bag containing the gems had disappeared she appealed to the police. Search resulted in discovering the gems in the yard, where the terrier had scattered them. All but two or three of the jewels were recovered.

STEEL TRUST WON'T DISSOLVE

HASN'T SOUGHT MONOPOLY

NO FEDERAL NEGOTIATIONS

Directors Decide to Announce Corporation's Position to Set Rumors at Rest.

The United States Steel Corporation is determined to stand on its record. This was made known just before midnight last night in a statement signed by J. Pierpont Morgan and Judge Elbert H. Gary, acting as a committee of the Board of Directors following a meeting of the board in the afternoon, at which Francis Lynde Stetson, counsel for Mr. Morgan, advised the meeting of the legal status of the company, and a conference just before dinner at the Morgan Library in Thirty-sixth Street, at which Mr. Morgan, Judge Gary, and Mr. Stetson were occupied for more than an hour.

The statement as first given out read that the Directors were not contemplating the dissolution of the corporation "either voluntarily or at the demand of the Government." Later Judge Gary had the statement amended so as to eliminate the phrase "at the demand of the Government" and substituting an expression of belief that the corporation was not subject to dissolution or disintegration by legal action.

The statement announcing the corporation's confidence in the legality of its organization, was given out by Judge Gary at his rooms in the Waldorf. It read:

> Pursuant to the unanimous vote of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation at a meeting held this afternoon, at which there were present J. Pierpont Morgan, H. C. Frick, Norman B. Ream, P. A. B. Widener, Robert Winsor, Elbert H. Gary, George W. Perkins, John F. Dryden, Samuel Mather, Daniel G. Reid, Henry Walter, James A. Farrell, and James H. Reed, the following statement is published:
>
> No negotiations whatever have taken place between the Steel Corporation and the Department of Justice looking to the dissolution or disintegration of the corporation. The corporation was organized for business reasons, and purchased its various plants to promote such business and not to restrain trade or obtain a monopoly. In all its operations the company has scrupulously observed the law and recognized the just rights of its competitors and the consumers of its products. So far as its Directors are aware, no complaint has ever been made against it by either of these interests. The Directors are advised by its counsel that its existence is not in violation of the Sherman act as interpreted in the recent decisions of the Supreme Court.
>
> In view of this record and this advice the Directors feel that their duty to their stockholders, their employes, and the public requires that they should set at rest all rumors to the effect that they are contemplating any voluntary dissolution or disintegration of the corporation or have any belief that it is subject to such dissolution or disintegration by legal action. We believe that the organization is legal, and that its management is proper. Its properties are of immense intrinsic value and the corporation is of benefit to the public interests.

The Rumors and their Effect.

Belief that the corporation would make an announcement of its position had been growing in Wall Street for several days, and last night's statement had been awaited with anxiety all day. It has been Judge Gary's policy, made increasingly apparent since the panic of 1907, to keep stockholders informed of the affairs of the corporation, and he is known to have fretted under the silence imposed on him since the rumors of a probable Government dissolution suit gained circulation early this month.

At the time it became known that the International Harvester Company was negotiating with the Department of Justice for acceptance of a plan of reorganization, which would settle the question of its legality without criminal prosecution, the report was circulated that similar negotiations were going on between the Attorney General and the United States Steel Corporation. The effect was an enormous volume of selling of the corporation's stocks in the market and the biggest slump in prices since the panic of 1907. The extent of the bear campaign may be realized from the fact that on one day of last week there were over 700,000 shares of Steel common traded in, and the combined sales for the past six days in the market amounted to over 2,500,000 shares, or about one-half of the total common stock capitalization. The slump put the common stock to 51⅛, which was 30⅛ points below the highest price of the year, and the lowest level since the upturn in 1909. The preferred shares also suffered severely, going to 103¾, the lowest price since the Summer of 1908, and 17⅝ points below the level of last February.

While the market was cutting tens of millions daily from the selling values of the Corporation's stocks, Judge Gary, who has for years been the spokesman of the Corporation, declined to talk. It was intimated that he would be silent until something more definite came from the Washington authorities than the vague rumors of probable prosecution and the inferences to be made from published interviews with Attorney General Wickersham. The market's interpretation of the situation yesterday was a heavy decline at the opening, though one less severe than on other days of the present slump. There was almost immediate improvement, however, when it became known that a meeting of the Directors of the Steel Corporation had been called for the afternoon.

The Day's Conferences.

Wall Street waited all day for a statement from the Steel Corporation officials. It had been plainly intimated that the corporation was anxious to enlighten its stockholders as far as possible and was awaiting only some statement of the attitude of the Department of Justice which might clarify the situation. It was conceded that Attorney General Wickersham's statement, issued on Monday night, was too vague to throw any real light on the question of whether or not a dissolution suit was to be instituted, but it was hoped that the meeting of the Directors and Finance Committee, called for yesterday afternoon, would bring forth an exposition of the corporation's position.

It was not until after the market closed that Judge Gary came out from the board meeting. He carried a paper which, he said, had been presented to the board, and read it to the assembled reporters. It was not of the nature that the Street had expected, however, but was confined to a review of the condition of the corporation's business.

The fact that J. Pierpont Morgan had attended the meeting, accompanied by Francis Lynde Stetson, his counsel, who is not a member of the board, confirmed the surmise that the board was discussing the situation developed by the persistent rumors of the corporation's danger of being involved in a Government suit if it did not voluntarily dissolve. When the meeting broke up it was stated that there would be further conferences uptown.

Among the Directors who came to 71 Broadway yesterday were, besides Judge Gary, Chairman of the board and of the Finance Committee, J. P. Morgan, George W. Perkins, Robert Winsor, Daniel G. Reid. Peter A. B. Widener, James A. Farrell, Henry Walters, Samuel Mather, and John F. Dryden.

The statement by Judge Gary while the meeting was in session read:

> Existing conditions are affecting business to the extent that instead of contracts being booked for forward delivery, customers are buying only for immediate requirements. Nevertheless, strange as it may seem, the volume of prompt business is larger than usual, specifications running upward of 30,000 tons a day. Of the 4,500,000 tons now on the books, of which 929,000 tons is inter-company business, it may be said that from the standpoint of mill operations it is better business than old-time order-book contracts of double the tonnage, inasmuch as it represents active business capable of specifications in sufficient volume as will require the operation of our mills on the present basis for some months to come.

Judge Gary's reference to "old-time order book contracts" was taken to mean that for some years now contracts once entered into with the corporation are hard and fast and not subject to cancellation or of being indefinitely deferred.

The statement avoided any explanation of the amount of new business coming in which, according to trade reports, has been small since Sept. 1. In August, during Judge Gary's absence in Europe, President Farrell made an announcement of conditions at the mills which put the orders at 3,584,000 tons, of which 850,000 was inter-company business. This would make an improvement of 837,000 tons since Aug. 1 in the unfilled tonnage exclusive of inter-company business, and of 916,000 tons in gross unfilled orders. Last year there was a steady falling off in unfilled orders each month from July 31 to Dec. 31, when the unfilled business had shrunk to 2,674,757 tons.

MRS. BRADY SITS ON HIM.

Holds Man She Accuses of Theft Until the Police Come.

James Maher, whom the Brooklyn police say is also known as Leonard Maher, of 5,825 Fifth Avenue, that borough, apparently forgot yesterday the folly of a certain class of criminals who are attracted by some strange impulse to the scene of their crimes. He rang the doorbell of 78 Ryerson Street, Brooklyn, where Mrs. Mary Brady, the widow of a policeman, rents furnished rooms.

Maher was looking for a furnished room, he said, and the police of the Classon Avenue Station say that Mrs. Brady has been looking since last February for a man who, after renting a room from her, disappeared with several suits of clothes and her husband's uniform, which she treasured. Mrs. Brady was living at 108 Ryerson Street when the theft was committed. She later moved to the present address.

Her visitor did not know that she had changed her address, and Mrs. Brady was glad he didn't. As soon as she opened the door she recognized him as the roomer who had made away with her property last February. She welcomed him with open arms, seized him, and threw him on the floor. She then sat on him until the police arrived to take charge of him. She had no difficulty in doing this. She weighs about 200 pounds, while Maher is in the featherweight class.

The prisoner was taken to the Classon Avenue Station, where he protested his innocence. He said he was a machinist, and that he was in the neighborhood of Mrs. Brady's home looking for a furnished room so as to be near the factory where he worked. He had an engineer's card in his pocket. The police found out that he was not known in the factory. He was locked up and will be arraigned in the Gates Avenue Court to-day charged with grand larceny.

BOMB VICTIM TO GO ARMED.

Judge Swann Gives an Italian Grocer a Permit to Carry a Revolver.

The fact that he had received letters signed by the Black Hand threatening his life won a permit to carry a revolver in any part of the State for Gaetano Sferrazza, theological student, grocer and ticket agent of 387 East Forty-fifth Street, who is appearing as the complaining witness against Salvatore Romano, Antonio Licchi, and Pasquale Lopipero, who are charged with twice dynamiting his little store and sending him threatening letters demanding $5,000.

The trial bean on Monday before Judge Swann, and the grocer and future priest took the stand and testified against the prisoners, telling of letters signed "Mano Nera" and bombs and threats against him and his relatives and condemning him to death unless he paid $5,000 to the "Mano Nera" at the Willis Avenue Bridge on a certain date. This sum was later reduced to $250 and Gaetano trapped them with marked bills.

Gaetano entered court yesterday wearing a broad smile, and, walking up to Judge Swann, handed him a package of letters. Judge Swann had also been smiling, but the smile faded as he read the letters, all of which warned Gaetano to get out of the country, as he must surely die if the prisoners were punished.

Judge Swann asked the grocer why he smiled when he received so many letters threatening his life in one day. Still smiling Gaetano replied:

"Ah, but these men fear the law; they are cowards at heart. I laughed at them at first and my store was destroyed, but they cannot harm me before my time comes. However, a revolver might help me."

Judge Swann looked in wonder at the little grocer, and a smile even broader than Gaetano's passed over his features as he wrote out a permit giving the complainant the right to carry a revolver in any part of the State for the protection of his life against "Mano Nera," his enemy.

The case will be continued to-day, when it is likely to go to the jury.

WITTPENN SWEEPS JERSEY CITY AGAIN

SLOW COUNT IN NEWARK

Not a Return In Up to Midnight, Owing to the New Law—Baird Holds Camden.

New Jersey held its first primary election yesterday under the new Geran election law. There was some confusion over the working of the new measure, but as a whole the election passed off quietly. The polls were open from 7 A. M. until 9 P. M., and it is doubtful when the count will be finished, as many of the polls were manned by men of little experience.

No State officers were voted for, the primary being confined to legislative, city, and county offices.

Incomplete returns in Jersey City indicate that Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn has swept the city, and has won a nomination for the Mayoralty on the Democratic ticket against the opposition of the "Big Six." In the ward of his opponent, Mark A. Sullivan, Wittpenn carried four of the districts by a substantial majority. The fight for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Hudson County, for which there were several candidates, appeared at a late hour to have narrowed down to a battle between Emil Groth and N. Peter Wedin, with Groth, the former Mayor of Union Hill, in the lead.

The Republican returns at midnight indicated that Andrew J. Knox would be that party's nominee for Mayor, and that former Mayor Mark M. Fagen would be the nominee for Sheriff. A large vote was cast in both primaries, and political experts said that the bitter contests in both Republican and Democratic primaries had brought out 80 per cent. of the voters who cast their ballots in the last Gubernatorial election in Hudson County.

Late returns indicate that the Democratic organization retains control of the County Committee, holding two-thirds of the membership. The remainder are Wittpenn men. Five members of "The Big Six," against which Wittpenn waged a winning fight for the Mayoralty nomination, were returned.

A printed slip was passed around among Democratic workers bearing the names of twelve Assembly candidates whom the workers were urged to support. The slip did not mention Thomas M. Donnelly, Peter H. James, James C. Agnew, William S. Davidson, and Charles E. S. Simpson, who supported the legislation urged last Winter by Gov. Wilson, and have been known in Hudson County as "Wilson Assemblymen."

The slips were in violation of the Corrupt Practices act, because they bore the name of no person or committee or organization responsible for them.

Owing to the complicated nature of the ballot not a single return had been received up to midnight from any of the districts in the City of Newark or Essex County, and it was admitted by the workers of the regulars and progressives of both the Democratic and Republican Parties that the result was very much in doubt.

Judge Martin in Control.

Declaring that he was ready to hold court in any part of Essex County if necessary Judge Martin of the Common Pleas Court was practically in command of the primary situation in Newark and its neighboring towns. The court announced that it was his judicial duty to see that fraud of any character was prevented. Judge Martin directed that every person arrested in the county for illegal voting was to be brought before him.

As early as 7 o'clock yesterday morning Judge Martin took his place on the bench in the Essex County Court House in Newark and repeated his dictum of Monday that all persons desiring to vote at the primaries must register for the general election and that challengers had a legal right in the polling places.

Without mentioning the name of City Counsel James R. Nugent of Newark, Judge Martin made reference to an opinion by Mr. Nugent with regard to the new Geran election law by saying that other persons had attempted to interpret the law differently from the ruling made by the court and emphatically announced that election officers who should heed such advice would do so at their own peril.

Mr. Nugent had caused an opinion to be published setting forth that a voter need not register for the general election in order to vote at the primaries and declared that Judge Martin's opinion or decision on the mooted points in the new election law was that of a lawyer and not of a Judge.

Under the new "fool proof" election laws, the primary was one of the most peaceful ever held in Newark. There was absolute harmony among the election officers, and there was an apparent effort on every side to assist in operating the Geran law and the Corrupt Practices act as smoothly as possible.

The early voting was light, but it was explained that this was doubtless due to the fact that all-day primaries are a new feature in the State. It was the first time in New Jersey that the polls were open for a longer time than at a general election.

BAIRD WINNING IN CAMDEN.

Wilson Victory Expected in Somerset —Princeton Professor Named.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—After an extremely heavy vote, returns at midnight indicated that the Baird forces had won the primary fight in Camden County, and that the Republican organization candidate, Lawyer William T. Read, would be nominated by a majority of about two to one over Senator William J. Bradley, the insurgent. It also appeared at that hour that Haines would land the Republican nomination for Sheriff.

Nothing had been heard from most of the counties, but it looked like a Wilson victory in Somerset, with George Lamonte leading for the Senatorial nomination, and A. M. Beekman for Assembly. In Monmouth, John T. Slocum was reported to have a good lead over Austin Beekman for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, while Leon R. Taylor and Elmer H. Geran were leading for the Assembly, with James Hendrickson running a close third.

Indications in Mercer County pointed to John E. Gill being high man for the Republican Assembly nominee, with George W. Adams second. The third place seemed to be a toss-up between Edgar Weart and Hervey S. Moore. The Democratic ticket looked to be Prof. Henry Jones Ford of Princeton, Israel G. Powell, and Leo Hughes. For Republican nominee for Sheriff, Fred Clymer of Yardville was leading Charles W. Mather by a slim plurality.

SAN FRANCISCO NAMES ROLPH

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 26.—Mayor McCarthy and the Union Labor administration were repudiated by an overwhelming vote to-day at the primary election. Out of a total vote of a little more than 70,000 James Rolph apparently has secured not less than 45,000, while the McCarthy vote will not be more than 20,000, and he may fall far below this figure.

The count is slow because of the length of the ticket and because machines are not used, but the early returns from all sections of the city show a veritable landslide for Rolph. On the first 600 votes Rolph had 451 to 175 for McCarthy. Later returns only increase the disparity in the vote. In every district where union labor is in complete control the result was the same. Masses of union workmen have turned against the Mayor.

Owing to the intense interest in the result on the head of the ticket little attention was paid in the early returns to other offices. To-day's primary election being the first held under the new law, the results are watched with more than ordinary interest. No party designations of any kind appeared on the ticket. The names of the candidates were printed in alphabetical order. This order was different in various districts. The returns of the Supervisors will not be completed for two days as there are 125 candidates for eighteen places. Under the new law those candidates receiving a clear majority are elected, but in case no one receives a majority the two highest candidates contest again at the regular election in November.

GANGMEN SHOOT VOTERS.

Dash Into Crowd at Primary and Escape, Leaving Three Wounded Men.

Three men, believed to be members of the Johnny Spanish gang, dashed into a crowd of voters in front of the Democratic polling place at 41 Second Avenue early last night, shot three men, threw their guns in the air, mingled with the crowd, and got away safely. The wounded men were:

The polling place was in the Tenth Assembly District, where former Coroner Solomon Goldenkranz, the present leader, was opposed by Dr. Morris J. Klein. There has been much friction between the followers of the two men, and additional policemen and Deputy Sheriffs were sent into the district in fear of a gang raid.

At 42 Second Avenue is the headquarters of Dr. Goldenkranz's club. The leader was discussing the progress of the voting with Deputy State Comptroller Julius Harburger, who recently resigned as leader, and several of his lieutenants when the three gang men ran into the crowd in front of the polling place and started shooting.

Immediately the crowd scattered, but in a few minutes it gathered again, and hundreds surrounded the three wounded men on the sidewalk. Half a dozen policemen, including Policeman Mahoney of the Fifth Street Station, were in the crowd. As Mahoney started to push his way through, two revolvers were thrown over his head. They fell on the heads of the excited men, and were handed over to the policeman. From one three shots had been fired. The other had not been discharged. Although a half a dozen men had seen the three raiders no trace could be found of the shooters.

Nearby was an automobile, and the three wounded men were lifted into the tonneau and hurried to Bellevue Hospital, where they were put on the operating table. The surgeons said that they would recover.

Both Dr. Goldenkranz and Dr. Klein declared that so far as they could learn the men were not members of their clubs. The wounded men said they didn't recognize the men who shot them, and that they had no enemies.

DADY WINS IN BROOKLYN.

Tie Over the Leadership in McCarren's Old District.

Primary contests in Brooklyn concerned only two Republican and four Democratic districts. In the First Assembly District Col. Michael J. Dady was again opposed by Morris U. Ely, a Yale graduate and young banker. Col. Dady retains the leadership by a vote of 1,216 to 993.

In the Nineteenth Assembly District the Republican primary contest was between Charles J. Haubert, the present leader, and Samuel Rea. Haubert was elected by 430.

The Democratic Party had four contests—in the Second, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and Twenty-third Districts.

The Fourteenth District vote was announced at a late hour last night as a tie. John McKeon, the leader for many years, was opposed by W. J. Carroll. The vote stood at 1,752 for each man. It was said that the election would be followed by a legal contest and that both sides would try to have some votes thrown out. This is the late Senator McCarren's district, and McKeon was his successor.

In the Fifteenth District John W. Carpenter, the leader, was opposed by James S. McQuade. The final count gave the victory to McQuade by a vote of 1,856 to 1,825.

In the Second District John J. Bridges was elected Democratic leader over James F. Farrell by 2,994 to 752.

In the Twenty-third District the Democratic contest was between James J. Monahan, leader, and Philip S. Riley. Riley obtained only 815 votes to Monahan's 2,370.

FOSS AND FROTHINGHAM WIN.

Both Candidates for Governor Far Ahead in Bay State Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—It is probable that Massachusetts, in its first State-wide primaries, to-day made the following nominations:

DEMOCRATIC.

For Governor—EUGENE N. FOSS of Boston.
For Lieutenant Governor—JOHN I. WALSH of Clinton.
For Secretary of State—FRANK J. DONAHUE of Boston.
For Treasurer—AUGUSTUS L. THORNDIKE of Brewster.
For Auditor—CHARLES B. STRECKER of Brookline.

REPUBLICAN.

For Governor—LOUIS A. FROTHINGHAM of Boston.
For Lieutenant Governor—ROBERT LUCE of Somerville.
For Secretary of State—ALBERT P. LANGTRY of Springfield.
For Treasurer—ELGRA STEVENS of Somerville.
For Auditor—JOHN E. WHITE of Tisbury.
For Attorney General—JOHN M. SWIFT of Fall River.

At midnight only a little more than one-third of the Commonwealth had been heard from, owing to the cumbrous ballot used, and to the further fact that in many places the voting did not take place until evening.

The vote of Boston was in by 11 o'clock, showing on the Democratic side 32,000 for Foss and 2,000 for Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, the last Independence League candidate for the Presidency; and on the Republican side 10,000 for Frothingham, 3,000 for Joseph Walker and 900 for Norman H. White. This proportion is maintained outside the city so far as heard from.

The vote thus far is about 40 per cent. of last year's, though in Boston the triangular contest over the head of the ticket served to call out more Republican voters than had been counted on. Taking the State as a whole, it appears that the Republican vote was about 35 per cent. of the normal, and the Democratic 55 per cent. Subsequent returns may change these ratios, but it is evident that a comparatively small number of voters interested themselves in the primary.

Frothingham's victory, more pronounced than had been expected, is ascribed to the tradition in Massachusetts politics by which the Lieutenant Governor has been made heir to the Governorship. Strenuous efforts were made by Walker and White to destroy this tradition, but their failure appears to have been complete.

The primaries were uneventful so far as is known, though in Boston there were several warm contests, notably for the clerkships of three county courts. In each case the incumbent was successful, being on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

In the Fourth Suffolk Senatorial District the Democrats threw down the candidates who had the backing of Congressman Curley and Mayor Fitzgerald.

plane. Both machines landed almost simultaneously.

"And may I ask if you would like to take a trip, Mr. Attorney General?" was the Postmaster General's greeting to Mr. Wickersham.

"No," the head law officer of the Government replied, "I have not yet made my peace with my family."

"In that case I have an advantage in flying matters," retorted the bachelor of the Cabinet, "for, you see, I have no family." Mr. Hitchcock, turning to those who came forward to greet him, stated that he returned from the air more convinced than ever that the aeroplane, even in its present state of development, has a great field of usefulness in the postal service. He said that he had in mind several places along the Colorado River near Yuma, Ariz., where he would like to see an aeroplane service installed. "And more than that," he added, "I would like to see the Post Office Department do something definite in this direction for the good effect it would have in stimulating the developmentof the machine. Fliers at present have many lean months between the meets where they may be remunerated for their work."

Mlle. Dutrieu's Short Flight.

The flight of Mlle. Dutrieu, which lasted only for a few minutes, brought out much comment from the men fliers.

For a short time before the flying commenced it looked as if the meet might come to a precipitate ending through a general desertion of aviators. Seven fliers, including all the army and navy men on the grounds, came to the judges' inclosure as the bombs were fired to announce the meet's opening. They reported that they would not fly until they had a better understanding of things, as some busy officials had managed to reverse decisions every few minutes so far, and had created an impression that the meet was being conducted mostly for the benefit of the foreign aviators. Mr. Woodruff gave the fliers a heart-to-heart talk in which he assured them that neither Grahame-White nor Sopwith was flying under a guarantee. They finally went to their hangars and brought out their machines. But their attitude toward the Aero Club's officials was not cheerful.

WHITE AND SOPWITH WIN.

Make Nearly Clean Sweep of Prize Money in Yesterday's Events.

Claude Grahame-White and T. O. M. Sopwith, the English aviators, made almost a clean sweep of the prize money yesterday, winning between them three firsts and two seconds, adding to their respective bankrolls the sums of $3,300 and $2,800 as the result of their work in the air up to date during the series.

Incidentally they had the first and last events to themselves, no others desiring to take competitive issue with the particularly fast monoplanes which they fly.

Others to share in the money division of the afternoon were Lee Hammond and Lieut. T. De Witt Milling, U. S. A., the latter winning the Hotel Knickerbocker prize of $1,000 by making a continuous flight of 1:54:42 3-5, which establishes a new world's record for passenger carrying, as he had two others, William Ecke and William Reber, with him in the wonderful feat. The two passengers weighed 140 and 112 pounds respectively, just getting outside the required total weight of 250 pounds called for by the rules.

In conjunction with this successful trial, and in an effort to land the $1,000, George W. Beatty made a flight of 29:18, having gotten off minutes before Lieut. Milling, but he was compelled to alight because of engine trouble.

Milling's long flight gives him a particularly strong lien on the Rodman Wanamaker Trophy, which promises to be a bone of contention for this type of contest up to and including the last day of the month.

There was especial comment made about the bomb-throwing contest won by Sopwith, who has won both events given for this style of game. It was considered strange that the army aviators, who are said to have been giving a great deal of attention to the matter of accuracy in throwing at a given mark, should be beaten by a civilian contestant.

That Sopwith is quite an adept at the game was again shown yesterday, when in the average of four throws he got the plaster of paris missiles to within 21 feet 10½ inches of the circle centre, just a bit poorer than his efforts of the previous day. Lee Hammond, who finished second, could make no better average than 92 feet, while the best effort of Grahame-White was 150 feet. During this event, as well as throughout the afternoon, there was a pretty brisk breeze blowing.

It was well after the appointed hour when the tournament began with the ten-mile race for monoplanes, which had as the only starters Grahame-White and Sopwith. They got away in that order with the latter carrying as his passenger, Capt. Patrick Hamilton, an English army officer and aviator, who expects to make some flights during the meet.

Both machines are equipped with 70-horsepower Gnome motors, and the manner in which they swooped around the mile and a quarter circuit with the additional weight was interesting. White's Nieuport, a machine built on beautiful lines, and the speed marvel of the meet, fulfilled expectations, and won easily from a time standpoint, averaging a shade over 62 seconds for each mile, with a total elapsed time of 10:21 4-5. White's best lap was clocked in 1:15 4-5, while Sopwith's best was his first, which he accomplished in 1:21, requiring 10:59 4-5 for the entire journey.

As in the case of the initial event, when it came to the cross-country race of twenty miles to Belmont Park, to Mineola, to Belmont Park and return only two machines turned out, these being White's and Sopwith's. The former made this victory number two for the afternoon by winging the distance in 16:38 2-5, whereas his countryman required 17:40.

It has been decided to hold the automobile versus aeroplane race, with Louis Disbrow and T. O. M. Sopwith as the principals, on Saturday, with the Motor Parkway as the scene. Summaries:

Passenger-Carrying Race; For Monoplanes; Ten Miles.—Won by Claude Grahame-White, (Nieuport;) Mechanician Carr, passenger. Time—10:21 4-5. Thomas O. M. Sopwith, (Bleriot;) Capt. Hamilton, passenger, second. Time—10:59 4-5.

Bomb-Throwing Contest; Four Throws; Best Average to Count.—Won by Thomas O. M. Sopwith, with average of 21 feet 10½ inches; Lee Hammond, with average of 92 feet, second.

Cross-Country Race; For Monoplanes; Twenty Miles.—Won by Claude Grahame-White, (Nieuport.) Time—16:38 2-5. Thomas O. M. Sopwith, (Bleriot,) second. Time—17:40 15-16.

Longest Flight; Hotel Knickerbocker $1,000 Prize.—Won by Lieut. T. De Witt Milling, U. S. A. Time—1:54:42 3-5. New world's record.

GRESSER FEELS RELIEVED.

This Is All Deposed Borough President Will Say—Cassidy Triumphant.

Within less than an hour of the closing of the polls in the bitterly fought primary contest between Joseph Cassidy and the anti-Cassidy factions in Queens news was received there from Albany of the removal of President Gresser. Like a whirlwind it spread from Long Island City to the remotest polling places in the Rockaways. Through the Ridgewood section, Richmond Hill, Jamaica, and Flushing the news took wing, making Cassidy followers jubilant and Gresser men disheartened. Through Corona and Elmhurst it spread joy and dismay, according to the political line-up.

Cassidy's Democratic Clubhouse, in Court Square, Long Island City, was turned into a scene of rejoicing. Out at the Shinnecock Democratic Club, in Flushing, where former Sheriff Herbert S. Harvey and other prominent anti-Cassidy men have their headquarters, there was a hasty gathering of Gresser adherents.

Before the news reached Queens President Gresser had left his home, in Glendale, to visit a polling place. When he returned home he was informed of the decision of Gov. Dix.

"How do you feel concerning the decision?" he was asked.

"I am relieved, greatly relieved. I feel as if a big load was taken away. I feel as if I had regained my independence of action. But I will not be quoted until I receive official notification from the Governor."

To all other questions the deposed President had but one reply to make:

"I have nothing to say."

The news seemed a surprise among the Gresser Cabinet. John H. Booth, secretary to President Gresser, said the decision was unexpected. It was also unexpected to Walter H. Bunn, Commissioner of Public Works.

For the time being the primary was forgotten and all interest centred on the question of who would be selected by the five local Aldermen of Queens to fill the vacancy.

Ever since his defeat for re-election at the polls six years ago Joseph Cassidy has been a standing candidate for the office. He has been accused of supporting the charges which led to Gresser's downfall, with the sole end in view of getting the office for himself.

Ever since the charges were made Cassidy has contended that he controls three of the Aldermen and will succeed to the vacant office. He was of the same opinion last night. Other candidates in the race are Police Magistrate Maurice Connolly, Consulting Engineer Leonard C. L. Smith, James P. Hicks, who are all anti-Cassidy men. In addition to Cassidy David L. Van Nostrand is mentioned in the event of Cassidy's failure to win over three Aldermen. Sheriff Thomas M. Quinn is also mentioned in connection with the position, and also former Sheriff Herbert S. Harvey.

As far as could be learned last night Aldermen Daniel Entholt of Long Island City and Frederick Snell of Bayside, both Democrats, are decidedly opposed to Cassidy. Alderman Edward Brady of Far Rockaway, who it is said leaned to both sides at different times and is now away from his home, is said to have gone over to Cassidy, who also has the support of Alderman August Dujat of Corona. W. August Shipley of Jamaica is the only Republican from Queens, and if the Democrats are divided between two candidates he may have the deciding vote.

Following the news at the polls dozens of anti-Cassidy voters who were waiting to cast their ballots left the polls, and for the last half hour or so the Cassidy men practically had the polls to themselves.

NEW PRESIDENT TO-DAY.

At Least a Plan Is Afoot to Force Immediate Action by Mayor.

Charles Pope Caldwell, counsel for the civic societies that made charges against Gresser, explained last night that the Mayor should convene the Queens Aldermen "forthwith" to elect a new Borough President. It was decided to keep a close watch on the office of the County Clerk, with whom Gov. Dix will file a copy of his order for Mr. Gresser's removal. Mr. Caldwell will get a certified copy of this order at the earliest practicable moment after it is filed, and will then speed in a high-powered automobile to the office of Mayor Gaynor in the City Hall for the purpose of formally serving him with the notice.

"Under the requirement that Mayor Gaynor summon the Aldermen forthwith," said Mr. Caldwell, "he will be required to call them together to-morrow afternoon—that is, if I can serve him with the Governor's order early enough."

The political movement which came to a conclusion last night, originated in a raid on President Gresser's office on April 5, 1910, when William F. Roselle and twelve other taxpayers battered heavy dents into the door of President Gresser's office in Long Island City because they had been excluded from what was alleged to be a public hearing on a charge of graft against a Gresser appointee.

Following the battering of the office door a committee of 100 citizens was formed for the purpose of visiting Gov. Hughes. They filed a petition on April 12, asking for a special prosecuting officer to care for cases they proposed to bring before the Grand Jury, and for the removal of the Borough President. Gov. Hughes granted the request for the Special Deputy Attorney General, and subsequently ninety-three indictments against President Gresser and nineteen other borough officials were returned, most of them on evidence obtained by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick. On Sept. 20, 1910, Samuel H. Ordway was appointed to take testimony as to Mr. Gresser's fitness to retain office, the indictment against him having been dismissed.

Mr. Ordway's work, which occupied eight months, was completed early this Summer, and several delegations have visited Gov. Dix since his report was filed.

CASSIDY WINS AT PRIMARIES.

Had Polls to Himself After Gresser's Removal Became Known.

Joseph Cassidy, the Democratic "boss" of Queens, carried three out of the four Assembly districts by a large majority in the Democratic primary fight in that borough yesterday.

Cassidy carried the First, Third, and Fourth Districts, the Second being carried by the anti-Cassidy forces.

In the First District, consisting of Long Island City, Cassidy himself was elected leader. Cassidy's majority in the four districts was estimated last night at about 2,000. The victory gives Cassidy control of the County Committee, the County Convention, and of a majority of the delegates to the Judiciary Convention.

Sheriff Thomas M. Quinn swore in 250 Deputy Sheriffs to help preserve order at the polls in Queens. When Gov. Dix's decision removing Borough President Gresser became known Cassidy had the polls to himself. There was no contest among the Republicans, who elected the following leaders: First Ward—Theron H. Burden; Second Ward—Joseph De Bragga; Third Ward—Frank H. Hulbert; Fourth Ward—Peter L. Menninger; Fifth Ward—George Vreeland.

ROBBER AND CLERK BATTLE IN A BANK

Desperado Finally Disarmed and Held for Belleville, N.J., Police by His Antagonist.

MEANT TO LOOT THE VAULT

Chloroform Found in a Bag, the Police Say, Was Meant to Overcome the Bank Employes.

Three shots fired in the corridor of the First National Bank of Belleville, N. J., at 8 o'clock yesterday morning brought Elmer Peterson, the negro janitor, from the basement on a run. When he reached the top of the stairs he saw Donald H. Cameron, junior clerk of the bank, holding a smoking revolver at the head of a well-dressed stranger. Cameron's face was bleeding from several wounds.

Peterson drew his own revolver and called to his wife to bring a policeman. Patrolman William Sullivan hurried to the bank and put handcuffs on the stranger. He said he was Samuel A. Hamilton of Chicago. After the prisoner had been taken to the Belleville jail and Cameron's wounds had been dressed by Dr. John F. Condon, the young bank clerk gave this account of what had happened.

"As I was entering the bank at 7:50 this man came up with a satchel in his hand and said he was in a hurry to deposit $900 because he had to catch a train to Pittsburgh. He followed me into the bank, and as I opened the door of the cashier's cage he thrust a revolver at the back of my neck and told me to put up my hands.

"I turned around quickly and grabbed his pistol arm. The gun went off once while we were rolling on the floor, and I managed to get hold of it. I marched him into the Directors' room with his hands up, but there he sprang at me. He got the gun away from me, and I had to fight to get it back. The second time I got it I fired three shots to give the alarm."

In the prisoner's suitcase were found two bottles of chloroform and several handkerchiefs. According to the police, he admitted that he intended to use the drug in overcoming the employes of the bank before he looted its vault. The prisoner said he had been a college football player, and professed surprise at the fight the young bank clerk had given him.

WILLED MYTHICAL MILLIONS.

Mrs. White in Error Mentioned a Bank Balance of $8,787,000.

Although possessed of only about $8,000 personal property, Mrs. Annie T. White, who died in St. Luke's Hospital on Aug. 22, wrote in a will which she drew up herself shortly before her death:

"From my present balance of $8,787,000 at Messrs. Brown Brothers & Co., my bankers, I give $5,000 to my sister, Kate Hagerdorn."

At the office of Brown Brothers it was said that the balance was in the neighborhood of $8,787 and that Mrs. White must have meant to write this, when she added the extra ciphers.

There are several bequests in the will, and Mrs. White provided for the distribution of her numerous pieces of jewelry among many friends, but nowhere did she mention her husband, Charles Ezra White, whose home is in England. Among Mrs. White's bequests are these:

Two hundred and fifty dollars to the Alumnae Association of St. Luke's Hospital; Skin and Cancer Hospital, $200; French Hospital, $200; American Hospital, Paris, France, $200; St. Mark's Hospital, $200; Miss Morse, head nurse in the Plant Pavilion, St. Luke's Hospital, a gold purse.

"To my dear physician and dear friend Dr. William C. Calhoun, $750 and sleeve links.

"To my friend and counsel, Mr. Charles B. Samuels of Coudert Brothers, $500 and diamond ring"; $1,000 is also bequeathed to Mr. Samuels if he remains one of her executors.

Jewelry and clothing is left to various friends and nurses at St. Luke's Hospital. Coudert Brothers, George Acheson of Brown Brothers, and Mrs. Hagerdorn are named as executors.

CHARITABLE THIEF FREED.

Employers He Robbed to Help the Poor Will Take Him Back.

Richard Pacharz, the self-confessed embezzler, who gave all of the $6,000 he stole from his employers, Harris Brothers & Burnett of 546 Broadway to charity, received a suspended sentence from Judge Swann in General Sessions yesterday. Pacharz is a Grand Master in the Odd Fellows, and at the time of his arrest, early last month, surprised Judge Swann by declaring that every cent of the money he stole went to the poor and afflicted. Judge Swann had him remanded to the Tombs for a month and ordered an investigation of the story. This was completed last week and resulted in showing that Pacharz told the truth.

When arraigned in court yesterday Pacharz was crying and said: "I can ask no mercy for myself, but I pray that you may show a little consideration for my wife."

Judge Swann replied that he was not moved to clemency by sentiment, but because his best investigators could only report that everything the prisoner had stolen had gone to charity and that every one spoke of him in the highest terms. His employers also joined in the plea for clemency and promised to give him employment. Judge Swann said:

"Your thefts were not due to greed or avarice, but were the result of a noble and misguided impulse."

The courtroom was crowded with the prisoner's friend, and he was almost overwhelmed with congratulations when he stepped into the corridor. The prisoner himself was hysterical with joy at his release.

CROWDED LINER IN, PIER LIGHTS GO OUT

TOOK OFFICERS' CABINS

Crowded to her full cabin capacity with returning Americans and visiting foreigners, the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. arrived at her Hoboken pier last night. The band was playing "Wacht am Rhein," the passengers on board and their friends on shore were cheering when at 6:30 o'clock the gangplanks were put out. The crowd of 588 first and 843 second cabin passengers started to rush to the pier floor to greet waiting relatives and then something happened and the lights went out. For forty minutes the pier was in complete darkness and not a passenger was permitted to leave the ship. It was explained that something had gone wrong with the dynamos on the piers. Scores of passengers begged to be permitted to land in the darkness, but the customs officers were firm.

In the years that she has been in commission it is doubtful if the big Kaiser ever landed a more distinguished lot of passengers. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould and their children, including Jay Gould and his bride; Charles Page Bryan, the new American Ambassador to Japan; Andreas Dippel, Director of the Chicago Opera Company; Count Moltke, the Danish Minister to the United States; the Princess Leopoldine von Ratibor, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, and Mrs. Butler; Pasquale Amato, Prof. Wilhelm Stengel, Benjamin Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Cowperthwait, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean, Fernando Tanara, Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant, and A. Piatt Andrew, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Four Lucky Passengers.

The Kaiser had among her passengers four who had been booked for the White Star liner Olympic and who managed to get on board the Kaiser when she called at Cherbourg last Wednesday. In this quartet were Ambassador Bryan and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrew. The Olympic sailed from Southampton an hour ahead of the Kaiser and twenty minutes after the liner was rammed by the cruiser Hawke, the Kaiser passed the returning British ship, but the passengers did not see the great hole made by the bow of the Hawke, as the Kaiser passed her on the undamaged side. A heavy mist prevailed at the time and Capt. Cuppers said that it was impossible to get a good view of the Olympic, the only thing that was noticeable being the distinct list of the injured liner.

There were over 300 saloon passengers waiting for the Olympic at Cherbourg, and by the time the Kaiser arrived off the French port those passengers had learned of the collision and knew that the Olympic was not coming. These passengers went out to the Kaiser on board the Olympic's tender and beseeched Capt. Cuppers to take them on board and bring them to New York. Capt. Cuppers said it made his heart ache to refuse them, but he did not have a stateroom that was not occupied with its full quota of passengers.

Mr. Bryan, who was among those on the Olympic's tender, managed to get the ear of Capt. Cuppers and told the skipper that it was absolutely necessary that he get to the United States as soon as possible since he was to sail for Japan soon after his arrival in this country. Capt. Cuppers decided that as he was the accredited Ambassador of a friendly nation to a great power he would try and get him sleeping space in the second engineer's cabin.

Followed by the envious glances of the disappointed ones left on the tender, Mr. Bryan climbed on board the Kaiser. Behind him went Mr. Andrew and two others of those who had booked by the Olympic. The Kaiser was under way and headed for Sandy Hook when the purser found out that he had four instead of one of the Olympic's passengers to care for. The second engineer's cabin was not big enough, and finally the second steward was summoned and he was informed that he would have to give up his room to the Ambassador to Japan and the Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury. He did so gracefully. Sleeping space for the other two passengers was found in two of the already crowded staterooms.

When THE TIMES reporter found Ambassador Bryan he said that the voyage had been a splendid one, and that he was as happy as a schoolboy over the fact that his homecoming, short as it was to be, had not been delayed as a result of the Olympic-Hawke collision. Speaking of Belgium, where he was United States Minister before his transfer to Tokio, he said that country was the greatest commercially in Europe when its size is taken into consideration. He spoke enthusiastically of King Albert, the young ruler of the Belgians.

"He is a magnificent man," said Ambassador Bryan, "and has made himself the idol of his people. No ruler could be more loved than he. He goes everywhere in his country. He is wise and just, and both he and his Queen are idolized by the Belgians. As for my transfer to Tokio, I am glad to be able to go to that wonderful country. I shall sail for Yokohama from San Francisco next month."

Mr. Gould Tells of His Trip.

George J. Gould said that he and his family had been away since last June. They had spent a quiet Summer, owing to the recent death of Mrs. Kingdon, the mother of Mrs. Gould. The body of Mrs. Kingdon was brought to New York on the Kaiser, and Mr. Gould said that it would be buried in Woodlawn at a date yet to be selected.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Gould and Jay and Mrs. Gould those of the family who returned on the Kaiser were Miss Edith and little Miss Gloria and Kingdon and George J. Gould, Jr. The family had the best accommodations on the ship, to get which Mr. Gould paid to the North German Lloyd Line 45,000 marks, (about $11,200.)

"We went abroad," said Mr. Gould, "on the yacht Atalanta and called on the way to Spain at the Azores, where I rode to the summit of an extinct volcano and looked down upon three little villages several hundred feet down on the inside of the crater. I went up the mountain on a mule, but I came down on foot. The sight of those little villages in that crater with people walking about in the streets was one of the most wonderful I have ever seen."

Leaving the Azores the Goulds went to San Sebastian, Spain, and thence to Scotland, where Mr. Gould rented a house near Inverness for the shooting season. They also spent a short time in London with their daughter, Lady Decies.

Speaking of business conditions abroad, Mr. Gould said that in France and Germany the outlook was not the best at one time, owing to the Moroccan controversy, but that when he left a peaceful settlement of the controversy was imminent and improvement was everywhere noticeable. He said he believed that the recent break in the New York stock market was due to a large extent to foreign selling. He said that reports he had received from this side were optimistic.

Dr. Butler Regrets Senate Delay.

President Butler of Columbia regretted that the Senate had failed during its last session to ratify the arbitration treaties between France and England and the United States. He said the failure to ratify them had injured the reputation of this country abroad. He added that he hoped the Senate would set the country right in regard to the treaties soon after it convened this Winter. Speaking of Canadian reciprocity, he deplored the defeat of the Liberals in Canada and praised the statesmanship of President Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He said Sir Wilfrid in the present instance was ahead of the public opinion of his country, and that he believed reciprocity would yet win.

Mr. Guggenheim said that a change of conditions in America depends largely on the future attitude of Congress toward corporations.

SEE DIX ABOUT BOXING CLUB.

Dixon and Weeks in Albany—Attorney General to Pass on Lease.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—The fate of the Madison Square Athletic Club, which recently has conducted boxing bouts in Madison Square Garden under the State Athletic Commission act, which was passed by the Legislature and approved by Gov. Dix last July, will not be decided until the Attorney General has given to Gov. Dix an opinion on the legality of the lease of the Garden by the club. This announcement was made in the Executive Chamber this evening after the Governor had conferred with Major John J. Dixon of the State Athletic Commission and Bartow S. Weeks of New York, a lawyer, who accompanied him. It is understood also that the Attorney General has been asked to suggest some amendments to the act by which the powers of the Commissioners may be more clearly defined.

The Governor expects to hear from Attorney General Carmody by to-morrow, and he may make known whatever decision it is in his power to make then. It was also intimated that the Governor at the same time may fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. E. Sullivan of New York as a member of the commission.

While it is not known that Gov. Dix personally would favor the revocation of the Madison Square Athletic Club's license, he could attain that end only by displacing the present Commissioners by others who would carry out his wishes. Major Dixon has consistently opposed the course recommended by the Governor, and there was every indication that his talk with Gov. Dix was not altogether pleasant.

ALBANY INQUIRY TO BEGIN.

First Session Next Tuesday—$25,000 More Needed for Expenses.

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—Public hearings on the investigation into the condition of affairs in the City and County of Albany will be begun before the Senate Committee appointed for that purpose next Tuesday, at 11 A. M., according to an announcement made to-day by Chairman Bayne, following a long talk with James W. Osborne, counsel for the committee. The sessions will be held in the Senate Chamber.

Mr. Osborne has been here for some time preparing for the inquiry. He detailed to Senator Bayne the result of his findings to date. Later Senator Bayne said he felt satisfied that there was much work to be done. With Mr. Osborne he called upon Gov. Dix and stated that $50,000 instead of $25,000 would be needed to conduct the investigation in view of certain developments which they did not believe they should make known at this time.

On the assurance of Senator Bayne that he believed the results of the inquiry would justify the expenditure of this money the Governor gave his approval to the proposed increased appropriation.

LEGISLATURE TO END WITHOUT MUCH DONE

Leaders, Determined to Adjourn This Week, Send Out a Hurry Call to Members.

DIX WON'T AID CHARTER BILL

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—With the legislative leaders determined that the present session of the Legislature, which already is the longest in the history of the State, must terminate this week, the greatest uncertainty prevails at the Capitol with regard to the prospect of having a quorum on hand to-morrow when the legislative grind is scheduled to begin in real earnest. Incidentally, the success or failure of the Democratic programme is at stake.

Messages have been sent broadcast throughout the State admonishing lawmakers of the Democratic faith that to-morrow the "organization" expects every man to do his duty. But to-night only a handful of legislators have reached the Capitol, and it looks, indeed, as though it would be a very thin line of heroes to man the legislative guns when the gavel falls to-morrow. In the Senate arrangements have been made to defer the opening of the session until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, an unusual hour for a body that always has been accustomed to convene at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

From talks with the men who hold leading positions in the Legislature it would appear as though the thought of passing legislation was not so strong upon them as the desire to adjourn. They seem to realize at last that the eyes of the people are upon them, and that the Democratic constituencies throughout the State are likely to frown upon a further continuance of the programme of delay and nonperformance that has made the session of the present Legislature stand out ignominously in the legislative annals of the State.

"For the good of the party we should get through and get out of here before the bulk of the Assembly nominations are made," said Majority Leader Alfred E. Smith of the Assembly. "We have been here too long as it is."

"We expect to go to the bat to-morrow afternoon and finish up our work at once," said Senator Thomas F. Grady, who, with Senator Wagner confined to his sick bed, finds himself in the coveted position of Senate leader.

It may be stated on the best authority that neither Senator Grady nor Majority Leader Smith of the Assembly feels at all certain that the Tammany-made charter that they had planned to foist on the city of New York will pass despite the hundreds of amendments that have been made to cure errors or conciliate the opposition.

Gov. Dix to-day, after receiving a memorial from a number of civic organizations in New York, refused point blank to give the leaders an emergency message that would have made it possible for them to railroad the charter through at the opening session to-morrow, provided they had the votes. As a result consideration of the charter has been put off until Friday in order to comply with the clause of the legislative law requiring that a measure must be on the files of members in its final printed form for at least three legislative days before put on final reading.

About the only bill pending before the Legislature the enactment of which seems certain is the Congress reapportionment bill. That measure and the Gittins race track bill in fact are the only measures which the Tammany contingent in the Legislature really has at heart. The New York City charter has been amended to a point where Tammany no longer takes the vital interest in it that it once did. And as for direct primaries on which Gov. Dix will memorialize the Legislature in a special message to-morrow, neither the Democratic nor the Republican leaders can see the necessity of living up to platform pledges which in their estimation the voters have already forgotten or do not care anything about.

The Senate met to-day with two of its members in attendance—Senators Grady and Fiero. In the Assembly there were three.

FOR TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, Sept. 26.—The unveiling of two bronze tablets in as many new pavilions of the State Hospital for Incipient Tuberculosis at Ray Brook at noon to-day, marks the cumination of a hospital extension which doubles the capacity of the institution. The tablets commemorate the work of Dr. John H. Pryor of Buffalo, and the late Willis G. MacDonald of Albany, for whom the new wards are named. The cost of the additions is about $200,000.

The completed hospital will enable about 600 patients to be treated yearly. The use of the new pavilions absorbs a waiting list of some 150 applicants. Applicants were frequently forced to wait five or six months, during which they passed from the curable to the incurable stage of tuberculosis. It often happened that when there was finally room for a patient his condition was so poor that he could not be received, or could not respond to the treatment if admitted. The opening of the new wards reduces the waiting list to ten or twelve.

The hospital property is now valued at $500,000, including 516 acres of farm and forest lands. It consists of an administration building and four wards, connected by pavilions. Patients live the open air life the year 'round, and the hospital has a record of curing 76 to 84 per cent. of all incipient cases. An employes' building, to cost $65,000, is now under construction.

ITALIAN FLEET IS OFF TRIPOLI

the empire is stated to be perceptibly declining.

"Whatever turn the Tripolitan crisis may take, it is difficult to imagine that it will leave the Young Turkish system unaffected, and a grave problem is whether the Ottoman Empire possesses sufficient reserve of strength to be able to swap horses while crossing the stream and whether the nearest neighbors of Turkey would for a second time remain passive spectators of such a change.

"The serious fall in Turkish securities that began yesterday and continued to-day on the Vienna Stock Exchange was caused mainly by inability to give a satisfactory answer to these questions."

Thirteen Warships Pass Malta.

VALLETTA, Sept. 26.—The local papers publish the statement that thirteen Italian vessels have been observed proceeding in the direction of Tripoli in the last twenty-four hours.

It is not stated whether the vessels were warships or transports.

VIENNA, Sept. 26.—It is reported here that three Italian warships have arrived at Tripoli and are cruising before the harbor.

Six thousand troops have assembled at Palermo ready for embarkation.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—A dispatch to Le Temps from Rome says that Italian cruisers have left naval ports with the object of intercepting Turkish transports en route to Tripoli.

The Turkish Ambassador to France, Rifaat Pasha, said to-day that he did not know whether Italy designed to attempt to occupy Tripoli, but Turkey would maintain the integrity of her empire. Tripoli, unlike Bosnia and Herzegovina, was not divided by races or religions, the Ambassador added. All the inhabitants were Mohammedans. Tripoli was not a colony, but a vital member of the Turkish Empire.

The Ambassador said that nothing could have led him to suspect such action as, apparently, Italy was now taking. He knew what he was talking about, for he had been Foreign Minister in the past few months. If there had been any cause for complaint with respect to Tripoli he would have known about it. On the contrary, Italy had always declared that the basis of her policy was the integrity of the Ottoman Empire.

Fifaat Pasha repeated that Italy had not the slightest shadow of pretext for her threatened operations. He had read in the press that Italy had obtained the adhesion of the powers to her plans, but he knew from a sure source that Italy had not communicated to the powers a precise claim, and therefore could not have received their adhesion.

In an interview in Le Matin the Italian Ambassador to France, Dr. Tittoni, said he did not wish to enter into a discussion with the Turkish Ambassador. He had no doubt of the latter's good faith, but he reserved the right of holding other opinions. Since Rifaat Pasha had revived his experiences as Foreign Minister, he himself would do likewise, and recall the fact that when he was Italian Foreign Minister three years ago he had censured in vigorous language the proceedings of Turkey in Tripoli, declaring that such methods introduced into European politics would speedily result in war. Turkey on that occasion had given satisfaction by recalling an official, but had made no material change in her methods.

The manner in which the Turkish Ambassador was defending the present administration, said Dr. Tittoni, deprived the Italian Government of all hope that Turkey would mend her ways, and there was no alternative but for Italy to pursue her course energetically in order to save her dignity and interests.

Italian Reserves Called Out.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—An Italian naval squadron which is now at Augusta, near Syracuse, Sicily, under Admiral Aubrey, is under orders to be in readiness to sail at a moment's notice for Tripoli.

Fresh reserves have been called out for service if necessary against Turkey.

These belligerent measures are causing great alarm among the extensive Italian colonies in the Ottoman Empire. They fear Mussulman fanaticism, which would expose them to massacre.

About 5,000 Italian residents of Turkey have already left their homes, either returning to Italy or seeking refuge in Malta, Tunis, Egypt, or the Balkan States. Nearly 30,000 others have applied to the Italian Consuls for the necessary funds for repatriation.

Although the situation is considered very grave, the hope is still entertained that a conflict will be avoided, as, notwithstanding official denials, negotiations are now going on with a view to inducing Turkey to agree to some form of Italian protectorate over Tripoli, which would preserve the sovereignty of Turkey. This proposal includes also a considerable payment to the Sultan, the amount of which has been increased very materially in the past few days.

In the meantime, the mobilization of troops has been going on. These are being employed by the Government to put down the Anarchist, revolutionary, and Socialist attempts at creating disorders, which in certain instances have gone as far as the removal of railway tracks in order to prevent the concentration of the soldiers.

TRIPOLI, Sept. 26.—Foreigners are alarmed at the situation growing out of the reported intention of Italy to occupy Tripoli in defiance of the Turkish Government.

An Arab revolt is feared.

All foreigners who can do so are fleeing hastily. Every available boat leaving here is crowded with Europeans.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26.—The Italian Embassy having called attention to alleged attempts to incite the Arab population of Tripoli against the Italian residents and having recommended the abandonment of the dispatch of war material by Turkey to Tripoli as likely to lead to regrettable incidents, the Porte to-day addressed a note to the embassy refuting the allegations and stating that measures had been adopted to maintain order.

Warlike rumors have again been current to-day, but their truth was denied in competent quarters.

Italy's Ultimatum.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 27.—A news dispatch from Rome yesterday afternoon said:

"It is announced here that the Italian Chargé d'Affaires at Constantinople has presented to the Porte a note to the effect that any dispatch of Turkish military transports to Tripoli will be regarded as a most serious action."

Another telegram from Rome says that a general strike throughout Italy will be declared within twenty-four hours. The Socialists have arranged for the movement as a protest against the occupation of Tripoli, and it is expected that the strike will be enforced in all the principal cities. The Socialists alone of the Italian people oppose the Tripolitan programme of the Government, it is asserted.

It is learned on high authority that the view of the Porte is that if Italy is not seeking territory or a protectorate over Tripoli, the removal of the present tension will not prove difficult, the Ottoman Government being ready to consider any reasonable claims Italy has to make.

It is understood that the Italian Government repudiates the suggestion that it is seeking compensation for Morocco or territorial expansion, but complains that Turkey has offered systematic opposition to every attempt at pacific Italian expansion and development in Tripoli. Italy is fully determined to insist that she be no longer placed in such a position of infericrity.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Though without direct interest in the issue between Italy and Turkey concerning Tripoli, so long as the "open door" is maintained and American treaty rights are respected, the State Department officials are watching developments with the keenest interest.

The opinion was expressed to-day that the issue would be settled peaceably. The basis for this belief is the conviction that the five powers which united in the Treaty of Berlin in a practical guarantee of the territorial integrity of Turkey are not now ready to have that bulwark of peace swept away, and will consequently bring pressure to bear upon Italy and Turkey to effect an adjustment of the difficulty.

It is believed that Germany, above all nations in Europe, is interested in preventing a rupture between two nations with which she is connected by solemn treaty obligations and ties of the closest friendship, so some movement in the direction of mediation is expected on the part of the Kaiser in the immediate future.

The Daily Telegraph's Rome correspondent says that late news from Tripoli indicates that the attitude of the Turks is becoming increasingly threatening. Groups of fanatics parade the streets shouting "Death to the Italian!"

The Daily Telegraph's Constantinople correspondent learns tht instructions have been sent to Tripoli to oppose by force any attempted Italian landing, while the Cabinet has decided to summon the reserves and the War Office is working at high pressure.

"This activity," says the correspondent, "may be explained by a report which is current that an agreement has been concluded whereby Austria promises, in the event of Italian occupation of Tripoli, to make a military demonstration on the Italian frontier. In return for this support Turkey will take steps to counteract Slav influence in the Balkan States in favor of Austria.

"Furthermore, a similar agreement, it is reported, has been concluded with Roumania in the event of an outbreak in the Balkans."

EXPLAINS TURKEY'S CASE.

Ambassador to United States Thinks There Will Not Be War.

BELLPORT, L. I., Sept. 26.—Zia Bey Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador to the United States, stated to-night that he had as yet received no instructions from the Porte to invoke the good offices of the American Government in the way of restraining Italy from hostile action in Tripoli. A dispatch from Constantinople yesterday said that all Turkish representatives abroad had been requested to act in this direction.

Should such instructions be received, the Ambassador said, he would not be surprised, for it would be entirely in accord with the Treaty of Paris of 1856, to which the United States subscribed, and by which the powers undertook to guarantee the integrity of the Ottoman Empire. This guarantee of integrity was reiterated in the treaty signed at Berlin in 1876.

Zia Bey believes that the Tripoli dispute will be settled without recourse to war. He is entirely familiar with every phase of that question, and during his long and varied diplomatic service at St. Petersburg, Berlin, and Paris has had opportunities to follow at close diplomatic range its various aspects and developments. He is, moreover, an authority on international law, and is now engaged in translating an important treatise on that subject from French into Turkish.

"Remember," said the Ambassador, "that Tripoli is a province of Turkey. According to some dispatches, Italy would try to take that province and make it an Italian protectorate. When France took Tunis, Italy, which had declared herself disinterested in Tunis, received from France the recognition that Italy had predominant rights in Tripoli; in other words, that she had in Tripoli a special sphere of influence, on account of her nearness and her special commercial relations.

"You might draw a parallel between this and the United States and Canada. The United States is one the border of Canada, and she has special economic interests in that country, but it would be ridiculous to say because of those conditions that the United States has the right to take Canada merely because some other country says she has a sphere of influence there.

"Tripoli is a province of Turkey," the Ambassador repeated, "and Turkey means to guard it. The new Turkey, the young Turkey of union and progress, has built up a strong and loyal army. Our fleet cannot, perhaps, compare with the fleet of Italy, but our army is mighty. Like every country, we have some political dissensions at home. In the case of Turkey, the Government of union and progress is opposed by a small minority party of extreme radicalism. That is the internal question. It will be regulated. But when it comes to aggression from abroad Turkey stands united to a man to defend her rights."

It was mentioned to the Ambassador that sentiment in Germany was reported as fearing a general European conflict in case of hostilities between Turkey and Italy, and as fearing particularly the long-anticipated conflict in the Balkan States.

"In the event of war," said the Ambassador, "Turkey's military strength is such that she will be able to take care of the Balkans and at the same time defend her rights in Tripoli against Italy. But Turkey does not want war. She is happy to be on friendly terms with all nations, including Germany and the United States. In my opinion, as I said before, war will not come with Italy. Turkey stands for fair play and for compromise when compromise means honorable peace. Such a compromise, it is conceivable, might follow the lines of recognizing Italy's particular economic interests in Tripoli. I am, however, merely expressing my personal opinion."

Zia Bey has a Summer cottage here. Advices relative to the Tripoli controversy are coming to him direct from Constantinople.

DECRIES COLLEGE DRINKING.

Chancellor Avery Says R. T. Crane's Views Demand Attention.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 26.—Decrying the abuse of intoxicants at university social functions, Chancellor Samuel Avery, at the convocation of the University of Nebraska to-day declared he agreed with R. T. Crane of Chicago, as to intemperance in educational institutions.

"I have noticed an attack on the moral conditions prevailing in American universities," said Chancellor Avery. "Mr. Crane, though he doubtless knows more about the manufacture of plumbing supplies than he does about higher education, nevertheless has written some things that demand more than a passing glance.

"Mr. Crane's words are not the voice of one crying in the wilderness. The abuse of intoxicants at social functions has been denounced by no less a person than the Kaiser himself and in the native country of Gambrinus at that; and a no less powerful voice is that of David Starr Jordan.

"The self-supporting student, however, is the salvation of our Western institutions both educationally and morally; and those unspeakable conditions which Mr. Crane describes as existing in some institutions, overdrawn though I think they are, are largely due to the presence of the idle rich, whose influence everywhere is destructive."

CHAS. H. HUTTIG OPERATED ON

St. Louis Banker Recovering at Presbyterian Hospital Here.

Charles Henry Huttig, for fourteen years President of the Third National Bank of St. Louis, underwent an operation for a stomach trouble yesterday morning in the Presbyterian Hospital. His condition was critical for a time, but last night it was reported at the hospital that he was resting comfortably, and was practically out of danger. Mr. Huttig is 50 years old.

He is President of the Huttig Sash and Door Company and a Director in several corporations. He was one of the Vice Presidents of the St. Louis Exposition.

Memorial Tablet to Stonewall Jackson.

CLARKSBURG, West Va., Sept. 26.—A bronze tablet marking the birthplace of the late Confederate General Stonewall Jackson was unveiled here to-day. The principal address was made by Dr. James Power Smith, the only surviving officer of Gen. Jackson's staff. Miss Isabel Arnold of Beverly, West Va., a grandniece of Gen. Jackson, unveiled the tablet.

Apparel for the Chauffeur at Saks'

¶ There is as much difference between the chauffeur and the driver of the average vehicle as there is between an automobile and the other vehicles of traffic. The chauffeur is in a class by himself. He is elevated by the affluence of those he serves.

¶ And if there is one thing required of a chauffeur, and one thing a chauffeur himself requires of his tailor, it is distinctiveness in his clothes. Durability of fabric is not hard to get, but individuality and fit are totally different matters. So much so that we long ago decided that the only way to put style and character into chauffeurs' garments was to make them ourselves.

¶ The overcoats and suits produced by our Auto Apparel Department this Fall are pre-eminently the first for fit and style, workmanship and durability, and they are the most reasonably priced chauffeurs' clothes—all things considered—by long odds.

Chauffeurs' Overcoats, in box cloths, whipcords, serges and worsteds. Button-to-neck or convertible collar models. Ample skirt effect for comfort and convenience. Very swagger. 33.50 to 75.00

Chauffeurs' Suits, two pairs of trousers, in pleated button-to-neck model, Norfolk, semi-Norfolk and plain effects. Made of whipcord, serges, box cloths and worsteds. 25.00 to 75.00

LIBERTE DISASTER DUE TO 'SABOTAGE'?

235 DEAD AND 160 INJURED

Official Estimate—Some of the Survivors May Never Recover Their Senses—Paris in Mourning.

TOULON, Sept. 26.—Sinister rumors are current to the effect that the disaster to the battleship Liberté yesterday was the result of "sabotage."

Attention has been drawn to the fact that the catastrophe followed very soon after the violent manifesto issued by the revolutionary workmen in the Brest Arsenal.

It is even stated that the authorities have so far taken cognizance of the rumors as to order a secret inquiry into the matter.

A bluejacket, who is in a position to know, declares that fires started not only on the Patrie, but also on another ship of the squadron, not long after that on the Liberté, but they were discovered and extinguished.

The local newspapers report several small outbreaks of fire on the warships here at intervals of two or three days.

The first official estimate places the number of victims of the Liberté disaster as 235 dead and 160 injured, 40 dangerously. It is believed that this estimate is very nearly correct, as it is the result of an exhaustive examination of the muster rolls and roll call of those who survived the explosion.

Many of the bodies taken from the Liberté were unrecognizable. Not a few of the victims had been literally scattered to the winds. Every effort has been made to identify portions of the bodies found entangled in the wreckage, but in many cases the mutilation was too great to admit of this

The work of searching the broken steel hulk continued throughout the day, but even with perfect appliances the explorers were unable to penetrate parts of the ship, so inextricably was the wreckage twisted and tangled.

It is certain, however, that no more living men are entombed. Those whose cries were heard last night have either been rescued or have died from their injuries.

The last man extricated alive was in a turret with fifteen dead bodies. The workmen were engaged for hours in cutting away the steel walls. Food was passed to the prisoner through a small opening. When he emerged he did not seem to be very much the worse for his dreadful experience.

The work of searching the wreck was abandoned to-night until to-morrow, the authorities being convinced that all the living had been removed. There are now sixty-five bodies in the mortuary.

M. Delcassé, the Minister of Marine, will arrive here to-morrow and will remain until after the funeral of the victims, which will take place on Friday or Saturday with national honors. President Fallières, accompanied by Premier Caillaux and the War Minister, M. Messimy, will be present. After the funeral ceremony the bodies will be forwarded to their home towns for burial.

Engineers from the naval construction department have made a survey of the wreck, which is gradually sinking in the mud. It has been decided that as soon as all the guns and the material that can still be used are taken off the hulk will be blown up, as otherwise it would impede navigation in the harbor.

A heated controversy is in progress as to the cause of the disaster, supposing it to have been accidental. The theory of deflagration of the "B" powder is the one generally accepted by the public, but the naval officials declare this to have been impossible, the greatest precautions having been taken since that type of powder first came under suspicion after the blowing up of the Iéna.

Nevertheless, Vice Admiral Bellue tonight issued an order to all the ships under his command that, in view of the disquieting uncertainty as to the cause of the explosion on the Liberté, they land without delay all powder served out to them before 1902, as well as all drill ammunition.

Whatever may have started the uncontrollable fire aboard the Liberté, it is pointed out, might equally well fire any ship in the French Navy. If the initial cause of the tragedy were chemical change in the powder, so that by the mere lapse of time it began to burn, not a life on board any warship, it is argued, would be secure. The general discussion of this vital question will, it is believed, result in an investigation of the most searching nature, for French naval officers, without distinction of rank, are convinced that the time has arrived when the fleet should be brought up to a state of reasonable safety.

The immense force of the explosion on the Liberté is shown by the fact that the turret of one of the twelve-inch guns was wrenched from its base and thrown upward. Afterward, as might be seen at low tide to-day, it plunged downward like a great projectile forward of amidships, cleaving the warship in two. The steel bridge, weighing many tons, was blown from its supports and crashed through one side of the warship, cutting the steel flank as if that flank were made of wood.

A thin ship's company was drawn up on the deck of the battleship Suffren this morning to answer to the rollcall of the crew of the Liberté. The survivors of the disaster, with the exception of those in the hospital, are temporarily quartered on the Suffren. When the name of an absent one was called, some one of his comrades responded, "Dead," "In hospital," or "Missing."

Capt. Jaurès, who was in command of the Liberté, but was ashore when the explosion occurred, visited the wreck this morning and spent the rest of the day at the bedsides of the injured sailors. A number of these continue unconscious from cerebral disturbance, due probably to the fumes of burning powder which they inhaled. They may never recover their senses.

Lieut. Aubert, son of Vice Admiral Aubert, commander of the fleet, described the admirable discipline on board the Liberté. The Lieutenant, who is serving on another warship, was sent with a party to help extinguish the fire on the Liberté. He found Senior Lieut. Garnier in command of the imperiled battleship in the absence of Capt. Jaurès and the second officer in command.

A petty officer approached Lieut. Garnier and said:

"The fire, Sir, is near the magazine. Is not there danger of an explosion?"

"Attend to your orders," the officer replied. The petty officer saluted and, without further question, returned to his post.

Lieut. Garnier perished in the destruction of the ship.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The city is in mourning to-day for the navy's dead. The flags over the public buildings are at half mast.

Official dinners arranged for the immediate future have been abandoned and social engagements generally are canceled.

The Ministry of Marine was to-day visited by about 100 kinsfolk of missing officers and men, who sought information. The Minister of Marine, M. Delcassé, who was at his desk at 7 o'clock this morning, saw as many as it was possible for him to see, and gave hope to anxious ones when he could do so.

LIKE THE MAINE DISASTER.

Belief That Liberte Accident Proves Internal Explosion Theory.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Naval officers who have contended that the battleship Maine was destroyed by an internal explosion and that there was no external cause for the accident, asserted to-day that there was overwhelming proof of the soundness of their theory in the disaster in Toulon Harbor yesterday.

The Liberté's bow was thrown upward and finally backward upon the midship section of the hull. This was caused by the tremendous downward force of the explosion amidships, which, acting on the solid water as a fulcrum, tilted the bow over backward after it had been severed from the remainder of the hull.

To some of the experts the reports seem to indicate that the condition of the wreck of the Liberté is almost precisely like that of the wreck of the Maine in Havana Harbor.

Naval constructors here to-day expressed the belief that the real cause of the explosion on the Liberté would never be known.

BODIES FOUND IN THE MAINE.

Four Discovered in Petty Officers' Room—Are Not Identified.

HAVANA, Sept. 26.—Four bodies were found to-day in the petty officers' room of the Maine. The workmen also uncovered the four rear boilers, which had not moved from their original position.

The recovery of the bodies, which remain unidentified, was made possible by the building of a temporary bulkhead, which cut off the inflow of mud and water from the after part of the wreck. The engineers expect to make a rapid search of this part of the Maine, which is less shattered than the forward section. It is believed that many bodies will be found.

Within the cofferdam the water level is now twenty feet.

Rear Admiral Capps, Chief of the Naval Bureau of Construction and Repair, will return to Washington at the end of the week.

BANK OF EGYPT SUSPENDS.

It Will, It Is Expected, Be Able to Meet Its Liabilities.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Bank of Egypt, Limited, suspended payment to-day.

In a notice to depositors, the Directors say that advises from Egypt make it apparent that the bank cannot provide sufficient cash to meet current obligations, and the company will file a liquidation petition.

The suspension came as a big surprise, although at the last annual meeting of the bank it was announced that the profits had decreased because of the bad cotton crop and keen competition.

It is expected that the institution will be able to meet its liabilities.

The Bank of Egypt Company was incorporated in 1856 and registered as Limited in 1887. The authorized capital is £1,500,000 ($7,500,000). R. L. Barclay is Chairman of the Board of Directors, which includes Lord Grenfell and Lord Rathmore, (the Right Hon. David R. Plunket.)

From 1899 to 1909, inclusive, the bank paid annual dividends of from 12 to 18 per cent. In July, 1910, 4 per cent. was paid on the account of that year.

BATTLE NEAR CHENG-TU.

Troops and Rebels Lose Heavily—Trouble in Mongolia Feared.

CHENG-TU, Sept. 24, (delayed in transmission.)—A serious engagement between Government troops and insurgents took place yesterday at Shuang-Liu, ten miles south of here.

The troops lost heavily, but the insurgent losses were still greater.

PEKING, Sept. 26.—Reports from Urga, Mongolia, state that the Russian guard there has been increased to 200 men because of the possibility of conflicts between the Chinese and native Mongolians.

URGES FREER TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA

President of Export Manufacturers Says Reciprocity Is Desired by Both Sides There.

A CRITIC FROM ARGENTINA

American Business Men Rude and Negligent, He Says—Congressman Redfield Agrees with Him.

Reciprocity treaties with the countries of Central and South America were urged at the second day's session of the American Manufacturers' Export Association Convention at the Hotel Astor, yesterday afternoon, by President W. B. Campbell. At the same time the entire trade policy heretofore adopted by manufacturers of this country toward South American tradesmen was raked vigorously over the coals by Señor J. P. Santamarina, a trade expert from the Argentine Republic, who has been studying trade conditions between the two countries for the last twelve years. His criticism of the rude and negligent methods of American manufacturers toward his countrymen came as a distinct surprise to the convention.

Deploring the failure of the reciprocity treaty with Canada, President Campbell declared it was important that immediate steps be taken toward "the conceding of reduced duties or free entry on raw materials and food products of the countries south of us, in exchange for reduced duties or free entry of manufactured products of the United States into these countries." This, he declared, is necessary and earnestly desired by the citizens of both countries. He urged also a campaign to remove the tax now imposed on American and other foreign salesmen in many of the States of the South American republics.

Señor Santamarina's address followed close upon Mr. Campbell's. He declared that American manufacturers have in the past consistently slighted the trade approaches from Argentine merchants, adding that in response to 250 letters he sent to the newspapers and trade journals here, asking for aid in cementing closer trade relations, he received only three replies, two of which were in the form of disinterested regrets that the trade papers "could not afford space" for the purpose he desired.

A Square Deal Demanded.

"If you want our trade," he said, "you must give us a square deal and a hearing. We are not too far away to be of importance to you, if we pay promptly. But you must, in the first place, make the goods as the buyer wants to buy them, not as you want to sell them; otherwise we shall buy our goods of Germany or other nations that try to please us. You men, who have been able to create a necessity for even such unessential things as chewing gum all over your country, have not even tried to create in our country a necessity for your much-needed machinery and other goods by showing us how we can use and adopt modern systems. I have no hesitancy whatever in saying that at least 800 out of each 1,000 articles made in the United States compete with foreign manufactures.

"But you do not approach us rightly. You advertise on every tree and gatepost in this country, but in Argentina you treat us as if we cannot read and write. Moreover, stop sending out to us great trade lists of 5,000 names and huge catalogues couched in 'bum' Spanish to make us think you're the greatest firm in the world in your particular trade. Speak to us in real Spanish—a language we can understand. Your abrupt manner of dispatching your business correspondence, too, finds no echo in the courteous Latin temperament. I tell you, 95 per cent. of your correspondence goes into our waste baskets for this reason alone."

The snug self-sufficiency of American exporters was criticised by Congressman William C. Redfield of Brooklyn last night, at the dinner that wound up the convention. He pointed out to the 250 manufacturers at the Hotel Astor, that whereas Great Britain and ermany, the chief rivals of the United States, lacking a great home market for Gtheir wares, are obliged to look upon their foreign trade as of chief importance and strain all their efforts to enlarge it, the American manufacturers, looking upon the home market as of primary importance, have been consistently neglectful and half hearted in their efforts to build up foreign trade.

He urged the need of a broader outlook for American manufacturers, less carelessness, and more conscious efforts to please foreign buyers by adapting American goods to foreign tastes, instead of insisting on the foreign buyer's adapting his tastes to American goods.

The Trouble With Americans.

"The trouble with American manufacturers in export trade," he said, "has been that they always knew their business too well and refused to learn it better. Moreover, we have been sadly handicapped by the too common ignorance of 'abroad.' Take, for example, our lack of knowledge of common geography. I personally know of cases where a Boston house wrote to a firm in Manila on June 8, and again on June 25, saying on the latter date that they had received no answer to theirs of the 8th, and must insist on an immediate reply. It is a bit droll, also, to see a New York house refer an inquiry from Panama to its agents in the Philippines, but this very thing happened.

"I know of a clerk who, when asked where Jamaica was, said it was an island in the Pacific. Now, it really is quite important to know in what part of the world a customer is; also to know what he will want. I have seen heating apparatus recommended for Java.

"Akin to this, is the equally tragic ignorance of language among us. The American exporter seems to be guided by the old principle, 'If the foreigner does not understand English, speak louder.' Our own tongue is so good a language, and we speak it so well, that it seems almost discourteous for a foreigner not to understand it. And we are so accustomed to feet and inches and pounds that meters and kilograms and the like seem disagreeable.

"I have known American manufacturers abroad to realize with something of a shock that intelligent merchants and manufacturers could not always speak or understand English, and that the French, German, and Spanish languages were really practical things in the countries where they prevail."

Mr. Redfield also attacked the habit of American export manufacturers of underpaying postage on their letters to foreign houses, of suddenly and repeatedly changing list prices and discounts, and of packing shipments for abroad inadequately despite constant complaints from foreign customers, who are finally obliged to turn to British or German manufacturers for goods more safely packed. He criticised also the impatient and rude abruptness with which many American houses are wont to demand "cash with order" from customers abroad whose credit is perfectly reliable and who thereby feel themselves insulted, and turn to German or British firms, where their credit is respected.

One of the greatest disadvantages confronting the American manufacturer who engages in export trade, said Mr. Redfield, is the necessity of sending his goods on the ships of foreign competitors or the compatriots of such competitors. Until the United States shall have its own merchant marine, he said, its manufacturers cannot get a square deal in export trade.

"An attitude that e are able to compete with foreign manufacturers on their own ground while unable to compete with them on our ground, cannot be long maintained," he said. "The day of special privilege for you and me is passing away, never to return. The day of self-help, of standing on our own feet, if facing fearlessly the world in open competition with it, is dawning."

Besides Mr. Redfield, the speakers of the evening were W. B. Campbell, President of the association; John Ball Osborne, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign Relations of the Department of State; John Candler Cobb, President of the National Tariff Commission Association; Robert P. Skinner, American Consul General at Hamburg; and Prof. John L. Stewart, head of the Department of Business Administration at Lehigh University.

WEAKEN CAMORRIST'S ALIBI.

Witnesses at Viterbo Say Rapi Was in Naples in Summer of 1902.

VITERBO, Sept. 26.—A further attempt to break down the alibi of Giovanni Rapi, the alleged Treasurer of the Camorra, who conducted gambling houses in Naples and Paris, was made at the trial of the Camorrists to-day. Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, has sworn that in May and June of 1902 Rapi was in Naples selling stolen goods. Rapi insists that he did not return from Paris to Naples until the following November. To-day several men who had been in the habit of frequenting gambling resorts testified that they had met Rapi in Naples during the hot weather of 1902.

Another witness was a member of the Municipal Guard named Grazioli. He testified that he was accustomed to accompany Mayor Daniele of Cardito to Naples, where Daniele gambled with Rapi. One such occasion was in midsummer of the year named by Abbatemaggio. He recalled that the weather was excessively hot, and Daniele, who was very stout, required him to carry along a change of linen. The Mayor, he said, was also accompanied by a priest, as he feared that he would die gambling, which, in fact, he did, the witness said.

Style.

THERE is about the styling of Smith Gray & Co. clothes a distinctive individuality that is unquestionably their most appealing attribute, and which brings to the wearer a feeling of positive and complete satisfaction.

This essential, without which no garment can give perfect satisfaction to men to whom clothes mean something more than covering, is found in Smith Gray & Co. clothes because in the Smith Gray & Co. styling organization the results are not those of one pair of eyes viewing the style world, but styles world embracing—the consensus of the better thoughts on dress for men from all the world, possible only in the Smith Gray & Co. styling organization because there emanates therefrom the developed ideas of three master minds, producing from three angles a range of models so comprehensive that no matter what your thoughts on style Smith Gray & Co. clothes must meet your requirements.

And so, no matter what price you have planned to pay, whether you have included in your estimate of cost that of style—which you have always heretofore associated only with custom designers of the highest class, we ask you in justice to yourself to see the Smith Gray & Co. styles for Fall and Winter.

18.00 to 50.00

By the Thousand
20.00, 22.50, & 25.00
Standard Value Suits and Fall Coats, at 15.50 & 18.50

A QUESTION which is often put to us in connection with these special values is, "If these are good full 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00 values why not sell them at these prices instead of 15.50 and 18.50?"

Here is the answer:

Were we to sell them for 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00 the very object for which they were created would be defeated because these special values have been created with two distinct purposes in mind.

The first is that we are determined to sell three customers where heretofore we have only sold one, and to do this an extreme value becomes the basic essential, hence these special prices.

The second is that since nothing but volume production can make such prices possible there has developed in our tailoring plant a hundred per cent. efficiency and a reduction of more than fifty per cent. in our overhead charges, in both of which you participate when you choose these 15.50 and 18.50 Suits and Fall Coats, for men, young men and boys.

Wild's

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

Individual Productions

It was a famous philosopher who remarked that the world is an old woman and mistakes any gilt farthing for a coin.

A goodly part of the Western world has impersonated this same old woman in the purchase of Oriental rugs.

The result has been that ALL Oriental rugs have suffered in common with the vagabonds.

This is a logical reason for the existence and growth to its present importance of the great collection of WILD'S ORIENTALS.

People want to know that the price—whether it be $20, or $200, or $2,000—truly represents the reasonable value of the rug.

They want to know that there is not the POSSIBILITY of a bad rug in the lot.

To the important items of color and condition and weave has been added a fourth, of even greater importance—confidence in the house from which you purchase the rug.

When there is doubt on every side it accentuates the virtue of the house that has never strayed.

This house treats every rug as the INDIVIDUAL PRODUCTION of an INDIVIDUAL WEAVER, and every room and apartment as an INDIVIDUAL that has INDIVIDUAL REQUIREMENTS.

This epitomizes Wild's Orientals.

They have met a distinctive demand—large enough to make it possible to treat the whole rug business as being governed by rules different from those of ordinary, hurried merchandising.

It is done without any undue profit being necessary.

TAFT HEARS FISHER STIR PROGRESSIVES

TAFT'S TRIBUTE TO MADISON

State, Now Fifty Years Old, Offers President Topic for Speech Regarding Early Struggles.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 26.—Near the close of what had been a non-partisan celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Kansas as a State, with President Taft as the principal speaker, a political incident flared up here to-day and gave a thrill to the thousands of Kansans who packed the grandstand at the State Fair grounds.

Walter L. Fisher, Secretary of the Interior, just back from Alaska, made a three-minute speech in which he said some things about the difference between "real progressives of the middle-of-the-road type like Mr. Taft," and "hypocritical, demagogic progressives who opposed every practical progressive policy put forth."

Senator Joseph L. Bristow, ranking second only to Senator La Follette of Wisconsin among the progressives of the Senate, followed Secretary Fisher, and quickly caught up his challenge.

"We in Kansas," he said, "are always willing to grant that the other fellow is honest in his views and we expect him to grant that we are honest in ours. I want to say to President Taft and to Secretary Fisher right now that in working out the problems that confront us we of Kansas will have our part and have our say to the end that there shall be equal justice to all and special privilege to none."

Both Secretary Fisher and Senator Bristow were applauded. The throng seemed to appreciate the verbal passage at arms and the virtual serving of notice by the junior Kansas Senator that while he was participating freely and gladly in the welcome to President Taft in this State, there was to be no let-up in the factional fight as soon as the Chief Executive left the borders of the commonwealth.

The President himself had made absolutely no reference to politics. His address was purely historical, and in it he had taken occasion to pay a tribute to the independence in thought and action of the Kansas people, saying that, no matter how much one might differ with their views, there could be nothing but admiration for their courage in carrying these views forward to a logical conclusion.

Mr. Taft had been introduced by Gov. Stubbs, a progressive among the progressives, as the President "of the greatest Nation ever conceived in a human brain."

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," the Governor concluded, "Bill Taft is going to speak to you. I want you to give him the most royal reception a President ever received on earth."

Gov. Stubbs, waving a handkerchief, led in the cheering that followed Mr. Taft's introduction. When the President had concluded Gov. Mann of Virginia made a brief address. Then came Secretary Fisher. Mr. Fisher reached Hutchinson this afternoon and had a long conference with the President regarding Alaskan affairs. The Secretary, it is said, is convinced that the people of the far northwestern territory need relief.

An address by the Secretary was not on the programme. When he arose and faced the big crowd Mr. Fisher was silent for fully a minute. Then he said slowly:

"I am one of those that count myself a progressive."

He was interrupted by applause and cheering.

"I am a true progressive," he resumed "and I believe in true progressiveness and not in hypocritical or demogogic progressives who declare for a progressive policy and then oppose every progressive measures put forth. When President Taft said he was trying to keep in the middle of the road the other day I believe he meant what he said, and I believe that you believe that he meant what he said. I am that kind of a progressive. My friends, you should judge men not by what they say, but by what they do."

Senator Bristow was introduced by Gov. Stubbs and was loudly cheered.

"We of Kansas," he said, "may at times have been accused of acting before we thought, but we always have had the courage to contend for what we believed was right, and we have worked out right here in this State the greatest moral civilization in the world."

The Senator then made his reply to Secretary Fisher, and as he did so he looked pointedly at the Cabinet officer.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, classed as a conservative, then took advantage of the somewhat strained situation to pay a tribute to Secretary Fisher.

"Mr. Fisher," he said, "has just returned from Alaska, where he has been studying the great problems that face the people of that far-away Territory. And I want to say to you, Mr. Secretary, here and now, the people of this town, of this country, will believe what you report in regard to Alaska, and I, as one Senator, will be there to help you and President Taft to solve the Alaskan question and to serve the people of this country."

Senator Curtis concluded with the assertion that the people of Kansas believed Mr. Taft "broad enough and big enough to be the President of all the people."

The President had something to say of the independence of thought in Kansas.

"The trials through which the State has come," he declared, "undoubtedly have given a character to its inhabitants. They are bold and original in thought, courageous in execution. One may differ with them in their conclusions either upon politics or upon other issues, but he must respect the sincerity and the energy, independence and courage with which they support their conclusions and carry them to their logical result."

In his address Mr. Taft referred at some length to the late Congressman E. H. Madison, who died suddenly a week ago. It was at Mr. Madison's invitation that the President came to Hutchinson.

"His death was a great shock to me," said the President. "I had not known him long, nor can I say that I knew him intimately, but I knew him well enough to know the strong qualities of his mind and heart, his judicial instinct, his intense desire to be fair, and his clear perceptions of the law as a jurist and his level-headedness as a legislator.

"I remember a speech which he made in Congress on the subject of excepting lawless combinations of workingmen from the application of an appropriation. It was a noble, clear exposition of the necessity for making all persons equal before the law and an exhibition of courage and indifference to consequences in the support of a righteous judgment. His speech marked him as one of the coming men of Congress."

Mr. Taft sketched the history of Kansas in some detail, saying that the State was the child of an issue. He dwelt upon the struggles that preceded the admission of Kansas into the Union as a free State and on the long fight between the slavery and anti-slavery forces.

"The history of the State," he concluded, "is one of intense interest. The burning issue of the two great contending parts of the United States was distilled into an essence in the birth and growth of Kansas to a State. She furnished the battleground where the contending factions of the entire Nation in a guerilla war tried by wager of battle to maintain their respective causes. She was born in a struggle and ner early years were only those of suffering and travail. In the half century of her lift as a State, she has now reached great prosperity. May it always continue."

The President rode several miles under a boiling sun to the fair grounds. He was escorted by a troop of the Thirteenth Cavalry. One trooper's horse knocked over a woman on the sidewalk, but Dr. Rhoades, Mr. Taft's physician, found her uninjured.

On the reviewing stand at the fair grounds with the President were Govs. Stubbs of Kansas, Mann of Virginia, Vessey of South Dakota, and Colquitt of Texas.

AEROPLANE IN MUSEUM.

One in Which Orville Wright Qualified at First Army Tests.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Wright aeroplane in which Orville Wright finally qualified at Fort Myer and demonstrated conclusively the possibility of actual flight in heavier than air machines in 1908 and 1909 was received at the National Museum to-day, where it is to be retired as an exhibit along with the telegraph instruments of Morse and the original telephone apparatus of Prof. Bell. The Government paid $30,000 for this machine. It was used at San Antonio during the manoeuvres there last Spring.

It is not the original aeroplane that was first brought to Fort Myer for the Government in 1908. That was a considerably larger machine, and was the first in the world to make a flight of more than an hour.

On Sept. 17, 1908, while Orville Wright was flying with Lieut. Selfridge as a passenger, one of the propellers struck a wire at the rear of the machine and wrecked all of the controlling gear. The machine fell, killing Lieut. Selfridge and severely injuring Orville Wright. The aeroplane was completely wrecked, but the engine was little hurt, and the same engine is in the machine now in the museum.

It was this machine that successfully passed all the Government tests and made the historic flight to Alexandria and return with Lieut. Foulois as a passenger.

WILSON SILENT ON WILEY.

Hasn't Yet Read All of Taft's Letter Exonerating Government Chemist.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture returned to-day from a month's trip through the West, a part of which time he spent at his Iowa home.

Mr. Wilson had no further comment to make upon President Taft's disposition of the charges against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry. He said he had not discussed the subject with the President, and had not even read in full the President's letter to him, in which the latter exonerated Dr. Wiley.

Upon the return of the President to Washington it is expected that he and Secretary Wilson will confer over the situation in the department in connection with the President's expressed view that later some radical action with reference to the department's general efficiency may be necessary.

Secretary Wilson to-day telegraphed the Governor of Wisconsin accepting an invitation to address the International Dairy Show at Milwaukee, Oct. 7 to 17. The exact date of his address has not been fixed.

PRINCE'S CREDITORS SUE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The possession of $284,000 worth of American railroad bonds is involved in a series of suits filed to-day in the Supreme Court of the United States. The bonds were formerly owned by the Princess Beatrice Winans de Bearn, daughter of Ross R. Winans of Baltimore, and were bequeathed by her to her husband, Prince Henry de Bearn of France.

The securities were held in Baltimore under the mistaken impression that they were the property of the two children of Prince and Princess de Bearn. The fact having developed that they had been left to the Prince himself, his creditors seek to obtain possession of them. Their suit has been opposed on the ground that, as the bonds were not transferable in Baltimore, the Maryland courts are without power to authorize their attachment.

The Maryland Court of Appeals has held this theory to be untenable, and the Supreme Court is asked to decide the point.

AMERICAN MANNERS GET WORSE, HE SAYS

Prof. Giddings of Columbia Thinks Our Morals Also Have Been Deteriorating.

AS OTHER NATIONS SEE US

Indifference as to Conduct and the Lack of Proper Punishment of Crime an Injury to the Country.

Prof. Franklin H. Giddings, head of the Department of Sociology at Columbia University and President of the American Sociological Society, addressing the School of Philanthropy at its opening last night on the subject "What Makes the General Welfare," declared that to the serious observer of American manners and morals there could be no doubt that the last fifteen or twenty years had brought about a profound deterioration in private and public conduct in America. Poverty was not a problem to be compared to the problem of morals, he said. From the politician to the Supreme Court the cause of the economic injustice was being fought.

"Before the nations of the world," said Prof. Giddings, "we have the reputation of a nation that lets murder go unpunished. In the North as well as in the South negroes are burned. On all sides we see a desperate indifference to conduct. It is this that should give us pause.

"We have in the United States one of the largest populations ever gathered together, a population of many races, of very many nationalities, having different histories, different experience of life, different languages, and profound difference of knowledge. Our people range from the most ignorant to the most learned. There are profound moral differences, from vice and crime to altruism, and profound economic differences, from direct poverty to enormous luxury. Add to this intricate differences of ideals, temperaments, and ambitions.

"From this combination only three things can result, and you cannot make a fourth. First, there may result a failure of large and effective teamwork. In legislation and government there has been little but chaos thus far. Cities are to-day starting upon experiments, regardless of the fact that other cities have tried and found them failures.

"Chaos may be one of the results of our Government, for we have made no effort to find a common ground. Republics have succeeded, but the citizens have been like-minded men. Our tendency is away from any common ground. We may never be able to unite our aims, our ideals, and our ways of thinking. If we cannot, we can only end in chaos.

"Second, we may be forced into a solidarity by the strong hand of a dictator under some unusual calamity, like a great war. A tyrant may possibly bring us together and give us the strength we need for successful social struggle for existence and advantage.

"The third possible result from American social conditions is that all the forces of justice, knowledge, and sympathy may combine and make all these miscellaneous forces enough alike to enable them to work together. Likemindedness is absolutely necessary for us, and we do not seem to be going in that direction.

"We must reduce the differences between the intelligent and the ignorant. We are doing more in that direction than in any other.

"We must wipe out the differences between the over-rich and the very poor. We are stirred up over that problem. But the difference between the vicious and the just is the greatest difference that keeps us apart. It is the most urgent problem. Our conduct has deteriorated, and that is the real thing that makes for the general welfare."

The session that began last night is the ninth Winter course of the School of Philanthropy. Robert W. de Forest presided, and introduced President Francis H. Brown, President of Union Theological Seminary, after Prof. Giddings's address. There are sixty-one new students in the school this year, and they come from thirty-seven cities to study social problems. They will use the "case system" instead of theories, explained Mr. de Forest, and study individual cases.

"It will not be a widow with a sick boy, but Mrs. Jones and her son John that we shall look after," said Mr. de Forest. "The work this year is going to be practical and direct."

A reception to the new students was held later, at which former students were the hosts.

BUILDING STRIKE CONTINUES.

Employers Will Hold Meeting To-day to Canvass Opinions.

If the Board of Business Agents of the unions in the building trades, as was rumored two days ago, contemplated declaring off the strike of sixteen trades in sympathy with the striking marble workers at the new Vanderbilt Hotel, it was evident yesterday that it must have changed its mind. At a meeting of the board it was decided that the strike was to continue.

At the meeting of the Building Trades Employers' Association called for this afternoon about 400 organized employers in thirty-two trades are expected to be present. C. G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors, said that the object of this meeting is to get the sentiments of the members before decisive action is taken.

W. B. Jessup, Railroad Magnate, Makes Telephone Girl His Bride.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—W. B. Jessup of New York, who is a Guatemalan railroad magnate, and Miss Myrtle E. Bell of 907 First Street, Northwest, a former telephone operator at the Raleigh Hotel, were married yesterday afternoon in New York, according to word received by the bride's parents.

Mr. Jessup, who is 54 years of age, won Miss Bell, who is 30, by a courtship by mail. For a year he has sent her postcards from all parts of the world, flowers, candy, and other gifts. Her friends say, however, that they never met until Thursday. A whirlwind courtship in Washington followed, culminating in the trip to New York.

"Everything all right; supremely happy," is the telegram received from Mrs. Jessup by her father, William H. Bell, a photographer.

"We knew Myrtle was engaged to Mr. Jessup, but her trip to New York for the marriage so soon is a surprise," Mr. Bell said this morning. "Anyway, she has done fine."

Mr. Jessup is a widower and has a son at Georgetown University. Miss Bell has been chief telephone operator at the Raleigh for twelve years, and her soft, silvery voice is said to have first attracted the New Yorker. Their acquaintance over the telephone wire developed into a courtship by correspondence. When Mr. Jesssup returned from Guatemala last week he hunted up Miss Bell.

The bride's father says the couple will return to Washington the latter part of the week to remain a few days before going to Guatemala, where Mr. Jessup is connected with the Guatemalan Central Railroad.

W. B. Jessup is registered at the Waldorf, but it was said there last night that he is not accompanied by a wife. It was also denied at the hotel that the marriage had taken place at the Waldorf yesterday afternoon.

RULES ON PAPER IMPORTS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Two important orders will be issued by Assistant Secretary Curtis of the Treasury Department this week dealing with Canadian paper and wood pulp. In the case of mixed importations of paper material, cut partly from restricted lands, it will be held that the percentage of the shipment cut from restricted lands should pay the duty.

New Brunswick having modified certain of its restrictions, the Customs Division will issue orders for free importation of pulp and paper manufactured under licenses which have been renewed prior to Oct. 1, 1911. Such licenses will enjoy privilege of free export until Oct. 1, 1912. An order also will be issued continuing until Oct. 9, 1911, free admission of mechanically ground wood pulp from Newfoundland.

SUGAR IMPORTS LEAD.

But Show a Decrease of $2,000,000 Over August, 1910.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Sugar led the list of articles imported into the United States during August, but showed a decvrease of more than $2,000 in value from the July imports. They also were about $2,000,000 under the imports of August a year ago.

Coffee and crude India rubber imports also decreased. Both of these also have increased considerably in price recently. Coffee imports were valued at $7,800,000, compared with $9,900,000 worth in August of last year. India rubber imports were $5,400,000 last month, compared with $7,000,000 a year ago.

Manufacturers' materials in a number of instances also showed material declines in the value imported, compared with August of last year.

ANNOYED BY MAINE FUND.

War Department Objects to Children Giving $250,000 to Raise Warship.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Considerable annoyance has been caused White House and War Department officials by a movement to have school children throughout the United States contribute 1 cent each toward a $250,000 fund for raising the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor. A circular letter has been sent to President Taft and the Governors of States and others, asking their co-operation in the movement.

Acting Secretary of War Oliver has informed the author of the letter that the department could not accept such a contribution unless specifically authorized by Congress to do so, and that as it is evidently the intention of Congress to provide fully at the outset of the December session for removing the Maine, the department does not regard the popular subscription proposition with favor.

Husband Is Suing Mrs. Suydam.

Joseph T. Losee, a Patchogue lawyer, said last night that Walter L. Suydam, Jr., had begun an action for divorce against his wife, Louise White Snydam, and that papers nad been served on Mrs. Suydam. Frederick Noble, with whom Mrs. Suydam came to New York from Blue Point, L. I., and whom she called her protector, is named by Suydam as co-respondent in the suit.

Exquisite Autumn Millinery

As Autumn comes into her own, our Millinery displays become the centre of interest among women of taste and discernment.

The diversified collection of Hats embraces the newest conceptions of the foremost Parisian modistes—Paul Poiret, Maison Lewis, Suzanne Talbot and Georgette are only a few of the great French artists which have sent to us the gems of their creative genius.

There are Hats in all the fashionable materials for street and semi-dress wear, and scores of more elaborate models for evening wear: Their beauty cannot be described; one must see these exquisite chapeaux to realize the charming character of the new Autumn Millinery.

The uniformly sensible prices of this establishment prove a revelation to the woman accustomed to shopping in "exclusive" places.

TINY AEROPLANES AT MINEOLA FAIR

Models Built by Boys Share Honors with the Dolls and the Horses.

THE BALLOON DIDN'T GO UP

But 3,500 Persons Found Enough Other Things to Interest Them—Trotting Races a Feature.

Two spectacular trotting races and an unusual number of agricultural, educational, and commercial exhibits were the features of the annual Agricultural Society show of Queens and Nassau Counties, which opened at Mineola yesterday. Thirty-five hundred persons attended and in the afternoon, while the trotting races were being run, 230 automobiles were parked just north of the grand stand or in other parts of the big fair grounds.

About everything that sport-loving, country-dwelling folk could be interested in was on exhibition in nearly 100 different tents in the broad inclosure, and people began to stream off the Long Island Railroad trains at the near-by station or to drive along the highroad in all sorts of vehicles as early as 9 o'clock in the morning.

Most of the sightseers turned aside for a few minutes before giving up their 50 cents admission to enter one or more of a score of fakers' booths, which lined the road to the grounds practically the whole way from the station, and in front of which bands blared and barkers shouted, "Here you are! Here you are!" in a deafening chorus.

As soon as the sightseers found themselves inside the gate they made for the agricultural building. Here orchids and chrysanthemums of enormous size were on exhibition, and there was a school exhibit, of which the pupils and teachers of Nassau County are very proud.

The aeroplane meet at Nassau Boulevard was so near the fair grounds and the air yesterday morning was so clear that the soaring aeroplanes could be seen distinctly from the fair grounds. But the agricultural show had an aeroplane exhibit of its own—a miniature one. About a month ago I. U. Horsfield of Hempstead conceived the idea of offering prizes to public school boys of the county for the best aeroplane designs. Mr. Horsfield offered $10 as a first prize, $5 as a second prize, but he didn't know how deeply the Nassau County boys are interested in aeroplaning. Nine remarkably complete designs were turned in. Each miniature machine is from 1½ to 8 feet long. The boy builders not only perfected their machines to the very last rope and wooden support, but several of them put in gasoline engines of tin. When Mr. Horsfield visited the Agricultural Building yesterday morning he was considerably surprised at the competition his offer had brought out.

"I'm sure I don't know which two of five of these designs is the best," he said to William W. Wright, Superintendent of the Mineola schools, who has charge of the educational exhibit. "I'm going to give three more prizes of $5 each."

Ray Decker's gray-winged monoplane, which was fitted with an electric motor, got the $10 prize. N. Abrams, with a Curtiss biplane; William Hickey, with a monoplane; Frank Halton, with a Curtiss biplane, and Howell Schevedes, with a monoplane, each got a five-dollar prize.

A prize for the Nassau County schoolgirls for the best dressed doll was awarded to nine-year-old Grace Roekel of Rockville Centre. Little Miss Roekel dressed a two-foot high doll up in a creation of pink with lace embroidery and a hat of woven straw. The doll's trousseau was complete even to its most mysteriously hidden feminine lingerie. The work of fifteen Nassau County schools and several thousand pupils were on view.

After seeing everything in the Agricultural Building, the crowd streamed over the big grounds from tent to tent, and tested unit bricks, motor car oil, self-heating irons, horseless trucks, and every other imaginable new invention. Farmers sampled seeds; pretty girls chewed popcorn; small boys eyed enviously a stand in the middle of the fair grounds on which were exhibited at least one thousand bananas; photographers took pictures of whole farmer families at "25 cents per group." Then every one went to look at the large black balloon which had planned to fly, but couldn't because of the strong north wind. Next were visited the stables containing 250 horses, 100 of which were fast trotters booked for the various races of the week.

The races began at 2:30 in the afternoon. There were two 2:24 class trots. The first, for a $1,000 purse, was won by John J. Brown's Professor Sphinx in 2:14¼. The second, for a $400 purse, was won by The Earl in three straight heats in 2:16½. The races were the events of the day, and a big crowd of Long Island folk automobiled down to watch them. H. B. Clarke, William Scott, H. L. Bassett, James Butler, Henry Steers, and James McClellan were among the spectators. Among the horse owners who leaned their elbows on the pickets of the wooden fence surrounding the track were "Chris" Hackett, Walter Eidelmeyer, William Ganley, William Halsted, David Burgess, John J. Brown, Patrick Powers, and John Clark.

The fair will continue all the rest of the week, with special features for horse lovers on Thursday. On that day, the free-for-all pace will be held, in which Walter Hal, with a record of 2:04, and Dan S., with a record of 2:04½, and many other fast trotters will compete. The Horse Show will also begin on Thursday. Mrs. Egerton Winthrop, Mrs. J. E. S. Hadden, Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, Mrs. Joseph Stevens, Mrs. James Burden, Mrs. J. E. Davis, Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. Kent, Mrs. J. S. Phipps, Mrs. H. C. Phipps, Mrs. Hastings, Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. E. D. Morgan, Mrs. M. S. Burrill, Mrs. C. E. Rumsey, Mrs. Philip W. Livermay, Mrs. W. G. Loew, and Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., have engaged boxes.

Horses of all ages, in all sorts of harnesses will be shown in the three-day exhibit. The judges will be D. L. Van Ostrand, Charles H. Hurkamp, Charles A. Baudoine, David B. Sharp, Algernon Craven, Joseph Larocque, and Devereux Milburn.

CARRIED PISTOL IN HER BAG.

Locked Up for It When She Went to Court to Complain of Her Husband.

Seeking a warrant for the arrest of her husband with a loaded revolver in her handbag got Mrs. Annie Hesse of 243 East Fifty-fifth Street, Manhattan, in trouble in the Magistrate's Court in Long Island City yesterday, and she is now locked up in the Queens County Jail, in default of $500 bail, on a charge of violating the Sullivan gun law. She is the first person to be arrested under that law in Long Island City.

It was only after a struggle with Patrolman Edwood J. Galvin, Warrant Officer Edward Johnson, and Miss Myrtis Fish, probation officer, that Mrs. Hesse was disarmed and arraigned before Magistrate Smith.

Mrs. Hesse told the Magistrate she thought she would have to serve the warrant on her husband and wanted the revolver as protection against her mother-in-law. She also pleaded with the court to fine her $10 and not send her to jail.

NEW TRINITY CHAPEL PLANS.

Structure Will Be Gothic and Will Comprise Parish House and Rectory.

Plans were filed yesterday by the architects, Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, for the new chapel of Trinity parish to be erected on the southeast corner of Broadway and 155th Street, within the limits of Trinity Cemetery. It will be in the Gothic style, having a frontage of 72 feet on the avenue and 180 feet on the street, and will be known as the Trinity Parish Chapel of the Intercession.

The new chapel will cost $409,000 and will comprise a parish house and rectory. The old chapel in the locality is on the west side of Broadway between 158th and 159th Streets. It will be sold when the new chapel is completed.

SUGAR DOWN A LITTLE.

Arbuckles Drop from 7½ to 6¾ Cents a Pound to Meet Trust Price.

The first sign of a downward reaction since sugar prices began their record-breaking flights came yesterday in an announcement by Arbuckle Brothers that they had reduced their quotation from 7½ cents a pound to 6¾ cents. This, however, puts them only on a footing with the American Sugar Refining Company, which has not gone above 6¾. The Sugar Trust, in fact, has been able to keep its prices throughout the movement below those of its rivals. Now that the Arbuckles have come down to the same basis the price of 6¾ may be said to be fairly estalished as the prevailing market, although the Federal Company was still charging 7¼ yesterday. The Warner Company and the Howell Company are out of the market. The latter has reduced its quotation to 6¾.

The wholesale price of sugar is still very high. Up to this Summer 5 cents was considered a liberal price, and the ordinary price of raw sugar was around 4 cents. A representative of the Arbuckles said yesterday in regard to the reduction:

"Our action is not because there has been any reduction in the price of raw sugar. In fact, cables show it an eighth higher to-day, and there has been no change here. The equivalent of the London price is 5.98. There has been a shortage of refined sugar for the last two weeks, and we have been the only people in shape to make immediate deliveries. This shortage has now been somewhat relieved, and we are nearly down to a normal demand. There is no change in regard to the general shortage of the European beet crop, and the situation will not be materially relieved until the cane sugar from Cuba begins to come in, late in December or early in January."

CALLED TO FRENCH SERVICE.

Young Sons of France Expected Home to Serve Time in Army.

In the French Consulate in South William Street there was posted yesterday the annual conscription notice addressed to all native-born Frenchmen or the sons of such now living within the jurisdiction of the Consulate. This year the notice summons to the office all those who were born in 1891, for next year they will be 21 and ready to serve their two years in the army, and France must have their names and addresses. Those whose service begins this Fall have already sailed, about 150 of them, some unable to speak a word of French, but all anxious to go, not alone out of loyalty to France, but because the two years are apt to be great fun and a real treat. Should any fail to report, as many do, they would be liable to enforced service if they ever set foot on French soil, a liability holding good until they are 55.

Once a man has served his two years he becomes a reservist. Perhaps the hotel waiter is one who stands ready to join the army any time France feels like declaring war. At the time of the recent tension between France and Germany over the Morocco situation the office of the Consulate was flooded with letters professing the greatest loyalty, the reservists at work about the city being anxious to remind the Consulate that they were willing and able at any time to hurry over and tackle the Germans.

BURIAL AT OLD TRINITY.

Mrs. Hampton's Body Laid in the Coutant Family Vault Near Broadway.

The burial of Mrs. Louis Grant Hampton yesterday afternoon in the churchyard of Old Trinity Church drew a curious crowd of onlookers, in addition to the small funeral party. Mrs. Hampton was a member of the Coutant family, and the remains were interred in the old Coutant vault, which lies under the granolithic pavement of one of the walks facing Broadway, near the main entrance to the church.

Workmen cut away the six or eight inches of granolithic pavement early yesterday morning, and then with picks and shovels worked down through the earth to the stone slabs which cover the entrance to the vault. These were carefully removed to await the burial ceremonies, which took place at 5 P. M. and were of a very simple nature. The Rev. C. R. Stetson, vicar of Old Trinity, conducted them. During recent years burial in the churchyard of Old Trinity has been somewhat rare, the number being only one or two yearly.

Mrs. Hampton's death occurred in Flushing, L. I., where she has been living in retirement since the death of her husband five years ago.

CRAM AGAIN MOVES FOR 7TH AV. SUBWAY

Hears That Route Cannot Be Planned Until Estimate Board Acts.

BLOCKED ON TRANSFERS, TOO

Eustis Reproves Interborough Attorney for Delaying Action on Eight-Car Elevated Trains.

Commissioner J. Sergeant Cram brought up at the regular meeting of the Public Service Commission yesterday the matter of a subway down Seventh Avenue below Forty-second Street. He wanted to know if the Acting Chief Engineer of the commission could not be instructed to draw up plans for such a route.

It was pointed out to him that the Board of Estimate had not yet acquired titled for the extension of the avenue downward, and until that was done the commission's hands were tied, as the exact route could not be laid out. As the Commissioners could not be certain how far the city has yet proceeded in this matter, it was referred to the counsel for a report on its exact status.

Ten Mr. Cram suggested that the commission should proceed to an immediate vote on the re-establishment of 151 free transfer points, which were abandoned with the break-up of the Metropolitan system.

Commissioner Eustis, who has presided in solitude at most of the transfer hearings, though they are nominally before the whole commission, replied that the evidence of the companies was not all in.

"It may take three days," he declared, "to cross-examine the witnesses on the value of property. But the companies have a right to be heard, and somebody must hear them."

"Are the companies acting in good faith?" asked Commissioner Cram, ignoring the suggestion that he might relieve Mr. Eustis. "Are they not simply trying to delay action with irrelevant testimony?"

"I should not be surprised if that is the case," replied Chairman Willcox, "but we must hear them, or they could appeal to the courts. I read the testimony in the evenings, and I certainly cannot vote till all the evidence is in."

Mr. Cram replied that he was quite ready to vote immediately and condemned the eight and ten cent transfer system now in operation on the Fifty-ninth Street crosstown line.

Commissioner Eustis dealt sharply yesterday with James L. Quackenbush, general attorney for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, at the hearing on eight-car trains on the elevated railways. The commission quickly put in its evidence through its transportation engineer, E. G. Connette, and then Mr. Quackenbush asked for an adjournment of thirty days. Commissioner Eustis hinted that such a delay was asked merely to drag out the proceedings and declared that the hearing must be resumed on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Connett testified that it was impossible to increase the number of elevated trains in the rush hours, but they might be lengthened. Eight-car trains on the Second Avenue line in the morning rush hours would mean an increase of 27 per cent of carrying capacity, and in the evening an increase of 29 per cent. On the Third Avenue line the increase in locals would be only 15 per cent. and on expresses 14 per cent. On the Sixth Avenue line in the morning the increase would be 15 per cent., an din the evening 14 per cent., and on the Ninth Avenue it would be 22 per cent. in the locals and 14 per cent. in the expresses.

Then, on the matter o fadjournment Mr. Quackenbush declared flatly that the company would not be ready to go on on Friday.

"Well, if you don't put in any evidence," said Commissioner Eustis, "the commission will go ahead and accept on order. It is their wish to push this matter as speedily yas possible."

"Do I understand," retorted counsel, "that you are sitting here judicially, yet you say you have already made up your minds? We expect to put in important evidence, and are not without hopes of convincing you of the justice of our position."

"If you say more," said Mr. Eustis, "I will make it Thursday instead."

"It would be no more impossible for me to go on then than on Friday."

Then the Commissioner said with heat that he could hardly avoid the conclusion that the object of counsel was to delay the proceedings as long as possible, and Mr. Quackenbush retorted that he objected to any impugning of his good faith.

"This is not a little matter," he said. "It involves millions, and it cannot be disposed of in a light way."

"If you have so much to put in," said the Commissioner, "surely you can have some of it ready on Friday. For instance, if you think your present structure is not strong enough, why not bring an engineer to say so. You say you are acting in good faith. Why not show your faith by works? The hearing is adjourned to next Friday at 2:30 o'clock."

FIFTY YEARS A FIREMAN.

Capt. John J. Eagan's Anniversary Celebrated in the Bronx.

Seated beneath a banner bearing the words, "Fifty Years a Smoke Eater Means Something," Capt. John J. Eagan of Engine Company 45, Tremont and Daly Avenues, the Bronx, celebrated yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the Fire Department. He was surrounded by banks of fragrant flowers—tributes of esteem from his friends in and out of the department—while many telegrams of congratulation came from friends in all the boroughs and some from outside of the city.

Capt. Eagan is affectionately called "Pop" by those who know him intimately. He is 73 years old, and began his career as a "smoke eater" in 1861, as a member of the Naiad Hose Company, 216 East Fortieth Street. When the city at the close of the civil war installed its paid Fire Department, Capt. Eagan was made Assistant Foreman of Engine Company 8 in East Fifty-first Street. He became Captain in 1875, and ten years later won a medal by his thrilling rescue of Henry Duncan, a boy, from a burning tenement house at 240 East Fortieth Street. His bravery at the Windsor Hotel fire won him new distinction. He was transferred to the Bronx Company in March of last year.

Capt. Eagan told some of his callers yesterday how fire alarms were spread fifty years ago. He said a man was stationed in the tower atop the engine house to look out for blazes, and in addition, half a dozen men in each district were detailed at a time to patrol it. Firemen in those days, he said, received $58 a month, furnishing their own uniforms and helmets. He recalled, however, that a dollar went further in those days than it does now. Capt. Eagan is a great admirer of the automobile engine, and remarked yesterday when asked about it, "How different from the one I used to pull!"

Capt. Eagan lives with his wife at 134 East Forty-ninth Street. His son, Henry, is Assistant Principal of Public School 18, in Fifty-first Street, where he was once a pupil.

INDIAN SKELETON FOUND.

An Indian skeleton has been discovered below Isham Park, which Mrs. Julia Isham Taylor presented to the city a few weeks ago. Contractors have been cutting through 211th Street, which borders the new six-acre park to the south, just west of Broadway, and several relics of the early Indians of Manhattan have been found. When the workmen unearthed the skeleton it was at first thought to be that of a Revolutionary soldier who was killed during the capture of Fort Washington by the British in 1776, soon after the battle of Long Island. The contractors, McDonald & Barry, notified the Kingsbridge police, and the skeleton was removed yesterday to the Morgue.

Reginald Pelham Bolton, who has unearthed many Revolutionary and Indian relics in that locality in the last few years, made a careful inspection of the skeleton yesterday, and said that it was clearly that of an old Indian, who had evidently been buried there about the time that the Dutch began to settle New York. The skull was very well preserved, and he thought it was that of a woman. Mr. Bolton has requested Police Commissioner Waldo for a permit to remove the skeleton from the Morgue to his home.

"If I get it," he said yesterday, "I will add it to my collection of Indian and war relics now in the Morris, or Jumel, house, where there are nearly 2,000 articles which have been dug up in the last ten years throughout the old Dyckman tract and in the Fort Washington vicinity."

This is the eighth Indian skeleton that has been found in that neighborhood. The last one before this was discovered in 1908. The Museum of Natural History some time ago purchased Mr. Bolton's Indian collection.

To Honor Father McGlynn.

The Dr. McGlynn Monument Association will give a reception and entertainment in the auditorium of the Irish-American Athletic Club, in East Fifty-ninth Street, this evening on the seventy-fourth anniversary of Dr. McGlynn's birth. An address will be made by Dr. John C. Hallimond on "Dr. McGlynn, Lover of Humanity." The model of the statue of Dr. McGlynn by Richard F. George will be on exhibition.

$3,065,000 FOR CAR LINE.

Second Avenue Company Gets Permission to Issue Receiver's Certificates.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur gave permission yesterday to George W. Linch, receiver of the Second Avenue Railroad Company, to issue $3,065,000 of receiver's certificates, which, Mr. Linch said, the Guaranty Trust Company was ready to take at 98 and interest.

Mr. Linch explained that the issue of certificates was made necessary so that a $3,000,000 issue of last year could be met when they fall due on Oct. 1. H said that the road earned only sufficient money to pay its taxes, interest, and operating expenses, without leaving a surplus to take up the certificates.

The entire issue will amount to $3,200,000, and Mr. Linch said that he desired to withhold $135,000 to meet the emergency of having to equip cars with power brakes and to lower the steps on them. He said the Public Service Commission probably would force him to do this, though he was trying to avoid the order.

The Mystery of the Ravenspurs

FRED M. WHITE'S
LATEST AND BEST BOOK
The Mystery of the Ravenspurs
By the author of "The Crimson Blind."
FULL OF MENTAL SURPRISES.

Read of the adventures of Tschigorsky and Ralph when their presence as spies from India was discovered by the fanatic Tibetans, their tortures and final escape. Believe us, it's some adventures.

Also read of the secret sea vault under the Ravenspur Castle from which the electrical mine was to be sprung.

The story is full of surprise and mystery. England, India and unknown Tibet, with the very air of the Occident and the mysteries of the Orient play an important part in this unique, weird narrative. Some scheming done in this story. It holds your attention intensely from cover to cover.

NATION NEEDS DOCTOR IN CABINET---WILEY

He Urges Conservationists to Advocate Adviser to President on Public Health.

EDITOR ATTACKS RAILROADS

Herbert Quick Says Rates Are Not Regulated in Farmers' Interest—Country Churches.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26.—A significant fact which has caused comment from many delegates to the Conservation Congress is that none of the three pioneer conservationists—Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Garfield, or Mr. Pinchot—is present.

Mr. Pinchot could not reach here, he notified the congress, and Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Garfield sent regrets.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Chief of the Chemistry Bureau of the Agricultural Department said that "if in the remote future coal, iron, gold, and silver should become extinct, science would provide substitutes.

"But there is another natural asset—the public health," he said.

"In order to unify the National and State activities making for the public health," he declared, "the establishment of a National department of health is almost a necessity. Do not be deterred by the cry which goes up of a 'doctors' trust.' The selfish physician will be glad to see the present condition of affairs continue because it tends to produce disease and thus throws into his hands an increased practice.

"Congress should take early steps toward securing in the councils of the Nation an advisor to the President, charged with the protection of the health of the people, and the proper education of the people in matters relating to their well-being."

Dr. Wiley attacked as a "thief and a corrupter of public morals" the manufacturer who sells adulterated foods and drugs. The human animal, he declared, is entitled to a pure and wholesome diet. "The drug store and the grocery store," he said, "should be distinct concerns, and not sell each other's wares. The man who converts peanut shells into pepper on the ground that the poor man is not able to buy pure pepper is a thief and a corrupter of public morals.

"Especially is this principle true," he declared, "as regards children, and no penalty is too severe for the man who deliberately puts a poisonous dye into candy.

"Again, by what principle of political economy can the practice be justified of keeping wholesome food in storage until its taste has vanished and poisonous degradation products have been produced?"

Advocating prohibition of marriage of persons afflicted with incurable diseases or imbecile or otherwise grievously beset, he declared the power of the State to protect its citizens from disease may be constitutionally exercised before as well as after birth.

Manufacturing in large cities he condemned, saying: "Cities should be reserved for exchange, and every artisan engaged in production provided with a lot where he can breathe the fresh air and touch Mother Earth."

"The Church in the Open Country" was the subject of an address by Warren H. Wilson, Ph. D., of New York. Dr. Wilson is Superintendent of the Department of Church and Country Life of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. He declared that in the country the church is a necessity, especially for the poor.

"I do not believe that the American farmer will ever be assembled in villages," he said. "I do not think that the soil and the forest can be conserved by such a plan of living, therefore, I believe that the institutions of the farmer, at least the church and the school, should be built strong and efficient and useful in the open country.

"The most successful country churches are they which have had concern for the farmer's income. Mormon churches are not failures, and the Mormon organization of life insists that their farmers shall be good farmers, and puts the whole force of the community behind the success of the individual farmer. The 'Pennsylvania Dutch' are good farmers, and their farmers' unions are their churches. In the same way the Scotch and Scotch-Irish Presbyterians are successful because of the sympathy in their religious organizations which make for the success of their people in the country."

"The future of the United States as an agricultural country depends upon a closer relation between the farmer and the railroads," said Herbert Quick of Madison, Wis., editor of a farm journal. Mr. Quick said while the relations between the farmers and the railroads are not always amicable, it was the farmers who really built the railroads and were then "neatly beaten out of their interests." He continued:

"The railways of the United States have enormously retarded agricultural developments and added to the expense of living by permitting the lodgment in our transportation system of that industrial parasite, the express company. The express companies perform practically no functions which do not belong to the railways. Every dollar of the huge profits which the express companies make is a burden upon industry—unnecessary and unjust."

The farmers of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, and much other territory, he said, are entitled to the near outlet by way of the Gulf. The battle, he declared, was fought out not along lines best for the Nation, but with sole reference to the interests of railways.

"The State of Iowa is Chicago's back field, and Iowa's population is shrinking. This fact alone is enough to condemn the rate system which permits it. The Texas system is based on the theory that many medium-sized towns and cities are to be preferred for the agricultural welfare of the State to one or two overgrown municipalities with rates made to stimulate their growths at the expense of the rest. This has been accomplished by the establishment of a maximum freight charge. Thus, while such places as Galveston, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, and Waco are among the most prosperous towns of their size in the country, they are constantly meeting the competition of that numerous class of smaller Texas cities the unsuspected presence of which is such a constant surprise to the traveler from the North."

> I wish to advocate the union of farmers' wives in country women's clubs with the object of breaking up the monotonous routine of farm life and for the discussion of anything and everything pertaining to the betterment of farm homes.
>
> One of the most vital problems with which the farmer's wife has to do is how to shorten the farmer's workday. If all the farmers in a neighborhood would quit work in time for a 6 o'clock supper, a long stride would be taken toward making the farm home an ideal home.
>
> You may remember how the little waif, Glory Maguire, as she looked through the windows at rich children's parties use to lament: "Oh, the good times going on in the world, and me not in them!" We farmers' wives want some of the good times that are going on in the world for our children: we want a social centre; a clubroom where neighborhood gatherings can be held. We want a neighborhood library, a live church, and an up-to-date school.

Prof. P. G. Holden of Ames College said: "In my opinion the work of bettering country life must be done largely through the following agencies now in existence: First, the church and allied organizations, such as the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, &c.; second, schools; third, the grange, farmers' clubs, and other organizations which have for their object the betterment of conditions in the country."

Dr. Frederick Mumford of the University of Missouri spoke on "The Live Stock Farm and Soil Fertility." He said in part:

> Not only was the average income in the United States as a whole greater from stock farms, but in some of the more strictly grain growing States the same increased profit from stock farms is shown. In Illinois the income from grain farms was $10.60 per acre; from stock farms, $12.55. In Missouri the income from grain farms was $7.60, and from stock farms $9.55. In Iowa the income from grain farms was $8.88, and the income from stock farms $13.17 per acre. In other words, the profits from stock farming in Illinois were 18 per cent., in Missouri 24 per cent., and in Iowa 48 per cent. greater than from grain farms.

In a brief address to-day R. A. Long, a Kansas City lumberman, attacked the timber laws.

"There should be forest conservation," he said; "but there should also be protection for the dealer. Under the present influence of intense legislation, amounting almost to persecution, it is impossible for dealers to work together for the best interests of the forests. At the present time we are compelled to leave more than 20 per cent. of the cut timber in the woods because prices are so low that we cannot afford to move it."

HIS FIRST MOVE IN 40 YEARS.

Even Then Hack Took His House with Him to His New Address.

John M. Hack moved yesterday for the first time in forty years. His home was formerly at 21 Academy Street, Long Island City. While his present address is 420 Jackson Avenue, facing the plaza of the Queensboro Bridge, strange as it may appear, he is still living in the house he built forty years ago, the only difference being that it is now resting on a site valued at $125,000.

Hack says he doesn't believe in moving, and despite the fact that his house has been shifted, he says that it hardly amounts to a move. For years Hack and his wife and three daughters reposed in the seclusion of their one-and-a-half-story cottage, hidden behind fruit trees and grape arbors.

When the Queensboro Bridge was opened they found themselves within less than half a block of the north side of the big plaza, and Hack's little lot had suddenly multiplied in value. A procession of real estate speculators wore a path through the trees and grape arbors, and a short time ago Hack disposed of the property to the corporation that is to build the new $1,250,000 skyscraper for Queens.

But in the contract was inserted a proviso that Hack could stay in possession of his house until Spring. This was an obstacle in the way of starting immediate operations, and finally Hack agreed to change his location provided the house went along. John L. Klages owns the site facing the bridge plaza in Jackson Avenue, and the corporation agreed to give him the house if it could be placed on his vacant lot, Hack to continue his occupancy until Spring.

Without interruption in the domestic routine, the house was moved several blocks to its present site. It is worth several hundred dollars, and Mr. Klages has already been offered $70 a month rent for the place as soon as Hack's lease expires.

EASY TO WRITE PLAYS.

Schwartz Turns Out Two a Week Under Contract and Others in Leisure Moments.

Meyer Schwartz, an east side playwright, writes two dramas a week, one of three acts and the other of four; directs the productions, and occasionally takes a part, all for a salary of $40 a week. Because he employed his hours of leisure in the writing and selling of still other dramas, Schwartz was before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton yesterday.

The Union Theatre Company of Eldridge Street, to which Schwartz is under contract, sought an injunction to prevent Schwartz from selling dramas to any other theatre. H. Lionel Rosenthal exhibited a flaring poster in Yiddish which, he informed Justice Pendleton, advertised "The Children of the East Side" and "Death," both from the pen of Meyer Schwartz, at the Fordon Amusement Company's Theatre in Grand Street. They were plays which Meyer Schwartz had dashed off in his spare moments, and, according to Mr. Rosenthal, they were the property of the Union Theatre Company, under its contract with the prolific playwright.

Irving J. Joseph, counsel for Schwartz, called such a contract "unconscionable." He pleaded with the court to consider the scorn in which genius was held on the east side when his client was forced to accept only $40 a week for two masterpieces, not to mention the lending of his histrionic ability and knowledge of stage craft to their production. It grieved him, he said, to think that such a man should be so underpaid.

"Why, your Honor," he exclaimed, "a man great enough to write such dramas should not be asked to work in the additional capacities of actor and prompter."

Finally, said Joseph, aside from such considerations, the Union Theatre Company's contract with Schwartz was not legal, and consequently not binding, since it required that the dramatist-actor-stage-manager work on Sunday as well as the other six days of the week.

Justice Pendleton reserved decision.

Wiley Will Discuss Pure Food Laws.

Seth Low will preside at a meeting of the Pure Food and Drug Department of the National Civic Federation, to be held at 203 Broadway, on Monday next. The meeting will consider the enforcement of the Federal and State pure food and drug laws and required legislation and changes in administration to safeguard the people against adulteration and short weight. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley will speak.

COLUMBIA STUDENT TAKES UP COOKERY

TO STUDY CARE OF BABIES

Must Also Delve Into the Mysteries of Scientific Dressmaking and Sanitary Laundering.

Registration officers of the Teachers College gasped yesterday when it became known that John B. Leeds, a Master of Arts, and a candidate for the Doctor of Philosophy degree at Columbia, was offering himself for a course of study in the domestic arts department. A hurried consultation was held, with the outcome that Mr. Leeds was smilingly admitted, while the 200 girl students in the department sent up a chorus of "ahs" and "ohs."

Mr. Leeds is the first man ever entered in the household arts department, now several years old, at Teachers College. He and his scores of girl classmates are to be taught how to care for babies, how clothes may be laundered after the most scientific and sanitary methods, and how dressmaking and cooking can be elevated from the grade of necessary evils to the realm of the fine arts.

Whether he aspires to be head master in a day nursery, or a ladies' tailor, or has discovered that the way to be the true master of the house lies through the kitchen, could not be learned at the college yesterday. He duly matriculated in the hitherto strictly girls' department and quickly departed, with batteries of bright, inquisitive eyes turned on him.

Before going he admitted that he was greatly interested in the feminine accomplishments, in the study of which he is to spend a year, and that, if forced to decide among minding, dressing, and feeding babies, putting out the week's wash, or cooking, he thought he would choose the last.

"But," said he to one interviewer, "I do not want to be quoted at present on my mission in taking up this work. I am fond of the work and believe it has great practical value. I shall make my first statement as to what I am going to do and why I do it at the Pure Food Show on Oct. 4. In my speech on that occasion I will give my reasons for taking up this course, but further than this I don't care to make any statement now, except to say that I don't care how much people laugh, as I haven't the slightest fear of ridicule."

Mr. Leeds got away quickly after that, and others trying to find him had a hard time of it. He anticipated, however, that inquiries for him would be made at the office of Secretary Andrews of the household arts department, and there he left word for all reporters that it was true that he was taking up the study of housekeeping in its various branches, and that public curiosity as to why he was blazing this new trail of masculine endeavor would have to wait as patiently as it could until his address in Madison Square Garden on Oct. 4.

Some of his attractive classmates giggled excitedly when asked about the prospect of having a man in their class, and they all said they expected him to be a bright, apt pupil. At Mr. Andrews's office it was stated that Mr. Leeds was what might be regarded as a graduate student, but it was not known there whether he intended to make his work in the science of domesticity count toward his doctor's degree.

Mr. Leeds is a resident of Morris Plains, N. J. He is married and has two children.

GIRL AND BOYS ROB A CLUB.

As They Took Champagne and Cigarettes, Headaches May Betray Them.

The Governors of the Wykagyl Country Club of New Rochelle, which is devoted to golf, are seeking, with the aid of the police, three boys and a girl with headaches, who broke into the bar of the clubhouse early yesterday morning and carried off a dozen quarts of champagne, several bottles of mineral water, and a box containing fifty packages of costly Turkish cigarettes.

When the steward entered the bar yesterday morning he saw that the screen door had been broken open and that muddy young footprints led behind the bar. Police Lieutenant Frank Cody also found outside the prints of small feet with narrow heels, and concluded that a girl had waited in the rain to help the boys carry away their plunder. The footprints were lost where the gravel roadway joins the sidewalk. The value of the goods stolen is about $75.

TELLS HOW TO PLEASE MEN.

Mrs. Wallace Gives Women Some Points on Cookery at the Food Show.

The thing to learn in cooking is how to please the men of the family, Mrs. Lily Haxworth Wallace, the English culinary expert, told the women at the congress of the Domestic Science Pure Food Show yesterday morning. They don't always like the same old things, she said, and gave hints about making simple changes in their menus.

"One of the great troubles is that we women get into too much of a rut," said Mrs. Wallace. "We boil eggs, and we fry them, and we sometimes make an omelet, but that is about all. Now one of the new ways that I am going to show you to-day is eggs with tomatoes, for which I cut three tomatoes in half crosswise, season them, and put them into a baking pan with a little cold water. Put them into the oven and let them bake until tender; then scoop out the centres with a teaspoon and fill with a scrambled egg and cheese mixture.

"To make this I put two unbeaten eggs into a saucepan and add to them two tablespoons of cream, two of grated cheese, a little onion juice, salt and pepper. How do I get the onion juice? Just peel an onion and rub it across the grater; then I have the juice without the little lumps of uncooked onion. This applies to all cookery where onion is used and the cooking is not long continued. I put the egg, onion, cream, and cheese into a little saucepan, scramble them together, and then fill the hollow from which I took the tomato pulp. Decorate with parsley, because it gives a pretty color combination of red, yellow, and green. Serve very hot, as all eggs should be served."

The woman suffrage booth is one of the busiest at the show. Last year one of the men exhibitors made a row, which has only just come to public notice, because he was put next to the suffragists. He said he wouldn't stand it. This year he asked to be placed beside them, because they do a large business and he gets the benefit of it.

The suffrage conference at the congress will be held on Saturday night, and twelve sandwich women will be out on Friday and Saturday to announce it. The women will wear white gowns, black hats, and the sandwich placards will be yellow with black lettering.

WONDER SAFE OPENED.

For Years Supposed to Hold a Fortune—Contents, Two Pawn Tickets.

A small iron safe left to her by her husband, who died six years ago, had always given Mrs. Mary J. Gale, 932 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, a great charm in the eyes of her relatives, friends, and neighbors. The safe was found in a closet used by Mr. Gale for storing his private papers. No one had ever seen the safe before, and Mrs. Gale was of the opinion that her husband had stored up his wealth in the safe so as to give her a pleasant surprise on his death. Her friends had the same opinion, and many guesses were made as to the value of the contents.

Fearing that the use of dynamite would destroy some of the bonds or banknotes Mrs. Gale decided that the safe must be opened by the regular combination, which no one knew. Several mechanicians were employed at different times during the six years, but upon learning the conditions and knowing that there were 50,000 possible combinations, all gave up the job in disgust. Mrs. Gale, however, refused to risk any of her wealth by injuring the safe, and so until Monday night the safe was unopened and remained the wonder of the neighborhood.

K. C. Simmons, who understands the mechanism of safes, moved into the upper story of the apartment house in which Mrs. Gale lives about a month ago, and Mrs. Gale told him about the safe.

After a month's work he found the combination and in the presence of the owner, her relatives, and friends he swung open the door. Inside were two pawn tickets, both of them six years old.

Simmons took possession of the safe and Mrs. Gale had him summoned to court for larceny. On the advice of Magistrate Geismar in the Flatbush Court Simmons gave up the safe to Mrs. Gale, who said she sincerely wished that he had never opened it.

H. G. Villard Sued on Notes.

Suit has been brought in the Supreme Court against Harold G. Villard by David Dunger, who holds two notes for $5,000 each, drawn by Mr. Villard on Dec. 24, 1910, and payable in four months at 6 per cent. interest. Mr. Dunger received the notes on an assignment from William Bloom, to whom they had been turned over by Robert S. Brown, in whose favor they were drawn. The latter indorsed them over to Bloom, and they were protested when he tried to collect. Dunger is suing for $10,000 plus $4 costs of the protest.

Take a Look at the Hat Rack!

What do you see in any hotel or club where well-dressed men congregate, when you catch a glimpse of the Hat Rack? Soft Hats! This is the biggest season in years for this good-looking and comfortable headgear; and men are to be congratulated on their common-sense.

Dark slate grays and greenish grays predominate, with a good sprinkling of the other colors. There are shaggy Hats, and Hats with stitched or corrugated crowns and brims, as well as the smooth felts.

Among the FORTY-TWO styles of Soft Hats in the Gimbel Hat Store, men can find every fashionable model of the day. They come from Paris, Vienna, London, and in America, from the famous Stetson factory. Prices are $3 to $10.

Soft Hats from Germany at $2

In five shapes and eight colors, in ribbed or shaggy styles, with band of same material, guaranteed not to shrink, and light in weight.

New Anti-blow-off Motor Caps, $2

English; in twenty different handsome tweeds, mixtures and checks. The trick lies in the patent sweat leather and hugs the head gently but firmly. Made with full, seamless crown, or with eight gores and button. We are exclusive agents for New York for these stylish and comfortable Caps. 4th floor

A Showing of
Women's Tailored Suits That Invite Comparison
10 Styles at $25 | 12 Styles at $35

Styles are the latest dictates of Fashion, as these Suits are reproductions of imported models that cost many times these prices.

That this showing is unequaled in New York, we are convinced, as these are quality Suits through and through—from the beautiful woolen fabrics to the buttons on the coats and the hooks and eyes on the skirts. The linings of peau de cygne and satin are guaranteed.

The tailoring is the best—the kind that goes into the usual "expensive" Suits. This is because we always insist upon having hand work in all the vital parts.

9 x 12 ft. Body Brussels Rugs At $19.50 for $27.50 and $30 Qualities

Our parents, and their parents before them, have always bought Body Brussels when they wanted to be sure of the longest possible service as well as handsome appearance in a floor covering. For the Bedroom particularly, Body Brussels Rugs are without a superior. Though Body Brussels has been woven for almost two centuries on the Jacquard loom, the first steam power loom was invented by E. D. Bigelow in 1844.

The famous firm that made the Body Brussels Rugs in this extraordinary event, which Monday crowded the floor of the Gimbel Rug Store all day long, has been at it for many years, and its product is known all over the world for its excellence. We bought 535 of these Rugs in the 9 x 12 ft., and the 8 ft. 3 in. x 10 ft. 5 in. sizes; so that the selection will still be fine today. Then there is a splendid group of nearly 500 Royal Wilton Rugs, from the same firm, and also bearing its name; so that the rest of the economy story reads like this:

8 ft. 3 in. x 10 ft. 6 in. Body Brussels Rugs at $18.50 for $25 and $27.50 Quality.
9 x 12 ft. Royal Wilton Rugs at $23.75 for $35 Quality.
8 ft. 3 in. x 10 ft. 6 in. Royal Wilton Rugs at $22.75 for $32.50 Quality.

Which are the lowest prices ever quoted, to our knowledge, for Rugs of these qualities. Sixth Floor

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The Illinois Central Railroad will fight the strike of clerks, messengers, weighmen, and other employes who walked out in sympathy with the unionists at Southern points on the line. To-night a special train, carrying 200 non-unionists left for the South. The officials are still strong in their belief that Chicago will not be affected, and that the trouble will be confined to the territory south of the Ohio River.

Many of the men sent out from Chicago to-night were accompanied by detectives. Most of them, it was said, would be dropped off at Memphis, while the rest would be taken to points further south.

"We do not fear that the trouble will spread," said Vice President W. L. Park. "I do not know what the machinists did at Davenport, Iowa, or what effect any action they may have taken will have, but I do not think the situation is at all serious, and we are not worrying over it in the least."

"This trouble is just an aftermath of the threatened strike of the federated shop employes, and is not at all serious," said another official of the road. "There is little danger that the trouble will spread. It will be confined to the territory south of the Ohio River.

"We have ten applicants for every position left vacant and will proceed to fill them as fast as the men walk out. I understand and have always understood that the international officers of the machinists have been against a strike at this time, and looking at the action of the convention in Davenport in that light, I do not think it will prove of serious consequence."

"We sent about 200 men from Chicago to-night," said Assistant General Manager T. J. Foley, but there were no shop men among them. Most of the places are being filled with recruits in the South, and the men were taken from this city to fill the positions of certain clerks. The freight traffic is unimpeded, and I think the reports from Memphis to the effect that the road refused to take all outgoing freight consignments are either exaggerated or false."

So many applicants appeared at the headquarters on Wabash Avenue to-day that hardly one out of every twenty men received an application blank to fill out.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.—A general strike of the Federated Employes of the Illinois Central and Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroads im imminent, according to W. E. Bowen, Secretary of the Federated Employes and Chairman of both the local and Federated Protective Committees. He is directing the clerks' strike here, and said it was with the utmost difficulty that he kept the shopmen at McComb City, Miss.; Harahan, La., and New Orleans, about 1,800 men in all, from going out to-day in sympathy.

The first violence of the clerks' strike occurred to-day, when H. E. Hains, a non-union clerk, was beaten near the Illinois Central warehouses, where pickets had been stationed. The strikers deny they struck him.

Of the 280 union clerks here, all but four left their desks. In their places about twenty strikebreakers have been employed. Railroad officials are confident of being able to resume normal working conditions to-morrow or next day. No outbound freight was received to-day.

Mr. Bowen said to-day that no conference had been arranged with the railroad officials.

PADUCAH, Ky., Sept. 26.—A. H. Egan, Superintendent of the Louisville Division of the Illinois Central; L. A. Downs, Trainmaster, and J. B. Thomas, Chief Dispatcher, rolled up their sleeves and worked like Trojans at the Illinois Central freight depot to-day. They did everything they could to move freight, but made little headway. Efforts were made to employ local men to take the places of the striking clerks, but only two or three strikebreakers consented to work. Being inexperienced, they were naturally handicapped.

Freight is being congested in the three local yards, and unless the situation is at once relieved the yards will be blocked. Paducah is a large freight point for the North, South, and East. No rioting has occurred.

Three or four clerks who did not belong to the union joined the strikers to-day. Watchmen are guarding the yards here and at other points on the Louisville Division. The employes at the shops, numbering about 1,000, are ready to walk out on a moment's notice.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 26.—With practically every clerk and shopman of the Illinois Central Railroad out on strike in Memphis, the strikers are confident that they will be successful in their attempt to gain recognition of the Federation of Employes.

The railroad officials are equally confident that they will be able to resume the usual traffic by to-morrow. The striking clerks say that a two days' standstill in the local yards would produce a congestion that the railroad will find difficult to handle.

S. S. Morris, in charge of the Illinois Central terminals here, said to-day that the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad was accepting all freight offered; that a good force of clerks was at work, and that the company was not worrying about the local strike.

C. B. Baker, Secretary of the local clerks' union, said to-day that the strike situation was perfectly satisfactory to the clerks. He said that the yards are rapidly becoming congested and says little, if any, freight is being moved out of Memphis.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 26.—The Illinois Central and Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroads at this point are employing young women to take the place of the striking clerks.

That the company officials are preparing to have railroad attorneys seek an injunction to restrain the railroad clerks on strike from intimidating non-union clerks taking the places of the strikers in this city, was declared here to-day by L. S. Bell, President of the local organization of clerks, and immediately denied by railroad officials.

About twenty clerks were at work at the general freight offices to-day, including several young women. No shopmen or other employes of the mechanical department here are affected by the strike.

STRIKERS PICKET CAR SHOPS.

Union Expects a Settlement with M., K. & T. in Ten Days.

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 26.—Pickets were placed on duty by the striking carmen to-day at all shop points on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas system. This action was taken in an effort to prevent the resumption of work in the shops following yesterday's announcement by company officials that men would be hired to fill the places of the 1,500 strikers who walked out Saturday.

At union headquarters it was announced that the strikers are remaining firm, and that a settlement was expected within ten days. Railway officials would make no statement.

TRUESDALE WON'T ARBITRATE.

Rejects Gov. Wilson's Proposal in Behalf of Lackawanna Trackmen.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—Efforts on the part of the authorities of New Jersey to bring about a settlement of the strike of the trackmen of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, it was learned here to-day, have failed.

Lewis T. Bryant, State Commissioner of Labor of New Jersey, held a conference with President Truesdale of the Railroad Company yesterday and suggested that the strikers be permitted to go back to work pending arbitration of their alleged differences. Mr. Truesdale declined to entertain the proposal. Mr. Bryant acted in the matter as the representative of Gov. Woodrow Wilson.

GREASED PIG BANK ACCOUNT.

It Was Finally Caught and Lawyer and Receiver Fight Over Remains.

The remains of a bank account which once, according to Michael Diemert of Greenthal & Greenthal, lawyers, had all the agility and elusiveness of a greased pig, was the subject of argument before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton yesterday. Originally the bank account belonged to Adolf Radloski, who has a furniture business at 61 Carmine Street. At present Walter B. Walker and A. H. Sarasohn, the former recently receiver for Radloski and the latter the furniture dealer's lawyer, both want what remains of it.

It was in July of last year that Radloski first got himself and his bank account into trouble. Then he evicted his wife, who promptly sued for a separation, and got it last November before Supreme Court Justice Giegerich. Meantime Radloski had fallen behind in his alimony of $30 a month, pending the suit, and then, according to Mr. Diemert, attorney for Mrs. Radloski, the bank account began to exhibit signs of feverish unrest.

According to the lawyer, $3,000 wriggled out of the German Savings Bank and all but $10 of a nine-hundred-dollar account departed from the Citizens' Savings Bank. A receiver visited the furniture store to take charge, and thus insure Mrs. Radloski's alimony, and he found that Radloski was only an employe there. His sister-in-law held title. As there was nothing to take charge of, the receiver retired, and then, according to Mr. Diemert, the bank accounts showed renewed signs of life. Only the original $10 remained, however, when Mr. Walker, the second receiver appointed, endeavored to discover something to receive, and then the separation decree was granted, and from $30 monthly Radloski got the alimony reduced to $3 weekly. Forthwith there appeared in the Citizens' Bank a deposit of $250 to the credit of the furniture man, he feeling himself safe from a receiver, so Mr. Diemert says, by reason of the separation decree and the change in alimony.

Mr. Walker promptly seized the $250, paid Mrs. Radloski her $90, made other necessary disbursements, and found himself possessed, at the end, of something under $100. He thinks he ought to have this for his services, but Mr. Sarasohn declares that the money was assigned to him; that Mr. Walker had no business touching it, and that even the $90 paid to Mrs. Radloski was Mr. Sarasohn's money.

Meantime Radloski, as some balm to his injured feelings, has paid his weekly alimony in pennies. The order requires that he pay it direct to his wife, so when she was sick for five weeks and couldn't visit her lawyer's office, Mr. Radloski saved up his pennies, and finally staggered downtown with a grip in which he had 1,500 pennies.

Justice Pendleton refused to settle the ownership of the bank account's remains offhand and reserved decision.

MAYOR AND CHARTER BITTERLY ATTACKED

FOLEY ACCUSED OF BAD FAITH

Thousands of Protestants Against Proposed Measure—Great Enthusiasm Shown.

Mayor Gaynor and what was repeatedly called his charter and Charles F. Murphy's Charter were equally and unsparingly denounced last night at Cooper Union. All the speakers were against the Mayor and the Charter. No voice was lifted in behalf of either, and an audience which left no seat in the room unoccupied allowed few words of attack to pass without applause.

J. Aspinwall Hodge, who presided, stated that an effort had been made to get some one to attend who would speak for the Charter in order that both sides might be heard. No one would come. Mayor Gaynor had been earnestly and courteously invited, but had not even responded to the invitation, although it was extended by a representative organization of citizens.

Borough President McAneny of Manhattan, was the only speaker who went no further than to accuse the Mayor of trying to grasp power which belonged rightly to the people and which, when they elected him, they never intended that he should have. But Mr. McAneny did say that no one was for the Charter apparently except those personally and peculiarly interestsed in it, while the great mass of the people were wholly against it.

Both Controller Prendergast and William M. Ivins attacked almost every feature of the proposed Charter and Mayor Gaynor's relation to it, and Mr. Ivins declared that the Mayor's conduct toward the citizens who sent him an invitation to the meeting was not that of a gentleman, but of a "sneak."

In making this allusion to the Mayor, which, like almost everything else said against him, was applauded, Mr. Ivins referred back to a statement made by Mr. Hodge in calling the meeting to order.

Mr. Hodge had recalled the statement of the Mayor that the Charter had now no wrong thing in it. In reply, he said:

"Be that as it may, but I have found in talking with my friends that those who have studied the proposed Charter the most are most appalled at its provisions. I have also found that nearly all those who called this meeting found it impossible to get any one to come here to defend the Charter, which is a very remarkable thing—to defend a Charter which we are asked to accept—and to be told that they are acting under orders, and that that is enough."

Mr. Hodge read the letter to the Mayor which has already been published. He added:

> That letter was published in the papers, and it was noticed everywhere that the Mayor had been invited to speak, and no other notice was ever made in any paper. Notwithstanding that fact, Mayor Gaynor is reported in the evening papers to have stated in reference to this letter or in reference to the people who called this meeting, "The statement of these people that I am to speak at their meeting is like many of their statements." I do not know what he means to imply; I would not like to say. "I am not to be at their meeting. I am at work to-day helping as much as I can in the final revision of the charter, which is now about to pass." How does he know? Who told him?

> We know he never says anything that is not true, and therefore I suppose this meeting is to be absolutely fruitless because the charter, he says, "is to pass." That is the only reply given to newspaper reporters, as you see, and not to the gentleman who signed the letter, which the Mayor has deigned to make to a request from the leading citizens of New York to discuss the most vital matter that has come before the city for many years.

As soon as Mr. Ivins got a chance he referred to the failure of the Mayor to attend the meeting. "He was invited here to-night," he said, "to take part in this meeting as any other gentleman might have been invited, and it was his duty to be here, or at least to have given some reason for not coming. Whatever he is, he is not a gentleman.

"He returned that letter—he returned that letter unanswered. He put it back in its envelope and he sent it to the Chairman of this meeting, who has been gracious enough to say nothing about it; but that was not the act of a gentleman. It was the act of a sneak."

Here Mr. Ivins was interrupted by cries of "Right!" "Bravo!" "Good!"

Mr. Ivins added:

"I have personally known every Mayor of New York for the last forty years, and I do not hesitate for a moment to say that, all in all, Mr. Gaynor is the most capable Mayor that we have ever had. In fact, I believe him capable of anything. Given this capability, I cannot understand, or rather I am compelled to say I do understand—the real psychology of the comedian charter."

Controller Prendergast said he saw in the intimation in the papers yesterday that Mayor Gaynor might veto the Charter an effort on the part of his friends to provide opportunity for him to get under cover.

The audience broke forth into tremendous applause when Mr. Prendergast read from a telegram that Gov. Dix had removed Borough President Gresser of Queens. Several speakers, but particularly Mr. McAneny, had referred to Mr. Gresser as siding always with the Mayor in traction matters.

The Controller said that the one thing which gave him encouragement that the Charter would not pass was the Mayor's positive assertion that it would. The Controller concluded by practically charging the Legislative Committee with bad faith. He said he had been told ten days ago by Chairman Foley that the Controller's power of audit had been restored and was now as it is in the present Charter. He had found that such was not the case, and added sarcastically:

"These are most pleasant gentlemen to have dealings with."

Mr. McAneny reviewed the recent fight for better rapid transit facilities, saying the Mayor's part was one of obstruction against anything that was not for the Interborough company. He intimated that this was the secret of the Mayor's present fight for the power of separate consent to all operating franchises. Just before the meeting closed it was directed by unanimous vote that this telegram be sent to Gov. Dix, Mayor Gaynor, and Chairman Foley:

> A mass meeting of citizens of the City of New York, which packed Cooper Union to the doors to-night and was made up of men of all parties, adopted a resolution demanding that the proposed Charter for the city of New York now pending in the Legislature shall be defeated.

Many women were in the audience and cheered the fight on the Charter.

PRISON FOR COURT 'STEERER'

Jacob S. Marks's boasted pull' 'with the Judges of General Sessions failed to develop yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Swann after pleading guilty to stealing $100 worth of jewelry from Miss Mabel Thompson of 244 West Twenty-second Street. He was sentenced to not less than one or more than two years in Sing Sing.

Marks was known around the Criminal Court Building as a "steerer" for Oscar Hochstetter, a lawyer recently disbarred from practice by the Appellate Division. The theft of the jewelry occurred while Marks was visiting his victim, and Judge Swann, in passing sentence, said in reply to a plea for clemency:

"It may be his first actual offense against the criminal statutes so far as we are able to prove, but I am aware of his occupation in this building for the last four years.

"There are many of his kind around here now who make a practice of selling the opinion of Judges to the ignorant and gullible. He is that type of man who approaches the poor mother whose son is in trouble and says he can get a Judge to fix her boy's case. He then brings the woman around where she can see the Judge and goes up and shakes that Judge's hand, creating the impression that he handed the Judge money and has fixed the case.

"I shall show him no mercy, but am only sorry I cannot sentence him to five years."

TAILORS' STRIKE BEGINS.

About 7,000 May Go Out—Expect Early Settlement.

The strike of the custom tailors voted for early this week for the renewal of the agreement with the employers which expired on Sept. 15, began at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and will be extended to-day. General Organizer Feller said last evening that 600 tailors went on strike in the uptown shops and stores, 700 in downtown places, and 500 in Brooklyn. He expects that about 7,000 will be on strike before to-morrow night.

"We waited until the last minute before calling the strike," he said, "to give the employers a chance of signing the agreement without a strike. About fifteen employers signed to-day, in addition to fifty or sixty who signed before, but there are 750 of the employers all together. We are in the same position now as the ladies' tailors, whose strike was settled in a week or less. We have declared the strike in the season when there is a demand for men to make clothing to order. We have only asked for a renewal of last year's agreement, and if the employers do not come forward at once to settle we will assume that they want a fight, and do not want to make a new agreement with the union."

ROOSEVELT HITS MIDDLEMEN

Tells a Gathering of Farmers That They Should Get More Money.

Speaking from the half-landing between the seventh and eighth floors of the United Charities Building yesterday Col. Theodore Roosevelt told one hundred farmers, representing the Pennsylvania State Grange Association, that he believed the farmers and consumers of the country should get together and see what could be done to do away with the middlemen who eat up the profits of the farmer and make farm produce so expensive to city consumers.

The farmers are attending a conference here with a co-operative concern to devise some means by which the produce of about 1,000,000 farmers can be sold to consumers without paying any middlemen's profits. The advocates of the plan believe that it will reduce the cost of living.

The farmers have been here since Monday, and after a meeting at the New Grand Hotel yesterday morning, they all went down to The Outlook office in a body. There were so many of them that they swamped the outer office of The Outlook. The jam was such that it was decided to lead the farmers out into the hall again, and there Col. Roosevelt made his speech.

"I am not competent to speak of the specific means by which you are striving to effect your purpose," Col. Roosevelt told the farmers. "But I understand that you are trying to get more for your products while reducing the cost to the consumer. I am heartily in sympathy with this. I never object to paying more for what I get when it means profit to the farmer or wage-earner. But I very much object to paying more when it means merely paying a profit to the man who stands between the farmer or the wage-earner and myself. I believe that a high standard of wages would be best all round for this country. We must so shape matters that we can always maintain a high standard of wages.

"The farmer ought to get the benefit of the present high cost of the things he produces. We ought also to help the consumer by eliminating the middlemen. Some middlemen are needed, of course, to get the farmer's product to the market. But I am opposed to the middleman who merely stands in the way. Our most essential object should be to look out for the interests of the men who till the soil and of the wage-workers. If these two classes do well, we will fare well also. Nevertheless, we must not try to benefit ourselves by hurting others, unless they deserve to be hurt."

The farmers went away much pleased with the Colonel's speech. They will hold a meeting this afternoon and evening at the Waldorf.

A ROOSEVELT FAREWELL.

Nephew of the ex-President Dined by Associates on the Third Ave. Railroad.

A farewell dinner was given last night to James Alfred Roosevelt, nephew to the ex-President, and for four years General Superintendent of the Third Avenue Railroad. It was held at the Engineers' Club, 32 West Fortieth Street. Mr. Roosevelt will leave on Friday to become General Manager of the British Columbia Electric Railways Company of Vancouver, B. C.

William O. Wood, who was toastmaster, presented to Mr. Roosevelt a silver loving cup from his associates. Frederick W. Whitridge, receiver for the Third Avenue Railroad system, was the first speaker. He told of having "discovered" Mr. Roosevelt. His interest in the young man, Mr. Whitridge said, was like that of a father, for he had in a way been responsible for his success.

TO UNVEIL PARNELL STATUE.

Richard Croker Accepts Invitation for Ceremony Next Sunday.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—Richard Croker has accepted John E. Redmond's invitation to unveil the Parnell Monument. The ceremony will take place on Oct. 1.

The monument consists of a bronze statue of Parnell by the late Augustus St. Gaudens on a pedestal, with a shaft of Connemara marble forming the background. It is a tribute from the Irish people to the memory of the great Nationalist leader.

KILLS CHILD, DRIVES ON.

Was Galloping Team to Amuse Son of Employer—Held for Manslaughter.

Four-year-old Albert Butchin of 242 East 104th Street was run over and killed yesterday afternoon by a team of galloping horses, drawing a wagon belonging to Imperata Brothers of 2,019 First Avenue, while playing in the street near his home. The horses were being galloped by the driver, Peter Angelino, to amuse the young son of one of his employers.

After running down the boy Angelino continued to whip his horses to make his escape. Mrs. Sarah Butchin, mother of the dead boy, ran in pursuit of the wagon, calling on passers by to stop it. Isaac Urbach of 66 East 100th Street tried to seize the bridles of the team, but was beaten off by Angelino's whip.

Detectives Dietsch and Kahn were on the steps of the East 104th Street Police Station when they saw the wagon approaching with a crowd in pursuit. They leaped into the street and stopped the team. Dietsch hauled Angelino, who fought furiously, up the steps of the station house. He was roughly handled by several members of the crowd before the doors of the station house could be opened. They had been closed while the outgoing platoon was receiving instructions.

Dentist Upset Chair—May Die.

CHILDREN'S RESCUER DYING.

Stops Runaway Horse, but Receives Fractured Skull from Animal's Hoofs.

After saving several children from being injured by a runaway horse, George Ballantine is dying in the Nassau Hospital, at Mineola, L. I., of a fractured skull and internal injuries. The surgeons give no hope for his recovery.

Ballantine was driving a truck in Glen Cove yesterday morning when he saw a runaway horse dashing toward him, dragging a light wagon in which were three children, screaming with fright. The wagon was swaying perilously from side to side.

Ballantine leaped from his seat and landed in the road in front of the speeding animal. He grasped the bridle and was dragged for half a block. At each leap of the horse he was kicked by the animal's flying hoofs, thus sustaining his injuries. Finally he was forced to release his hold, but by thot time the animal was under control and was easily halted by a passerby.

The children Ballantine saved were Philip, Jr., and Elmer Oswald and Mary Smith. Elmer was taking his brother and their girl friend for a drive when the horse became frightened and bolted. The children ranged in age from 8 to 12 years. They wkere not harmed.

CHILD-BEATER SENTENCED.

Edwards Whipped Children of Woman with Whom He Boarded.

John D. Edwards of 234 West Twenty-second Street, a floor walker in a Sixth Avenue department store, was sentenced to sixty days in the City Prison by the Justices in Special Sessions yesterday after he had been found guilty of beating ten-year-old Mary Kuster of 234 West Twenty-second Street.

The complaint against Edwards, who is a big man, was made by the Children's Society, which presented evidence that he boarded with Mrs. Otto Kuster and assumed jurisdiction over her three children. He beat them so much that the neighbors complained to the police.

He was especially cruel to Mary, and, according to the testimony, beat her on the face with a strap.

The Man in the Tower

"The old last season's hat
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!"

London and Paris and the real hat oracles here say this-and-that will be the shape.

It's the story of the Three Black Crows—when it gets back to Broadway it is a thousand freak hats.

There's a real difference between a fashionable rough hat and a rough house hat.

We couldn't get what we wanted till we had it made.

A hat full of quality—soft or stiff—scratchup or smooth—accurately following the accepted blocks of London and New York.

It's the KENILWORTH.

Equal style with the $5 hats—a full intrinsic value of $3.

But a $3 KENILWORTH—either English or American block—is good enough for the man that can afford a hat with every suit.

EIGHTY CARS TO RUN IN GLIDDEN TOUR

Pathfinders Finish Their Task for Contest from New York to Florida.

The Glidden pathfinding trip from New York to Florida was finished yesterday, and the little Flanders "20" set a new mark for expedition in pathfinding work. Reports from the American Automobile Association show that the trip of more than 1,500 miles was covered according to schedule, and the going included all sorts of highways, from macadam to mud, mountains, deep sand, and fords.

The deep sands of the Northern Florida wilderness alternated with the long stretches where the car splashed through swamps and water a foot or more deep. The pathfinding and baggage cars finished with records of a unique nature, having worked so perfectly on the trip that neither required a moment's attention save provision of regular supplies.

The tour which starts from this city on Oct. 14 and which will cover the route of the National Highway, New York to Atlanta and Jacksonville, promises to be one of the most important endurance contests ever held. With sixty-one actual entries received, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association is still busy receiving additional entries, and, as the date for closing the entries is some time away, the American Automobile Association officials would not be surprised if eighty cars line up for the start. This would be surprising in view of the fact that the tour has twice been postponed owing to lack of entries. Enthusiasm has now been aroused, and the prospect of a delightful trip through one of the most attractive sections of the country, especially during the late Fall, has resulted in bringing out an unusually big entry list.

During the past forty-eight hours the following entries have been received by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association: Bishop and Varner, representing the Elkins Banner, Elkins, Ga., Maxwell Mercury; Julian J. Howard, Jacksonville, Fla., White Gasoline; L. C. Denmark, Jacksonville, Fla., Cadillac; R. S. King, Arcadia, Fla., Cadillac; Carolina Portland Cement Company, Atlanta, Ga., Ford; E. M. Willingham, Atlanta, Ga., Ford; J. O. Peasley, Alfretta, Ga., Ford "P"; C. A. McCardle, Indianapolis, Ind., E. M. F. "30"; Elkins Motor Car Company, Elkins, Ga., Columbia. This latter car will be driven by Miss Birdie Marks of Elkins, but was entered by the company, as no entries are received from women.

YALE'S FIRST GAME TO-DAY.

Elis Expect to Score More Points Against Wesleyan Than They Did In 1910.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 26.—Yale coaches expect the eleven to better last year's score of twelve points against Wesleyan in the opening game of the season here to-morrow, although strong reports from Middletown declare Wesleyan to be hopeful of winning. The Yale team is regarded as 25 per cent. stronger than when it opened the season last year.

Morning practice was abandoned to-day, probably for the season, and the afternoon drill consisted of two hours' practice in rehearsing formations, chiefly wing-shift variations, protecting onside kicks, forward passes, and field goals. Capt. Howe, McDevitt, Francis, and Anderson were used in the drop kicking. Yale has never started a season with four skilled drop kickers before.

Bomeisler and Walter Camp, Jr., alternated at left end, but Capt. Howe said this evening that Camp would start to-morrow's game. Bomeisler's knee, which was injured last season, has not fully regained its strength.

Aside from the visiting coaches Walter Logan and Clarence Alcott, the former ends, were present to-day. Because two new end rushes must be developed former ends have been urged to come here at present.

HARVARD'S GOAL CROSSED.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 26.—Although the Harvard regulars this afternoon had an easy time scoring against the scrubs, they also had their own goal line crossed for the first time this year. Friedly, quarterback on last year's freshmen, had a forward pass interrupted by Thomas of the second outfit, and the latter ran 75 yards, having a clear field.

The regulars played well together to-day, and again Smith and Potter worked several forward passes successfully. Wendell was very powerful in the back field. With Fisher at right guard, Gardiner at right tackle, and Smith at right end, this side of the rush line is settled, but it will be weeks before the other side is determined. Rogers, an old end, was tried at tackle to-day, while Parmenter and Jencks, who have been playing at tackle, were tried at centre, where a little more weight is desired. In the scrimmage Potter and Tom Frothingham both kicked field goals.

Cornell Men Have Easy Day.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—This was a relatively easy day for the Cornell football team after ten days of hard scrimmage and long drills in the fundamentals. The coaches gave the men plenty of opportunity to rest for to-morro's game with Allegheny College. Cornell will depend largely on a kicking game, and this afternoon Butler practiced punting for a long time. His kicks averaged forty yards or more. From the way forward passes were practiced, it was made evident that Eyrich, O'Connor, Hawkins, and Guyer will have their work cut out for them in these plays. Several new formations which the coaches have practiced for the past two weeks are to be given a trial against the Allegheny team. The team to-morrow will be made up: Eyrich and Guyer, ends; Capt. Munk and Champaign, tackles; O'Rourke and Franklin, guards; Weidenthal, centre; Butler, quarter back; O'Conner, left half back; Hawkins, right half back, and Hill, full back.

Miss Hotchkiss Wins Three Matches.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Miss Hazel V. Hotchkiss, of Berkeley, Cal., played in all three events of the Longwood Cricket Club lawn tennis tournament to-day, and came through each successfully. First she defeated Mrs. Barger-Wallach of Newport in the second round of singles, 6—1, 8—6. In the doubles with Miss Eleanora Sears, the match was a runaway against Miss F. Chase and Miss C. Thomson, the score being 6—0, 6—1. Then, in the afternoon, playing with E. H. Whitney of Boston, one of the Eastern doubles champions in 1910, she assisted in defeating the strong combination of Miss Eleanora Sears and Nathaniel W. Niles in surprisingly easy fashion, 6—2, 6—2.

Autoists Hear Knight at A. C. A.

The first club night of the season at the Automobile Club of America, Fifty-fuorth Street, west of Broadway, last night attracted a big crowd of members and friends to the assembly room, where Charles T. Knight, inventor of the sleeve valve engine that bears his name, delivered an interesting address. The curiosity of the automobile world to learn the particulars of the "Silent Knight" was in a measure responsible for the big turnout of makers and dealers. The New York branch of the Society of Automobile Engineers was well represented. Mr. Knight invited questions and generally discussed his engine, and a number of strongly contested points were thrashed out.

Clydesdales and Percherons at Show.

Robert O. Fairbairn, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Horse Show Association, stated last evening that most of the prize winners in the Clydesdale and Percheron classes at the New Jersey State Fair at Trenton to-day will be exhibited at Madison Square Garden the week of Nov. 18 to 25 at the National Horse Show. Among the exhibitors are the Avondale Stud Farm of Lafayette, Ill., Conyngham Brothers of Wilkes-Barre, Penn., Stony Brook Farm of Pennington, N. J., Collingwood Farm of Maplewood, N. J., and Fair Acre Farm, New Market, N. J. Nelson Morris & Co.'s international championship six-horse team which was so much admired at the Garden show last year is also on exhibition at Trenton.

ZETTLER RIFLE CLUB SHOOT.

Keim and Hessian Winner of Two Events at Schuetzen Park.

About forty marksmen participated in the Twenty-seventh annual shooting festival of the Zettler Rifle Club, which was held yesterday at Schuetzen Park, Union Hill, N. J., for the events arranged with an aggregate value of $324 in cash prizes.

Eight ranges, a distance of 200 yards each, were used, and a steady cracking of guns was heard about the park from dawn until evening. The marksmen all used the special Shuetzen rifles equipped with fine-set triggers and telescopic sights.

The feature event was the special twenty-five-ring tarket shoot for the Zettler Trophy, closed to members of the club, and was captured by William Keim, who turned in cards of 21, 23, and 24 for his three times at the range, making a total of 71 out of a possible 75.

This contest required a long time and the competition was very close, as T. C. Ross, who carried off second place, turned in a card of 70, and only missed his chance to tie for the trophy on his last shot.

J. W. Hessian carried off the prize for the "target of honor," which was also closed to members of the club, and, incidentally, was won with the same score Keim recorded in the feature event, 71. The scores:

Special 25-Ring Target, Open to All.—Zettler Trophy—W. Keim, 71; F. C. Ross, 70; W. A. Temes, 69; J. W. Hessian, 68; H. M. Pope, 68; Baal, 67; J. Williams, 66; A. Hubalek, 66; G. Schlicht, 65; J. J. Young, 65; R. Schwannemann, 65; J. Amonnoix, 65; A. Bergeraw, 64; F. M. Bund, 63; A. Landensack, 61; P. Schmitt, 60; Heeking, 60.

Target of Honor, Three-Shots.—Open to Members—J. W. Hessian, 71; A. Hubalek, 70; J. Donlen, 69; H. M. Pope, 68; F. C. Ross, 67; C. Smith, 67.

LARNED OFF TENNIS TEAM.

National Champion Cannot Go to Australia to Play for Davis Cup.

Owing to the fact that he is one of the executors of his father's estate, W. A. Larned, one of the members of the American tennis team selected to compete for the Davis international trophy announced to-day that it would be impossible for him to make the trip to Australia to play in the international match.

The tennis team, made up of W. A. Larned, M. E. McLoughlin, and Beals Wright, was to sail from Vancouver on Oct. 1, but the reservations have been canceled, and Mr. McLoughlin and Mr. Wright will sail a month later together with a third member of the team to be selected. Just who will take Mr. Larned's place is not known. R. D. Wrenn, Vice President of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, said yesterday:

"There is no one in the world more disappointed over his inability to go than Mr. Larned. He had been planning to make the trip for six months, but his business affairs have made it impossible. The loss of Mr. Larned from the American team is indeed a great one. It cannot be said at this time who will replace Mr. Larned."

Larned is the American National champion, and his play against the British tennis team recently in this city showed him to be at the top of his form. Without Larned the tennis players say there is small hope of bringing back the cup from Australia.

Metropolitan League Tennis.

There has been a bit of a bungle in straightening out the scores of the Metropolitan League, and instead of the Crescent A. C. and the Montclair A. C. being the finalists the New York Lawn Tennis Club will play Montclair for the championship next Saturday. The Crescents were eliminated a couple of weeks ago. No definite news has yet been given out where the match will be played. Lat Saturday the Kings County Tennis Club traveled to Montclair and lost to the Jersey men. On this side of the Hudson River there was a sort of three-cornered tussle between the New York Lawn Tennis Club, the Hamilton Grange Club, and the Knickerbocker Field Club, and the contests took place on the courts of the Hamilton Grange Club. From a previous meeting between the Hamilton Grange and the New Yorks the tally was two-all, and in the doubles Wylie C. Grant and Arthur T. Friedman of the New Yorks defeated Arthur Lovibond and Julie Steinnacher of the Hamilton Grange by the score of 8—2, 6—2. This made the New Yorks win by the score of three matches to 2. Then the New Yorks opposed the Knickerbockers and won by four matches to one. The summary:

Men's Singles.—R. H. Palmer, New York L. T. C., defeated Walter Jennings, Knickerbocker F. C., 6—4, 3—6, 6—4; T. R. Pell, New York L. T. C., defeated H. S. Roberts, Knickerbocker F. C., 6—4, 6—3; J. S. Galvao, New York L. T. C., defeated W. Cameron, Knickerbocker F. C., 6—4, 6—2.

Men's Doubles.—R. H. Palmer and J. S. Galvao, New York L. T. C., defeated Walter Jennings and J. Crafts, Knickerbocker F. C., 6—1, 6—1; H. S. Roberts and Lincoln Raimes, Knickerbocker F. C., defeated W. C. Grant and T. R. Pell, New York L. T. C., 2—6, 6—4, 9—7.

State Militia at Rifle Ranges.

NYACK, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Squadron A won in the headquarters match at the tournament on the State rifle range at Blauvelt, Rockland County, to-day. The First Brigade match was won by the Seventh Regiment, New York, the Second Brigade match by the Twenty-third Regiment, the Third Brigade match by the Second Regiment. The Seventy-fourth won in the Fourth Brigade match, and also in the Major General's match.

Come See The Self-Starting

1912 HUDSON "33"

NEXT year all leading automobiles are bound to be equipped with a Self-Starter and will have Demountable rims. You make a mistake if you buy any car not now equipped with a Self-Starter and Demountable rims.

You get these features on the HUDSON "33" now. The price complete is less than was charged for last year's model.

Practically every self-starter thus far produced has been thoroughly tested by Howard E. Coffin and his Board of Engineers.

The one you will see here is the only one the industry's first designer would approve for use on the HUDSON "33."

It proved to be the most reliable of all the many inventions of the many types that were examined. In thousands of tests it started the motor 98 percent of the times by the mere turning of a valve and the pressure of a button.

This is much better than was the showing of any other self-starter tried.

The HUDSON "33" was left for a week in a cold storage room. The temperature was below freezing but the motor instantly responded to the operation of the starter.

This means the end of the one objection that has been made against gasoline motors. The danger of cranking is over.

The superiority of this above all other starters is its absolute suretv to give a perfect mixture, not affected by any temperature.

There is nothing complicated—it has only a dozen parts. It is not heavy—the weight is less than four pounds. In thousands of tests it started the motor 98% of the time.

Next year all leading automobiles are bound to be equipped with self-starters.

Why not have such an equipment on the car you buy now? If you don't yours will be out of date next season. Sooner or later only the old models will be cranked from the front. It will seem odd then to see a man start his car that way.

Think of the satisfaction you will have now with this feature of the HUDSON "33."

You will confidently seat yourself at the wheel and in response to a simple operation the motor will start.

It will attract the admiration and envy of every automobile owner whose car must be started in the old way by cranking.

It is another feature of exclusive distinction, quite as gratifying as is the pleasure that all HUDSON owners derive from the fact that they can glide silently up to the curb without attracting the attention of those near by—so quiet is the car's operation.

Compare this with the noise and alarm created by other cars.

The self-starter on the HUDSON "33" removes the last objection women have to driving a gasoline car.

Demountable Rims Also Necessary

About the hardest, most disagreeable work about an automobile—and it usually comes in the most inconvenient places—is changing tires.

Not so when you have Demountable rims. The extra inflated tire can be substituted in a few minutes for a flat tire. There is no labor—nothing is difficult. There is no delay.

No other type of tire rim will be acceptable on any dependable car in the future. Why accept a car that hasn't this equipment now? It makes your automobiling so much more satisfactory. It will make your car so much more salable if ever you wish to dispose of it.

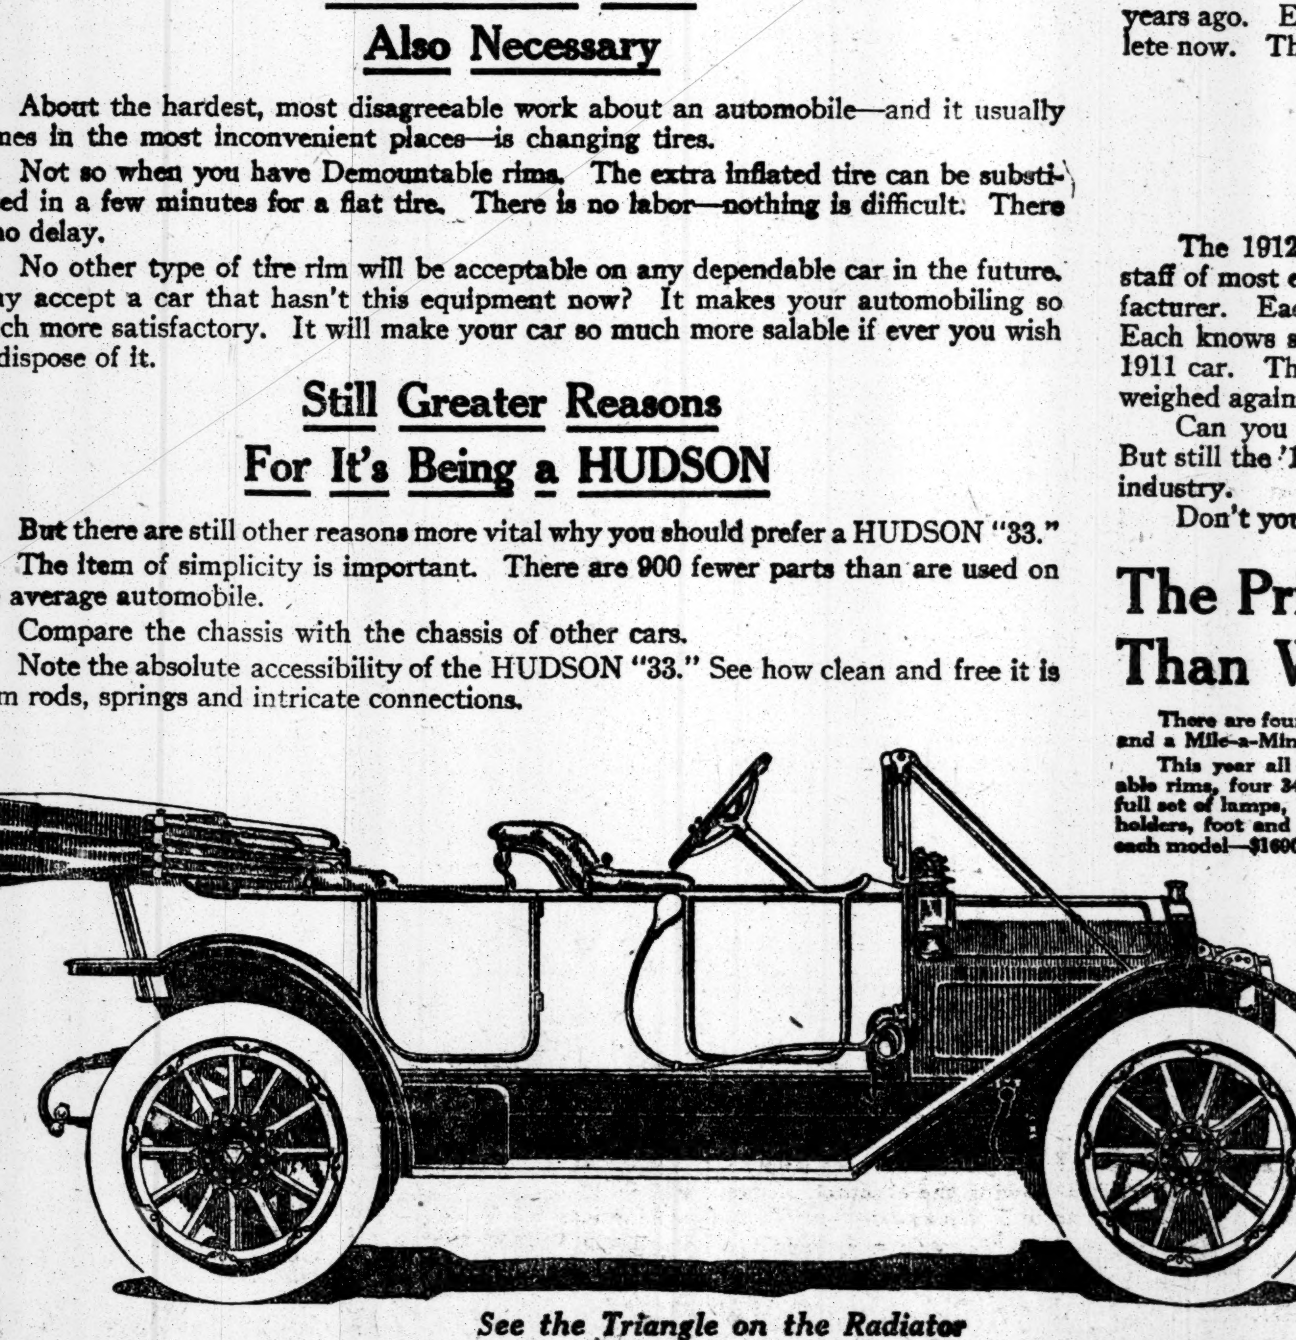
Still Greater Reasons For It's Being a HUDSON

But there are still other reasons more vital why you should prefer a HUDSON "33."

The item of simplicity is important. There are 900 fewer parts than are used on the average automobile.

Compare the chassis with the chassis of other cars.

Note the absolute accessibility of the HUDSON "33." See how clean and free it is from rods, springs and intricate connections.



See the Triangle on the Radiator

Unless you are a judge of automobile values you may not fully understand that accessibility means low cost of up-keep. If vital parts are placed out of easy access by the intricacies of design and construction, it means just that much extra trouble in making adjustments and repairs.

No car is quieter in operation. That comes from perfect design. It remains quiet through months of service. That is due to good workmanship. There is all the power you need for the hills that any automobile will make—all the flexibility required for any traffic conditions and a smooth, vibrationless operation similar to that experienced in most automobiles only when they are coasting down hill.

You can appreciate these conditions only by test. You must ride in cars of different makes and in the HUDSON "33" to understand what this means.

Costs Us $152 More Costs You Less

Instead of reducing manufacturing costs, we have added $152 for better materials and finer workmanship.

Yet the 1912 car sells for less than did the '11 of similar model and equipment.

Thousands paid $1500 for the 1911 HUDSON with fore-doors, top, magneto and Prest-O-Lite tank. Almost as many more had their cars equipped with 34x4-inch tires, with Demountable rims and glass windshield. This brought the price up to $1630.

The character of the equipment is much superior to and more luxurious than that used last year. Lamps cost us a great deal more. Upholstering this year costs $14.11 more per car. One set of bearings amounts to $7.35 more than did the bearings used for the same purpose last year. It takes three days longer to paint the bodies. Labor charges per car exceed last year by $35.65.

We built the best car then at the price. But we have progressed. Our men have greater skill. Many new refinements have been developed. They all make for a better car—for longer service—for completeness. They cost us more, but with all included, the car to you is less than was the 1911 model with fore-door and similar equipment.

Don't you think it wiser to buy a car in which quality advancement has been made rather than to choose an automobile that has been not increased in value?

Think also of the disadvantage of owning a car designed after the practice of three years ago. Engineers have advanced far. The ideals of that day are practically obsolete now. The HUDSON "33" is the one advanced car of the past three years.

Other Great Engineers Also Helped

The 1912 HUDSON "33" is the product of Mr. Coffin, plus the assistance of the staff of most experienced and largest number of engineers employed by any one manufacturer. Each—a specialist—has had experience that the others have not had. Each knows something the others do not know. These men spent months with the 1911 car. Then Mr. Coffin received their criticisms and recommendations. All was weighed against the combined experience and ingenuity of all members of the staff.

Can you imagine a more complete development? Nothing basic was changed. But still the '12 is different. It is the finished product of many men—the ablest in the industry.

Don't you think it better to see the HUDSON "33" NOW?

The Price Complete with Self-Starter is Less Than Was Charged for Last Year's Model

There are four 1912 HUDSON "33" models: A Touring Car, Torpedo and Roadster—all with fore-doors—and a Mile-a-Minute Roadster.

This year all models are listed with complete equipment including Disco self-starter, five Demountable rims, four 34 x 4-inch tires, except on the Mile-a-Minute Roadster, which are 32 x 4 inches, magneto, full set of lamps, black enamel, Prest-O-Lite tank, genuine mohair top, glass windshield, license number holders, foot and robe rails, tools, tool box on running board, tire repair outfit. The price is the same for each model—$1600, f. o. b. Detroit.

Two-base hits—Lord, (2,) Wolter. Three-base hits—McConnell, Collins, Hartzell. Sacrifice hits—Bodie, Sullivan, McIntyre. Sacrifice fly—Dolan. Stolen bases—McIntyre, (2.) Bodie, Collins, Dolan, Wilkinson. First base on errors—Chicago, 3; New York, 2. Left on bases—Chicago, 9; New York, 6. Double plays—Dolan and Knight, Wolter and Blair. Struck out—By Benz, 5; by Scott, 2; by Ford, 6. Bases on balls—Off Benz, 3; off Scott, 1; off Ford, 5. Passed balls—Blair, Sullivan. Hits—Off Benz, 9 in 7 2-3 innings, (at bat, 31;) off Scott, 0 in 1 1-3 innings, (at bat, 3.) Umpires—Messrs. Egan and O'Loughlin. Time of game—Two hours and seven minutes.

The White Sox smashed out a pair of timely hits after two were out in the first half of the ninth inning at the Hilltop yesterday, thereby pushing across the run that dissolved a 4 to 4 tie, and then retired the Yankees in order, winning the last game of the season between these teams, 5 to 4. A bungle by Lee Tannehill, after two Yankees had been laid away in the eighth inning, gave Chase's men a chance to overtake the Sox for the first time and for a minute or two the scene strongly suggested a Yankee victory. With the score tied and runners on second and third bases, Walter Blair faced Pitcher Scott and waved his bat as if he was about to cause trouble. It was three swings and good night for Walter, also for the Yankees' hopes.

Loose playing helped to score eight of the nine runs, the only counter that came through with a spotless record being the deciding run which the Sox pushed across in the ninth inning on Lord's double and a single by Matty McIntyre. Both Ford and Benz were touched up rather freely, but the hits were scattered so well that it required some bungles by their mates to pile up the score. The mates bungled, and the two teams went into the stretch on even terms. Benz apparently lost his grip after Tannehill's misplay had allowed the Yankees to tie up the game in the eighth inning, and he was recalled in favor of Jim Scott. It was no joyful scene that Jim faced when he took up the work of rescuer, as Hartzell was on third base and Gardner on second, with only a scratch hit needed to break up the game. Scott proved to be the proper pitcher in the proper place, and he laid Walter Blair low on strikes.

The Sox picked up a run in the first inning after a pass to McConnell had paved the way for a double play on Lord's pop fly to Dolan. Lord was trying to sacrifice. McIntyre pushed a single into left field, and hustled around to third base when Ping Bodie repeated. On a double steal Curry did not perform up to standard, and McIntyre scored. Barrows walked, but was forced at second by Tannehill. In the same inning the Yankees collected a double and a pass after two were out, and then Jack Collins speared a line drive that whistled off Jack Knight's bat.

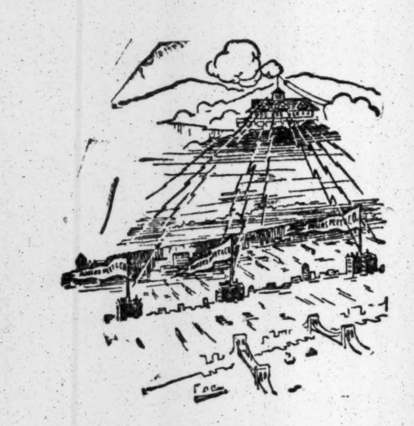
Collins worked Ford for a pass to start the second inning, and went around to third base when Williams threw poorly to second base to stop a steal. Sullivan had previously popped to Ford, and Benz followed by striking out. McConnell's triple to right field chased Collins home.

The Yankees began to pick up their runs in the third inning. With two out, Dolan singled past second base, stole second, reached third on a short passed ball, and made the last quarter on Wolter's slam to left centre. The latter was thrown out trying to steal.

The Sox threatened to score in the fourth inning, when the Yanks crowded in a brace of errors, and then the Yanks picked up a triple with two out, but neither side scored. In the fifth the Sox grabbed two more runs. Lord started with a double to centre, and McIntyre sacrificed. Curry stopped a liner by Bodie and threw the ball over Knight's head, Lord scoring. Bodie raced to second on the poor throw, advanced on Barrows's out, and counted on Tannehill's single to centre. In the eighth inning a great throw by Wolter to the plate nipped Collins when he tried to score on Sullivan's fly to Wolter. Collins was on third as the result of a scorching drive to the fence in left centre.

The Yankees picked up a run in the fifth. Williams was safe on an error by Tannehill, and he took two bases when Benz threw poorly to second after Ford's attempted sacrifice. Warhop, running for Williams, scored on Dolan's sacrifice fly to Bodie. In the ninth the Yankees got two more runs and overtook the Sox for the first time. With two out Cree walked and Knight was safe on an error by Tannehill. Hartzell lined over Tannehill's head, scoring Cree, and Gardner hit to left field, scoring Knight. Hartzell reached third on this hit, and Earl made second on the throw-in. Then Scott was called in, and he struck Blair out.

With two out in the ninth the Sox won the game on Lord's double to right field and McIntyre's single to left. In the Yankees' half Chase batted for Ford and walked. Wilkinson was put on to run for him, and just after Daniels had fanned Wilkinson was thrown out by Bodie, trying to make third base on Block's overthrow to second on Wilkinson's steal. Dolan ended the game with a grounder to McConnell.



Hard to strike three more convenient stores.

New York is always on the move, but every little movement has put us more in the center of things.

For instance:—

With the new Pennsylvania Station, the Hudson Tubes, the new retail district of Fifth Avenue, the development of the hotel and amusement centers—

There we are in the midst of it all—at 34th St. and Broadway.

As the wholesale district moves to lower Fourth Ave. it only comes nearer our store at 13th St. and Broadway—just around the corner from the 14th St. Subway Express station.

The new Manhattan Terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge will simply add to the accessibility of our store at Warren St. and Broadway—already the handiest of places for the great downtown world.

Each store complete in itself.

PENNANT FOR ATHLETICS.

Philadelphia Clinches 1911 Honors by Defeating Detroit Nine Yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 26.—The American League championship for 1911 was decided here to-day, when Philadelphia defeated Detroit by the score of 11 to 5. It was the fourth time that a local team piloted by Connie Mack has won the pennant in this organization, and it was the first time that Philadelphia has won the title in successive seasons. By repeating this year, Philadelphia earned the right to defend the title of world's champions, which it won last year in a series with the Chicago National League Club. Only two teams fought it out for leading honors in the American League this season—Philadelphia and Detroit. The latter got a flying start last Spring, and on May 19 the Tigers had a lead of twelve games over the home team. From that date the local team gained ground, and it took the lead from Detroit for the first time on July 4. The next day New York defeated Philadelphia, and the latter dropped to second place. Detroit kept in front until Aug. 4, when Mack's team, for the second time, jumped into first place Since then Philadelphia has never been headed.

To-day's game was won by hard hitting. Philadelphia drove Willett off the rubber in three innings and also hit Work's delivery hard. Baker led the slugging with two home runs and a pair of two-baggers in five times at bat. His total of twelve bases is probably a season's record for the major league. Both of Baker's home runs cleared the right-field wall, it being the first time a batsman ever performed this feat in the same game. Crawford led Detroit at bat with a home run and a single, while Bush and Cobb made two singles each. The score:

Senators Win in Third Inning.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Washington batted Mitchell out of the box in the third inning to-day and easily defeated Cleveland 8 to 2. Swindell, who relieved him, pitched good ball the remaining innings. The fielding of McBride and Elberfeld was a feature. Score:

F. A. M. Jumps in Membership.

The rapid growth of the Federation of American Motorcyclists continues to be a marvel—even to its officers. Jumping from a membership of 2,000 to 10,000 in two years, it is going ahead rapidly and at the present rate of gain it will have reached 20,000 before many months. In August last 592 new members were added to the F. A. M. Almost 600! This is at the rate of 7,200 members yearly. If it keeps up the F. A. M. will have almost doubled its membership by the time of its next annual meet, which will probably be held in July—at a place yet to be chosen by the Board of Directors

Stone Defeats Millette with Cue.

New York won another victory over Brooklyn in the continuation of the Greater New York three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at Doyle's Billiard Academy last night, when Joseph Stone of the Manhattan team defeated G. M. Millette, a Brooklyn player, by the score of 40 to 28. The New York player was handicapped at 35 points, while Millette was alloted 30 points.

Cubs Break Even with Boston.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Chicago and Boston broke even in the double header to-day, the final games of the year's series, Chicago winning the first game 10 to 2 and losing the second 5 to 7. In the first game Reulbach held the visitors to five scattered hits, two of which, with a fielder's choice, netted two runs for the Bostonians. On the other hand Weaver and Brown proved easy for the locals, each being hit freely, while the former was generous with his passes and the latter's support ragged.

In the second game Donnelly of Boston was master of the situation, allowing the locals to hit safely only six times. His poor support assisted the locals greatly in scoring. The Chicagoans used Slapnicka, one of their latest pitching acquisitions. The support behind him was loose, and the visitors had little difficulty with his curves. The second game was featured by the batting of Kirke, who made four hits, including two triples in five times at bat and of Donlin, who got three hits. The scores:

GIANTS SEE CUBS BATTLE WITH BOSTON

Not Strongly Impressed with Chicago's Showing Against Tailenders.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 26.—The Giants' baseball army, under Gen. McGraw, with a retinue of admirers, critics, and strategists, pitched camp in Chicago to-day, as confident of driving the Cubs to rout as J. Pierpont Morgan is that he still has coin enough left to buy to-morrow morning's breakfast. The team had a rest to-day and went to West Side Park to see the Cubs and Boston in battle. It seems inevitable among ball players never to stay away from the game. With a hundred other attractions that might interest them, they pass them all up and can always be found in the grand stand eating peanuts. The Cubs showed nothing against Boston that scared the New Yorks. In fact, in the second game Chicago was decidedly outplayed and with an inexperienced pitcher against them, too.

Much interest centres in the final series of the teams which begins here to-morrow. To New York it means the driving of the last few rivets which will fasten them securely to the National League pennant. Peerless leader Frank Chance, although he has about given up hope, means to fight to the end, and nothing would delight him or his fellow-townsmen more than to stop the Giants' spectacular final spurt. Chance was not in evidence at the ball park to-day. He stayed in the shadow of the bench. The New York players sat back of the Boston bench and looked on in silence. The Giant contingent was as brilliant as a sunrise on Lake Michigan. And this is the reason.

They are so sure now of playing in the world series that they have already counted up the profits and have begun to invest money in diamonds. Several of the players wore their new sparklers to-day, and the glaring reflection from that section of the stand flashed in the Cubs' eyes and affected their batting against the Bostons.

Christy Mathewson has had a good rest and is ready to go against Chicago to-morrow. Who his opponent will be has not been definitely decided, but in all likelihood it will be Miner Brown. The two moundmen have been in many struggles, and another is looked for if they clash to-morrow.

Fred Merkle's injured ankle has improved much with two days' rest and he will be ready to take his place at first base. The Giants are still 7½ games in front of the Cubs, although Chicago lost slightly in the percentage to-day. Chicago now has eleven games to play and the Giants 16. If the Cubs should win all of the remaining games, which is very unlikely, and the Giants should win 7 and lose 9 of their remaining 16, the Giants still would win by a percentage of 629 to 623.

If the Giants should take four straight from the Cubs they could lose the remaining 12 and win by the percentage of 610 to 604.

AVIATION FATALITIES.

Figures Show Lower Average During First Half of 1911.

That aviation is becoming safer as the science progresses is shown by a series of interesting averages compiled by an English writer, who has worked them out mathematically. Taking the fatalities of 1910, the writer estimates that each death represented a mileage of about 3,500 miles. During the year there were recorded 397 flights of over an hour in duration, and the death roll was 29. This year, between Jan. 1 and July 31, no fewer than 667 flights of over an hour's duration were placed on record, and the fatalities numbered 35. Thus the average has bettered itself to the extent that each death represents 4,900 miles of actual flight. But, as is carefully pointed out, the assumption is distinctly unfair to the actual improvement which has taken place in the practice of flying because, although it shows a diminishing mortality, it takes no account of the vast improvement in the quality of the flying, or of the fact that aviators now habitually fly in winds that a year ago would have kept them in their sheds.

Moreover it is pointed out that whereas in the earlier days only the most fitted, mentally and physically, were among those who dared to soar above, nowadays flight has become so much a matter of course that numbers of very ordinary folk go to swell the ranks of the aviators, and the margin of possibility of accident is thus largely increased. Therefore the average is even better than it looks, for while in the figures of 1910 are included only those who rank as experts of the first class, in those of the current year are to be numbered many who scarcely could be included in that category.

An analysis of the accidents of 1910 shows that the contributory causes of accident may be classified as follows: Faulty construction, mistakes of the aviator, atmospheric disturbances, accidents due to spectators. An examination of the records of this year's fatalities disclose the fact that the first contributory cause has almost entirely disappeared, and from first place it has fallen to second or even third. The analysis shows that weakness of construction has practically been eliminated, while the experience being gained every day will enable aviators to deal with the varying atmospheric conditions to be encountered in the upper air, while as control is simplified the personal equation will continually lessen as a producer of accident.

Fourth Transcontinental Tour.

Not content with having successfully completed a record-breaking motor cycle trip across the continent from San Francisco to New York, Volney E. Davis is now motor cycling back to San Francisco. This is not his first, but his fourth, transcontinental tour and Davis is the only motor cycle rider with a round trip from San Francisco to New York to his credit. He rode the 3,746 miles from the Western to the Eastern coast in 20 days 9 hours and 1 minute. He has now passed Toledo on his way back—and "going some."

Entries for Women's Golf.

Both Miss Dorothy Campbell and Miss Lillian B. Hyde have sent their entries in for the women's championship tournament of the United States Golf Association, to be held over the links at Baltusrol, Oct. 9 to 14. Regarding this competition, Robert C. Watson, Secretary of the association, has sent out information to the effect that entries will close on Oct. 2 at 6 P. M. Entries must be made through club secretaries and should be accompanied by the usual $5 fee. Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Philadelphia, champion of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, has decided to enter, and so has Miss E. L. Chandler of Huntingdon Valley.

SUMMONSES FOR FIGHTERS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Summonses were issued to-day against Jack Johnson and "Bombardier" Wells and their respective managers and James White, the promoter of the boxing match for £8,000 arranged to take place on next Monday at Earl's Court, to appear to-morrow before the Bow Street Police Magistrate. Though it is generally believed that the Home Office machinery will prove effective in stopping the prospective contest, there exists a wide difference of opinion as to whether the Magistrate will take the view that the boxing match, under rules and conditions accepted for Monday's projected exhibition of sparring, constitutes a technical breach of peace. Any wrongful act punishable by law is technically a breach of the King's peace in its narrower legal sense. However, a breach of peace means any affray or threats on part of persons to kill or beat one another or "who contend together with hot and angry words or go about with unusual weapons or attendants, to the terror of the people." It is believed that Sir Charles Mathews, Director of Public Prosecutions, who saw the Bow Street Magistrate to-day, indicated this would be the line of argument taken by the Government to-morrow.

Lawyers of Promoter White and their supporters profess confidence that they will be able to carry out the programme of a twenty-round contest with six-ounce gloves. Seats for the encounter are in good demand, though a growing conviction is that if the match does come off it will be a tame affair. Johnson, served with a summons at his training quarters, said he was going to plead his own case. The champion said: "I am going on with my training, expecting the fight to come off. We have signed to box under National Sporting Club rules, and if they stop this fight it means that every other boxing contest, no matter where held, must be stopped, too. If they stop this fight, England cannot claim again she is the nation that allows fair play. They say I am just after money. Well, I'm just doing my work, and can any man be blamed for getting the best price he can? I know this, that Jack Johnson has spent more money in London than he ever got out of it. France is a fair country, where they will always welcome a contest, and if this fight is stopped, I think it likely it will take place in Paris. If the contest is prohibited, I am certain to get £6,000, my stipulated share of the purse."

POORLY MATCHED BOUTS.

Twentieth Century A. C. Offers One-Sided Contests for Patrons.

Poor matchmaking was responsible for one of the poorest boxing exhibitions ever staged at the Twentieth Century A. C. last night. In the final bout Young Nitchie, a husky welterweight of Philadelphia, was pitted against Harry Stone, a slim lightweight, who had nothing but a tantalizing left hand and ability to dance around and avoid punishment. What little credit there was to be given to either of the contestants Nitchie was entitled to, in view of the fact that he tried hard to force matters and did the better work. Stone and Nitchie played the game of hound and hare for the entire ten rounds, with the Quaker doing the chasing.

The other ten-round bout was also a one-sided affair, in which Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn and close to the featherweight limit opposed a diminutive lad, Teddy Murphy of Boston, who weighed not more than 106 pounds.

The boy from the Hub displayed plenty of science, and had he been pitted against another of equal weight might have put up an interesting contest, but the Brooklynite was too big for him, and after being floored five times Murphy was knocked out in the fourth round.

The semi-final was no exception to the poor class of men, and, although not entirely up to the management, it resulted disastrously in the first round. Jim Carney, a good heavyweight, was to have met Sailor White. The latter refused to appear, and in order to go through with the bout Carney was opposed by Jack Malloy, a lean and wiry welterweight. Malloy never landed a blow and was kept busy ducking the vicious swings of Carney, who after dropping him three times was sent to his corner as Malloy was counted out.

The only bout that showed any good judgment of weight was the opening one. Young Albert and Knockout Eger were the principals, and, although well matched, the latter disposed of his opponent in the first round.

Brighton Beach Bouts.

Knockouts were furnished in the bouts decided last night at the Brighton Beach A. C. in the old Johnstown Flood Building, Coney Island. In the main attraction between Honey Mellody and Jimmy Mitchen, the latter got such a beating that the referee was compelled to interfere in order to save him from a knockout in the fourth round.

Young Salzburg put Young Andrews out of business in the first round of the first preliminary, and a like fate befell Jack Gotch, who was knocked out in the fourth round of the semi-final by Tom McDonough. Tommy Ginty appeared at the bouts without a scratch, after his fight in Scranton, where he beat Twin Miller in a ten-round bout.

Bouts at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 26.—Frankie Burns, regarded as ranking next to Johnny Coulon among the bantam weights, has been signed to meet the winner of the Monte Attell-Johnny Daly ten-round bout at the Orleans Athletic Club next Monday night. Burns has begun training at Jersey City.

Billie Papke, one-time claimant of the middle weight title, has been given a chance to meet Cyclone Johnny Thompson in a twenty-round go at the West Side Athletic Club on a percentage basis. Manager Tortorich said to-day that Thompson had accepted, but that no word had yet been received from Papke.

Loughrey Easy for Crouse.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 26.—Buck Crouse of Pittsburgh pummeled Young Loughrey of Philadelphia so badly for three rounds in a scheduled 12-round bout at the Armory Athletic Association to-night that the referee stopped the bout in the third round when Loughrey went to the floor under an especially heavy blow and seemed unable to rise.

WOMEN'S GOLF DOWN TO THE FINAL MATCH

Mrs. R. H. Barlow Plays Mrs. V. M. Earle on the Deal Links To-day.

Rapid progress was made in the invitation tournament for women at the Deal Golf and Country Club yesterday, two rounds being disposed of, instead of one, as had been originally intended. This advances the competition to the final stage and leaves as the survivors Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Philadelphia and Mrs. V. M. Earle, a representative of the home club. They will play to-day in the decisive match. Mrs. Barlow worked her way to the final by defeating Miss Louise Bijur and Miss F. H. Rosenheim in successive matches, both being one-sided. Mrs. Earle received a default in the morning, but later on proved too skillful for Miss E. L. Chandler of Huntingdon Valley.

Coincident with the match rounds was an eighteen-hole medal-play handicap. Mrs. Barlow competed for this in the morning, and the champion of the Women's Eastern Golf Association played so steadily that an 88 rewarded her efforts. The committee penalized her at plus 2, but even at that the Merion golfer won with a 90 net. Hers was the only gross score better than 100.

Playing in that fine form, it is little wonder that Mrs. Barlow defeated Miss Bijur by an 8-and-6 margin. In the afternoon Mrs. Barlow did not play quite as fast against Miss Rosenheim, though the first named turned for home 4 up. In addition to the chief set, first-round matches in the second and third eights were also run off. The summary:

First Eight, First Round.—Miss F. H. Rosenheim, Deal, beat Mrs. C. W. Rendigs, Midland, 2 up; Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, beat Miss Louise Bijur, Hollywood, 8 up and 6 to play; Mrs. V. M. Earle, Deal, beat Mrs. F. T. Hayes, Englewood, by default; Miss E. L. Chandler, Huntingdon Valley, beat Mrs. H. B. Goldsmith, Hollywood, 6 up and 5 to play.

Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. Barlow beat Miss Rosenheim, 5 up and 4 to play; Mrs. Earle beat Miss Chandler, 4 up and 3 to play.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

The German-made Opel car is the latest of the foreign cars to be placed on the market in competition with American-made automobiles. Irving Stern, a son of Louis Stern, the dry goods merchant, has secured the United States rights for the car, and has installed E. B. Evans as manager, with salesroom at Fifty-second Street and Broadway.

After a severe competitive test and technical examination, the municipal authorities of Oklahoma City, Okla., have purchased two Model 4-35 Pullman cars. They are of the five-passenger touring-car type, and will be used by the city officials in the carrying out of their duties.

Never was there more strikingly illustrated the use of the old Colonial art, combined to advantage with modern mechanical ingenuity, than in the latest addition to Automobile Row, the Regal 20 Underslung Colonial coupe. The ripe art of the Colonial coachbuilder, of luxurious beauty, was never so strikingly enhanced as in its use in conjunction with the most modern motor-car construction, the underslung. In developing the Colonial coaches roominess was the prevailing essential. This, together with the underslung frame, gives ample head room, a most desirable asset for comfort. The whole interior of the coupe carries out the idea of roominess, and the usual fault of inclosed bodies, the typical cramped position, gives way to the utter comfort and space of the Colonial.

After wrestling for years with the problem of how to prevent tire casings from rusting to the rims, particularly in damp sections and in the vicinity of the seacoast, automobilists are finding a way to mitigate this evil and thereby to save much muscular effort and mental distress. The chief trouble has always been with the various forms of the clincher tire, which seemed literally to grow to the rim after being run a few weeks where the atmosphere contained a certain amount of brine. But from the coast countries in general and the Gulf States in particular comes the word that the No-Rim-Cut tire, made by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, does not stick to the rim with half the persistence as do the other types. This is due to the fact that the ordinary casing must hook into the side ring, and therefore has a larger surface in contact with the steel than do the No-Rim-Cut, which presents a flat surface to the metal and is held to the rim by the 126 piano wires in the bead of the casing.

CHAMPION HORSES UNDER THE HAMMER

Senator C. W. Watson Announces Dispersal Sale of His High-Bred Harness Horses.

The greatest stable of high-stepping carriage horses will go under the hammer at Durland's Riding Academy, Sixty-sixth Street, near Central Park West, on the evening of Oct. 9, when the absolute dispersal sale of the Fairmont Farm's collection of champion horses is announced. United States Senator C. W. Watson of West Virginia has for the past ten years been one of the leading exhibitors of show horses in the United States. His victories have not been confined to this country, as his horses won many blue ribbons at the first international show at the London Olympia four years ago.

Never before in the history of horse show sales have so many real champions been sold at one time. The sales of the stables of Paul A. Sorg, Mrs. John Gerken, Mrs. J. B. Grosvenor, E. E. Smathers, C. K. G. Billings, and other prominent exhibitors brought a number of aristocratic bred equines under the hammer, but the Fairmont Farm horses belong to a class almost distinctively their own. As a collection of high-stepping harness horses, the stable has never been approached, and no stable of horses of equal size ever won as many blue ribbons as those awarded to Senator Watson's horses.

Sixteen horses will be sold, which with two exceptions constitute the stable of Senator Watson. The only reservations are the old champions Lord Baltimore and My Maryland, which are 11 and 10 years old, respectively. These were the first champions of the Fairmont Farm, and will be kept for Mrs. C. W. Watson, whose clever driving won many championships for the stable. Mrs. Watson will use the pair for private use.

Among the frequenters of the horse shows no horses were better known or more universally popular than Senator Watson's. Although the stable was comparatively small in number, it has won more prizes than any other in the United States during the past ten years. Last year a capable judge at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden approximated the value of the Fairmont Farm's stable at $125,000. This figure was rather conservative than otherwise.

Senator Watson has not exhibited his horses since the Chicago show last November, owing to his duties at Washington. As the horses are in superb condition and almost ready to be sent in the show ring at once, Senator Watson decided to sell them rather than let them get out of condition. Among the famous prize winners which will go under the hammer are Kitty Grey, Ringing Bells, and Norina, three chestnut mares, each standing 14.3 hands, representing the most perfect type of the high-class carriage horse. Whether entered as tandems, pairs, or singles, this famous trio seldom met with defeat, and Mrs. Watson was invariably holding the reins when the ribbons were awarded.

Another famous pair is Loudwater Rob Roy and Loudwater Diana Vernon, for which Senator Watson paid $7,450 at the Paul A. Sorg dispersal sale. Other almost equally well-known horses are Lady Baltimore, My Maryland II., Fairmont, Chatterbox, Gongelt, Grangelt, and Moonshine. The sale promises to be the opening social feature of the Winter, and will attract horsemen from all parts of the country. The list follows:

Kitty Grey, ch. m., 14.3, aged.
My Maryland II., br. g., 15.2, 10 years.
Norina, ch. m., 14.3, aged.
Ringing Bells, ch. m., 14.3, aged.
Loudwater Rob Roy, b. g., 16.0½, 6 years.
Loudwater Diana Vernon, b. m., 16.0½, 5 years.

Moonshine, ch. m., 15.3½, 8 years.
Monogah, b. g., 16, 6 years.
Lady Witcham Friar, ch. m., 15.3½, 5 years.
Chatterbox, ch. m., 14.3, 9 years.
Fairmont, b. g., 16.0½, 7 years.
Lady Baltimore, b. g., 16.0½, 10 years.
Dilham O'K., blk. m., 12.2, 5 years.

TWO HORSES FALL IN RACE.

Driver Murphy Thrown Over Rail and Fractures a Rib.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 26.—Another sensational spill to-day marked the Fall trotting meeting of the Columbus Driving Association. It occurred in the first heat of the 3-year-old trot of the Horse Review Futurity, and almost directly in front of the crowded grandstand. The horses were finishing their mile when Mainleaf, which was second, stumbled and fell within fifty yards of the wire, throwing Driver Curtis to the track. At almost the same time Baroness Helen, just back of the distance flag also fell, throwing Tommy Murphy over the rail. The other drivers, by good work, managed to get around the fallen horses. Neither of the horses was hurt, and Curtis escaped uninjured, but Murphy suffered a broken rib. The race went over until to-morrow on account of darkness.

The first race on the card was the unfinished 2:09 pace, in which heats had been raced yesterday. Heir-at-Law the First, was a big favorite, but My Shady Belle, the Snow entry, took three straight heats and the race. In the sixth heat all the horses except My Shady Belle and Heir-at-Law the First were ruled off under the rules.

The 2:07 pace stake proved easy for the favorite. Peter the Second, driven by Valentine. He was never headed, and won in straight heats. The 2:10 trot found Chatty Direct, Binvolo, and Maude Light, equal favorites in the pool. The race was unfinished after four heats, in which Creighton landed first twice, and Binvolo and Chatty Direct once each. Summaries:

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK, LOUIS M. JONES, et al., Plaintiffs, against STURTYVANT REALTY COMPANY, et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 5th day of September, 1911, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 4th day of October, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by JOSEPH P. DAY, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain plot, piece or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon and to be hereafter thereon, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Ninety-third Street with the westerly side of Central Park West and running thence westerly along the northerly side of Ninety-third Street one hundred and seventy-three (173) feet four and one-half (4½) inches; thence northerly parallel with Central Park West one hundred (100) feet eight and one-half (8½) inches to the centre line of the block; thence easterly along said centre line seventy-three (73) feet four and one-half (4½) inches; thence northerly again parallel with Central Park West twenty-five (25) feet; thence easterly and parallel with the northerly side of Ninety-third Street one hundred (100) feet to the westerly side of Central Park West, and thence southerly along the westerly side of Central Park West, one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet eight and one-half (8½) inches to the corner aforesaid, the point or place of beginning.

Said premises being the same premises which were conveyed by said plaintiffs and their respective wives to said defendant Sturtyvant Realty Company, by deed bearing even date and delivered and intended to be recorded simultaneously with said mortgage.

Dated New York, September 9th, 1911.
FRANCIS W. POLLOCK, Referee.
W. BENNETT MARX, Attorney for Plaintiffs, 257 Broadway, Manhattan Borough, New York City.

The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is two hundred and twenty-two thousand four hundred and ninety-one 91-100 ($222,491.91) dollars, with interest thereon from the first day of September, 1911, together with costs and allowance, amounting to four hundred and ninety-two 65-100 ($492.65) dollars, with interest from September 5th, 1911, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is sixteen thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars and interest. Said premises will be sold subject to a mortgage for $750,000.00 on which there is unpaid $745,000.00 and interest thereon, recorded in New York County Register's office in Section 4, Liber 200 of Mortgages, page 63; covenants and restrictions contained in instruments recorded in said Register's office in Liber 1,274 of Conveyances, page 480, and Liber 1,275 of Conveyances, page 482; party wall agreement referred to in deed recorded in said Register's office in Section 4, Liber 26 of Conveyances, page 323, so far as the same may be in effect; covenant and restriction contained in deed of a portion of said premises recorded in said Register's office in Section 4, Liber 131 of Conveyances, page 157; state of facts an accurate survey of said premises will show and tenancies, if any.

Dated New York, September 9th, 1911.
FRANCIS W. POLLOCK, Referee.

SUMMONSES.

CONCERNING INTEGRATION AND DISINTEGRATION.

Those whose memories are equal to a reminiscence of a decade or so can recall the dinner at which some one hundred Captains of Industry were assembled in honor of Prince HENRY, who was touring the United States to learn the secret of the amazing prosperity with which Americans were dazzling the world. There was neither deception nor secrecy about it. Never were such profit or such wages. Critics contended that it was mere stock juggling, and doomed to early disaster. The disaster still merely threatened, and the prosperity has survived until this day, despite such an attack upon enterprise and achievement as the world has never experienced elsewhere, or in other times. The practical men will always be able to contend that there was merit in the idea which lay at the basis of what they did. That idea was the integration of industry, or the aggregation into a single profit of all the various profits in any process of industry. A manufacturer instead of paying a profit to subordinate producers would himself take all the profits of production from the ground to the consumer. He would own the land or the mines which produced the raw material. He would own the railways or steamships or pipe lines which transported the raw materials or finished product. He would be so "financed" that he would need no banking discounts. In a word, the organizers of industry would revolutionize it, and would utilize the resources of science, and command in a campaign whose glories of peaceful accomplishment should rival the destruction of war.

The record shows they did it. The latest entry of the record is the report on the Tobacco Trust. It was grossly overcapitalized, says the report, but the fact is that it earned an income upon the capitalization until it was forbidden, and distanced competition on old lines. The efficiency and solidity of the Oil Trust will not be denied by its competitors. It will not be contended that they were flawless enterprises, or that some proportion of misconduct may not have entered into organizations of such great proportions and wide territorial extent. In the Government prosecutions which cause the present unrest among business men the grievance is that the concerns exist. Judges have found that their organizations do not conform to the law, and some Judges have disagreed with other Judges whether or not their acts were conformable to good practice. But these issues of fact have not been raised before juries in these cases, and it is not permissible to say that the judgment of business men is a unit in support of the findings of the Judges. If the business world were satisfied with the judicial condemnation of such practices there would be no unrest. If the business world were satisfied with the law which guided and controlled the Judges there would be no trouble. The opposition of the business world is as much a fact at least as the wickedness of the condemned trusts—and who knows how many such there are, or what their fate will be?

In such conditions the condemned humbly bow to the will of the legislators and the mandate of the court, and ask for the advice of the prosecutors. The reply is worth noting by those who look for the rehabilitation of prosperity by law. It is not intended to criticise the reply. On the contrary it has already been praised in these columns as correct, and in fact the only permissible reply. The fact to which it is desired to call attention is that the law has no remedy for the conditions which it has caused. It was not the business of government to conceive of integration of industry, any more than it was the business of government to teach how to lay bricks in the manner of modern efficiency. Neither is it the business of government to offer any substitute for integration. All that the law orders is disintegration, the reversal of the process of integration. In the words of the Washington statement, "The Law Department of the Government cannot undertake to act as universal counsel for the trusts." Certainly not. Again we read, "Counsel are having very little aid from the Circuit Court, which is not disposed to take the responsibility of dictating a constructive programme." Of course. Who could expect anything different, or would have anything done differently by Judges or prosecutors? They are not Captains of Industry. Industrial imagination and accomplishment is none of their trade, and is wrong when achieved by those whose business it is. "Disintegration" is the order of the day, just as "integration" was the order of the times which produced the prosperity from which we prayed to be delivered, and are not altogether happy now that our prayers are heard.

It is not a matter of oil and tobacco, or even of the one hundred bad trusts among the thousands in the directory which Mr. WICKERSHAM examined. It is a matter of principle affecting acts done every day this week and every week. Yesterday was announced the formation of a "chain" of thirty-five groceries which hereafter will co-operate in order to take advantage of their combined buying and distributing power. They cannot thrive unless they sell at attractive prices. The Democratic leader in the Senate advised his constituents to "stableize" the prices for their cotton by combining to hold a full crop to remedy the deficiency of a lean year. The details have been announced of co-operation between the Hill and Harriman systems of railways in using the same piece of difficult construction in Oregon, instead of building parallel and competing routes. President VAIL says that he is reluctant to enter into a cable rate war, and will develop the combination of cables and land lines under his management in full reliance that it is not a combination in restraint of trade. It is a rare day when such incidents are not chronicled in columns beside those in which are recorded the victories of the courts and the Government in prosecuting to the bitter end the war on integration of industry, and the punishment of efficiency and success in business. What's the answer? It very much concerns the man in the street to furnish the answer, and to think as straight as he already has thought hard.

THREATS OF ITALIAN SOCIALISTS.

According to the cable dispatches the Italian Socialists have gone a step further in protesting against war than their German brothers did when the excitement over the Morocco affair was at its height. At the big mass meeting in Treptow Park, Berlin, Sept. 3, the Socialists protested against the supposed warlike attitude of the German Government. At Stuttgart, the Socialists refused the proposal of French Socialists to declare a general strike in case of war. Herr BEBEL, in an impassioned speech, though protesting against war, indicated that German Socialists are still Germans. They would do all they could to prevent war, and, if war were declared, would do their utmost to bring it to a speedy close.

Nevertheless, the Italian Socialists, who, presumably, control all the labor organizations in that country, must have taken their cue from the Treptow Park protest. If a general strike is ordered, it will only increase the horrors of war. The Italian people who are not Socialists warmly support their Government's action in the Tripoli matter. The cause of Socialism and labor will not be strengthened by opposition to the Government and the commercial classes. There is little likelihood that an attempted general strike would succeed. Such a movement has never been successful. The German Socialists, guided by wiser heads, chose the safer course and probably exerted more influence. The spirit of unrest has carried the Italian Socialists too far.

SURVIVAL OF "JAY" FARMERS.

Sound truth was forcibly and clearly expressed in the speech of HENRY WALLACE, President of the Conservation Congress, at Kansas City Monday. The greatest need of this country is the upbuilding of its farms. The time is near at hand, said Mr. WALLACE, when we shall need practically all our grains to provide for the wants of our own population. Already we need more meat, poultry, eggs, vegetables, and fruits. We need, most of all, a new supply of competent farmers. For the best part of a century the country boys have been forsaking the farm for the city. A few have made large fortunes, most of them have been lost in the crowds. The reasons for deserting the farms have ceased to exist. Urban attractions no longer so greatly outweigh the compensations of farm life. The farms are no longer remote. Railroads, telegraph, and telephone have brought them in close touch with the centres of civilization. The science of farming has been developed, the Federal and State Governments have established bureaus to educate the farmer, and help him to develop his industry, the most important in the world. But in the nineteenth century the farms were all but ruined by incompetent farmers, "land robbers," who mined rather than cultivated the land, and wasted the stored fertility of ages.

Of course, there have been many changes. The scientific farmer is not unknown. But the "jay" farmer, the butt of the jesters of a whole century, still survives as the most easily recognized type of the American agriculturist. He clings to his almanac, his patent cure-alls, his cowhide boots, his shiftless ways, his ignorance. The means of education and material improvement are always close at hand, but he has not learned, and he seems to lack the faculty of learning.

The farmer's life, properly directed, is not harder than that of any other man. His profits, when he knows how to employ his capital and his industry, are large. Modern applied science has provided for him all the means required to make an acre of land produce three or four times its average yield in the past at less than half the labor. The country needs good farmers, many thousands of them, and good lands are waiting for the intelligent tiller in every State. The old, ignorant, ill-equipped farmer must disappear if the country is to fulfill its destiny. The real farmers of this hour, the men who are making farming pay, are the equals of the city man in breadth of culture and knowledge of the world. They are not "rubes." But there are too few of them.

THE COURT HOUSE SITE.

The proposed exhibition of plans of sites for the proposed new Court House can do no harm, and it is good to keep public interest alive on this subject. The committee under the direction of which the exhibition is to be held is made up of members of a dozen or more societies deeply interested, for one reason or another, in the selection of a site. The reason of the interest felt by the Bar Association and the New York County Lawyers' Association is easily understood. So it is with the Architectural League and most of the other societies. But officially the members of these societies have no more to do with the selection of the site than the general public, though they probably are more competent to express intelligent opinions concerning it.

One thing the public knows well is that there has been too much delay in the matter. The old Tweed building is not fit to house our county courts. A suitable site should be quickly selected, and with as little further argument as possible. We understand that one particular site is most strongly favored by the Board of Estimate. That site, probably, will be equally satisfying alike to the bench and the bar.

POLITICS IN KANSAS AND WASHINGTON.

Out in bleeding Kansas Gov. STUBBS, whose repute as an insurgent is above the average, introduced President TAFT in these words the other day:

> I want to present the President of the greatest Nation in the world. I hope Kansas, without regard to Church or party or faction, will give President TAFT the most royal reception that any President of the United States has ever had.

The telegraph hardly carries these harrowing words to Washington before somebody takes alarm at the destructive character of the President's Western speeches, and announces that the times call for a constructive rather than a destructive statesman to save the Nation. The Democrats, it seems, are to swing into line for the conservative HARMON, and the Republicans are in need of the same sort of Republican to oppose him unless they are to lose their only chance.

Can it be doubted who will save the Republican Party from the destruction wrought by TAFT? It is hardly necessary to name LA FOLLETTE. He will be identified by his acts. He is the proposer of the idea that all the trusts shall be considered in unreasonable restraint of trade, until they prove the contrary, and that the burden of proof of innocence shall be upon the accused. Another item in the programme of this constructive statesman is that the Government shall build a railway to develop the resources of Alaska, and thus foil the wealthy malefactors who stand ready to do it for nothing and take their risk of recouping their costs from their profits.

This modest, retiring statesman, who owns only one newspaper, and who does not know what a literary bureau is, is the very man to save the country, and if these constructive ideas are not sufficient he will produce others of the desired sort, if he is only told what will catch the votes. Everybody will vote for him in response to the overwhelming demand of the business world harried by the President, and solaced by the anticipations of happy days when the proprietor of Government ownership, and the initiative, and the referendum, and all the rest, is dispensing prosperity at Washington.

PROF. HANUS'S INVESTIGATION.

The investigation of the public schools by Prof. PAUL H. HANUS has already proceeded far enough to show that it is to be constructive, not destructive, to be helpful, not hurtful, of the best in the course of study and the method of supervision. It is a familiar charge that pupils are often graduated from the elementary schools who cannot write correctly and legibly a composition of simple English sentences. The charge may be unfounded. It has also been said that the directing forces of the system do not operate to obtain the best work and the best results from the army of 17,000 teachers and principals. That accusation may also be unjust. It is true that last year 80,000 elementary school pupils in regular classes failed of promotion. It is true that at the opening of this session 76,000 elementary school pupils are on part time. It is true that last year the 96 attendance officers investigated 175,000 "cases" under the compulsory attendance act.

Without accepting anything for granted, except that which is admitted and obvious, Prof. HANUS is vigorously endeavoring to get at every essential fact bearing on the organization of the Department of Education, the powers and duties of the supervising staff, the work of the principals and teachers, and the course of study, on the one hand, on the other, the results, as shown in the ratio of graduations, the ratio of promotions, the ratio of truancy, the ratio of part time. In time all these facts on both sides will be properly collated and finally analyzed. This done intelligently and honestly, as it is certain to be done, the good points and the weak points will be bound to appear. This investigation does not necessarily carry any sting or stigma for the present management of the schools. The men at the head of it, and the men and women in it, are working hard and honestly and enthusiastically for it. Few doubt that. But it is very difficult when close to a large thing to see a very large part of it at one time, or to comprehend quite as fully the true relation one part should bear to another as can be done from a greater distance. Prof. HANUS approaches his subject from the greater distance and, we believe, with an open mind and the determination to build up wherever possible and not tear down. The schools have nothing to fear from his touch.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Women Who Work in Foundries. Massachusetts, the State that has, perhaps, been more active and intelligent than any other in improving and guarding the conditions in which its enormous army of industrial workers perform their tasks, has evidently been equally surprised and shocked by the revelation that in many of its big foundries the making of "cores" is done by women.

The charge, as just brought by the officials of various unions that resent the substitution of women for men in this employment, is that the work is extremely severe, that the hours are long, and that the temperature of the rooms where it goes on is so high that, though there is no little mingling of the sexes in its performance, neither of them wears enough clothing to meet the demands of ordinary decency.

There is no pretense that the women do the work better than the men did it and no denial that they do it for about half as much. To make the situation to which public attention has suddenly been called the more interesting, among the establishments accused of profiting from this brutal form of economy is the Sturtevant Blower Works, controlled by Gov. Foss himself. Others are the Walworth Manufacturing Company, the Blake & Knowles Pump Works, and the Dean Steam Pump Company.

The Boston papers have been questioning the women workers in these places, and apparently without exception find them contented with their lot and inclined to resent what they shrewdly see is rather an attempt to take their work away from them by so restricting and conditioning it as to make their employment unprofitable than an effort to raise their pay or to better their surroundings. They are all, however, newly arrived immigrants, and their contentment is hardly proof that their work as done is compatible with enlightened ideas as to social and industrial propriety.

These preliminary investigations indicate that there is no very serious basis for the talk as to insufficient clothing, and at the Sturtevant works no ground at all for it, but the work is of a kind heavier than women in America are supposed to do, the hours are exhausting, and the earnings of the women would not be called a "living wage" by those for whom that phrase means something more than enough to keep off starvation. The matter is in for official investigation, and the unions and the settlement workers are combined to see that it is immediate, rigid, and complete.

Certainly an Ugly Comparison. Now that a Baptist minister out in Ohio has protested against the acceptance, as reward for performing the marriage ceremony, a fee the size of which depends not upon the value of the service rendered, but upon the caprice—that is, the generosity or parsimony—of the bridegroom, the question is likely to receive no little discussion. As is the case with most questions, it has two sides, and a good deal can be said both for and against the clerical custom of taking whatever may be offered, be it much, little, or nothing at all.

For one thing, the custom is ancient and its propriety has been recognized by a great number of worthy men—men whom nobody has yet thought of charging with lack either of dignity or self-respect. The money given, too, need not be considered as payment for work done, and the nicest way to look at it, probably, is not as the clergyman's wage, but as a free-will offering to the Church, through him as its representative, and therefore of a size to be proportioned, in the giver's own judgment, partly to his happiness and partly to his resources. The minister has much the same right to accept, as the doctor has to demand and insist on getting, a big fee from the rich man and a small one from the poor man, and to serve the man with nothing for nothing.

On the other hand, there is, as the Ohio Baptist says, an undeniable resemblance between the minister's fee and the waiter's tip, and the resemblance is to a thing evil and repulsive to the right-thinking. The celebrant of marriage earns something or he doesn't. If he does he should not be compelled to manifest a mean gratitude for an excessive recompense or to conceal a just resentment of a clipped remuneration. It is the uncertainty of the thing that is its obnoxious feature, and there is involved, also, the dreadful possibility that for a big fee some minister may some day declare married two people of such dubious marriageability that no small fee would tempt him to undertake their bonding

With or without reason—opinions differ as to that—there has been talk of late about the power of money thus exercised over clerical consciences, and it was talk most painful to all except the malicious and the ungodly, whom of course it delighted. Had there been no fee there would have been no scandal, or at least it would have been a scandal of a less grievous because unmercenary sort.

Immigrants Highly Desirable. As it is highly desirable for at least half a dozen reasons, all good, that for some time to come a considerable number of Cuban children should go to school in this country, the gross stupidity of applying to some who came here recently a law designed to prevent the importation of children for a wholly different purpose is so clearly evident that repetition of the blunder should promptly be made impossible.

Nobody had the faintest suspicion that the little Cubans were to be misused or exploited under any padrone system. They came to buy the education and training which we could have well afforded to give them for nothing if the circumstances of their parents had not made them independent of favor. Only the letter of the law did their unattended arrival violate, since on landing they would have been taken at once in charge by the responsible teachers to whom they had been intrusted. But they were not allowed to land; instead they were sent to Ellis Island, and only after a lot of trouble and an appeal to Washington was the technicality that barred their way lowered.

Obviously this law, like other exclusion laws, should contain an exception as to students demonstrably of good faith. These it is to our advantage to admit from every country that is willing to send them, and it is especially to our advantage to teach as many Latin Americans as possible that we do not give quite all our thoughts to the annexation of their territory.

OUT-OF-TOWN CHECKS.

History of Movement to Have Them Accepted at Par.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A single member of the Clearing House Committee prevents the relief of bank depositors in New York from all collection charges on Connecticut checks. Of course, when horses are driven tandem or abreast and one falls, the procession halts.

This is not the first time that some New York banker has vetoed the acceptance of the Connecticut overtures. But the reason given is novel. It seems, the objection is that if Connecticut checks are received in New York at par and collected without charge, New Jersey banks will want their checks to be received on the same terms. Why not let every bank in the State of New Jersey have such terms? No depositor in this city would object, and no bank should. Shall not New York banks receive New Jersey checks at par, if the New Jersey banks will pay them in full by return mail? Practically every bank in Connecticut offers that. Does this vetoing member of the Clearing House Committee look for better terms from New Jersey than full payment by return mail? To be received at par here, must a Jerseyman's check, perhaps, be paid at some New York bank before presentation to his bank in New Jersey?

New York banks are now receiving some New Jersey checks at par, that is, those on Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne, and Newark. However, the checks are never paid before examination by the banks on which they are drawn, and some are not paid as quickly as they would be by return mail.

For over 100 years New York banks have been collecting out-of-town checks. In all that time the best terms ever offered to New York City have been these from New England, where the banks have had experience with the collection of their checks through the Boston Clearing House, and fully appreciate the advantages of that method. For the past ten years a large majority of the New York City banks would have gladly accepted these offers of payment in full by return mail. Year after year the Clearing House Committee contained two or three members who believed in accepting them. Finally every one of the five did. But there was always a dog in the manger, or the juror wiser than eleven, and a hung jury.

Some of the ablest men ever in the New York Clearing House have tried in vain to have the offers accepted. The first was Frederick D. Tappen, President of the Gallatin National Bank, who would have succeeded but for his untimely death. He was followed by George G. Williams, late President of the Chemical National Bank; Dumont Clarke, late President of the American Exchange National Bank, and Valentine P. Snyder, late President of the National Bank of Commerce. Lastly, William A. Nash has found it too much even for a bank officer of his high abilities. Nevertheless, the triumph is near.

On Feb. 6, 1911, unsolicited, and before any complaint against it had been made, the counsel for the New York Clearing House Association filed a brief with Attorney General Wickersham on the legality of its rules and regulations imposing uniform charges on collections outside of New York City. Are the provisions of a penal statute to be enforced against the Clearing House Committee? If they are to be, it wants to know it and to say, like Crockett's coon: "Don't shoot. I'll come down."

In his brief the learned counsel argues that "the public is in no respect injured, but is, on the contrary, benefited "by the existing rules and regulations. He makes only one point that cannot be disputed: If the rules and regulations be reasonable, any incidental restraint of trade is not illegal under the Sherman Anti-trust act. But how could any Attorney General, court, or jury find it reasonable for the Clearing House to refuse these offers of payment in full by return mail?

Reasonableness will require the Clearing House to accept the offers already made by the banks of Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island as well as similar offers when made by the banks of New Jersey and other States from the St. Lawrence to the Potomac, so that not only Connecticut checks, but checks on all points in every direction from New York City shall be received at par here, sent through the Clearing House to each bank drawn on, and paid by return mail.

Stopping Immigration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An "American Citizen" recently wrote demanding the immediate and complete prohibition of immigration. Eventually, of course, it will have to be done, but there is no chance whatever of its being done until we first get rid of "education." The work these immigrants do, and which is misnamed "low" and "common," as if those adjectives were words of blame, is of course the one thing our overschooled youth will not turn to, and cannot be expected to turn to, after the "education" they have received.

Our republican institutions are founded on the principle that the common people, the tradesmen and mechanics, are the wise element in society; yet the one great endeavor of our entire educational scheme is to make the youth of the land despise work.

It is said that Italy, by exporting laborers, receives annually $200,000,000 in return from this country alone. We could have kept the cash here by not "educating" our own general rank and file—and when all is said and done, every educator knows very well that it is only a pretense of "education" that is imparted to most of the pupils, not in this city alone, where promotions are made far too liberally, but all over the country.

Holland is carrying out the scheme of reclaiming the Zuyder Zee; it would be worth while to learn if Holland finds it necessary to import labor from Italy while ruining the sinew and muscle of its own laboring element by "education"—it is more likely that they value their people's welfare too highly to do it.

We shall yet deal a hard blow to education, so called, to save civilization, paradoxical as it may seem. Then, and not till then, we may put up the bars to enable us to digest what we have already.

Votes on Prohibition.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the issue of your paper of Sept. 12, Page 1, under the head "Law Due to Neal Dow," there appeared several misstatements of fact.

Prohibition was not put into the Constitution of Maine in 1858, but in 1884, by a vote of 70,783 against 23,811. Prior to 1884 there existed only statutory prohibition. The statement that "the victory of the 'wets' in Maine comes after twelve months of the strict enforcement of the law," is true only in degree. The law never has been strictly enforced.

The further statement that "The Prohibition movement has spread widely throughout the country—Kansas, North Dakota, Georgia, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, Missouri, and Oregon have voted for Prohibition," is untrue as to Florida, Alabama, Missouri, and Oregon.

Alabama has repudiated prohibition, and is now under license and local option.

PLOWING IN CENTRAL PARK.

Not Deep Enough, Considering Hardpan Sub-Soil.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read "Parsons Criticises Plowing Park Lawns" and "Mr. Stover's Way" in the Sept. 22 and 23 editions of your valuable paper.

The City of New York is going to spend $50,000 of taxpayers' money to renovate a part of Central Park, and no doubt this is a commendable undertaking, as the Park is deteriorating very rapidly. An expert is not necessary to discover this fact; a novice can see how. In fact, all trees and shrubs, no matter whether maple, linden, or elms, &c., have been for a long time defoliated, some of them making their second leaves, and their trunks and branches showing all kinds of insects and insect nests.

Central Park certainly would be an excellent field for students to study the ravages of insects upon trees and shrubs. Many trees in the North Meadow were marked to be taken out, but strangely left until the ground around and about the trees was plowed and dug. The trees in question should have been moved before plowing.

The plowing was done by two men, each having a team and a sulky plow, but they seemed to be afraid of going deep—five inches was their limit. Such plowing on land which is underlaid by a hardpan sub-soil is totally inadequate, and will not give any good results. Mr. Stover will hardly, by this method, get as good turf as even the poor article he has now—not in four years.

The secret of success lies here in proper cultivation and drainage. The hardpan must be broken up, as its presence prevents water from draining through. For this reason soils underlaid by hardpan sub-soil are often sour. It also prevents the highly necessary evaporation of moisture in periods of drought from passing through the hardpan region into the top soil.

Thorough cultivation about two feet deep with the necessary drainage and an addition of good top soil, manure and lime, are the only means of getting good results.

The quantity of manure which is being spread on the North Meadow will be lost in no time.

I had the pleasure of reading the July number of Landscape Architecture in which F. L. Olmsted, the famous landscape architect, describes the work on Boston Common, where the soil was in a poor condition similar to that of Central Park. The quantity of manure used was great, and the cost of the work of renovating high, but thorough work was done—work that will last for a long time to come.

A number of trees in the North Meadow were badly barked, about two feet from the ground, by the whiffle trees of the plows or harrows, but no care seems to be taken to prevent this.

Mr. Stover's renovating crew does not seem to feel or understand that it takes only a second to damage a tree, which takes years to recover.

A number of men with spading forks were digging or so-called trenching under the sod and manure near the trees where they could not use the plow. Anybody who knows a little about trenching or spading knows that a trench should be kept open, to be able to dig thoroughly, but these men had no trench at all. They went as deep in the gound with their forks as a chicken scratches. The soil was not even turned over, but just shoveled forward a few inches.

Will the city's taxpayers stand for such mismanagement and inefficient work? It would indeed be better to give the $50,000 to be spent in this manner to the poor or hospitals.

A CITIZEN AND PARK LOVER.

Widening of Second Avenue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The protest of property owners along Second Avenue against the proposed widening of that avenue, referred to in the logical letter of Mr. Morris Loeb in Saturday's TIMES, should be headed by President McAneny, it seems to me. For here is a case where no necessity of congested traffic conditions exists to warrant the great expense to the city and to the taxpayers by the destruction of the long enjoyed stoop and area privileges.

No public improvement should be undertaken except in response to public demand, either upon the part of the property owners affected or the public at large. It does not appear that there has been such demand; on the contrary, public opinion, so far as it has been expressed, is opposed to the widening.

It may be that President McAneny has the legal right to widen Second Avenue, but it is equally true that he has the legal right to let it remain as it is, as have his predecessors ever since Second Avenue was opened.

BUTT.

When the country at large has its ear to the ground;
When the people come forth from their hamlets to see
How the President looks, and the State Family;
There is only one there that I crave to behold;
Of the party's entourage, the valiant and bold
Defender and comrade, guide, golfer, and aid,
Arch Clavering Butt, with his gold lace and braid—
    Just Butt, who goes traveling,
    Archibald Clavering
    (Deuced poor rhyme but it's only palavering);
    Butt with brass buttons
    Come forth from his muttons
    And all furbished up without grease spot or raveling.

Some want to see Taft with his smile and the beam
Of good nature that glows with its heart-warming gleam;
Some want to see counselors, Cabinet members,
But these all to me are but smoldering embers.
I've read all the papers, I know the ensemble,
There's only one in it who sets me a-tremble;
Who thrills me and fills me with sight-seeing ardor,
Who makes me stir faster, run farther, look harder—
    It's Butt—and for me
    He's the one man to see;
    Not the A B C of it but the A. C. B.
    All starched up and shined
    Before and behind,
    The splendor and pride of the mill-tar-ee.

And so if the special goes glimmering by
If some meteoric and glorious flash
Across the horizon shall whizz with a splash;
I may hear it sizz and I'll know what it is,
For what brilliant glow would that light be but His?
I'll know it's no comet that splashes the sky
With fire, as the special goes glimmering by—
    'Tis Butt—and the sizz
    And the light and the whizz
    Of that comet is Archibald, that's what it is.
    And I say without stut-
    Ter I want to see Butt
    And fill my eyes full of that splendor of his.

HIGHLY PRAISES THEIR WORK

Libraries One of the Three Great Agencies of Human Progress—Jury System Is Another.

Mayor Gaynor welcomed the members of the New York State Library Association when they met in the auditorium of the Engineering Societies' Building for their first business session yesterday morning. He praised the librarian's profession.

"Your life is a peaceful life," he said. "If I had to pick a life out for myself I have a strong notion that I would like to be a librarian and nothing else.

"There is no more patient place on the face of the earth than a library or a more patient person than a librarian, so far as I know, especially with those seeking reference books. What they learn from your books of reference, to use a phrase that was much in vogue some years ago, 'slops over' from them out through all the community. That is the great value of a library of reference. I do not know that I can commend a library that circulates the ten best sellers and such books as that. I have my doubt whether they are much good in the community or not, but maybe it is better to read them than to read nothing.

"Your libraries are doing much good. In fact, the progress of the human race is marked by the progress of the library. If we go back to ancient times we find your library. They say in Alexandria there were 500,000 volumes, or rolls, more properly speaking, because then they had no art of printing, and the libraries were in little rolls for each volume or subdivision of a book. Maybe there were twenty rolls to make up the Iliad, so that the number sounds larger than it really is. We have the Iliad now in one volume, but at all events the growth of the library and the growth of the community in knowledge, in morals, in all that goes to uplift society and tends toward that state of perfection that some think we are coming, to, keep hand in hand all the time.

"You know the great object of society is to keep a constant growth, mentally, morally, and materially. To bring that about each generation sacrifices to the generation that is to come after it. In fact, our lives are lives of mere sacrifice to the generation that is to come next, and so society keeps on. Everything in this world that is good is of gradual growth. Nothing good is grown in a hurry. The Almighty did nothing in a hurry. How many millions of years He sat brooding over this world to make it fit for us to live in!"

"And yet some very enthusiastic people, and dear knows I meet enough of them nowadays, think they can make a new world in a day, and make New York anything that they see fit overnight, whereas the uplifting of human morals, human minds, and also of material things, to be done well, is in God's providence a matter of gradual growth. This body of ours grows and matures so slowly, and even the blade of wheat, and the tree, how slowly and gradually it unfolds, putting out each year the least little bit in its circumference and in its height. And it is thus that all good things grow, and when we apply that to society, to the human race, the rule holds good, and the effort of each generation is to keep up that slow growth. The general law is either growth or decay.

"And we keep up that slow growth by our schools, by our libraries, and in a larger degree than some people may think, by the education which comes from the administration of justice by jury system, which de Tocqueville so many years ago called a common school always open. Very few stop to think what an immense educator the jury system of this country is.

"These three things I have selected are the three great agencies by which this gradual growth is kept in motion from one generation to another. By the aid of the schools, the libraries, and the jury system and other accessories the whole intellectual world has been changed. They have caused the centre of thought to pass from the few to the many. There was a time when the centre of thought was among the very few. Now, by these agencies the centre of thought is among the many, not only here, but all over the Western World, and to some extent throughout the Eastern World also.

"Formerly things were contracted. There was no art of printing. Very few people could own one roll, let alone a library, and very few, indeed, were able to read it if they saw it. But that is no longer the case.

"I am very glad to welcome you to New York, and what I have said is really only what has been running in my mind as to the agencies that keep the growth of morals and mind and materiality healthily in operation throughout the world; and your part in that is very great. How modestly and simply you attend to your duties. And you keep the library supplied with books, and now and then somebody who writes a book writes to me and complains because Mr. Hill or some other librarian won't buy it and put it on the shelf, when, in fact, the book ought to have been burned up before it was written if that were possible. I am very certain that if such books had been in Don Quixote's library the night the barber, the priest, and the aunt went through the library trying each book in turn and condemning to the flames each that ought to be got rid of, those books would not have escaped.

"The libraries are very judiciously selected here in New York, although, Mr. Hill, a man came to me and complained the other day that in the great library here at Forty-second Street he was informed that they had no life of Oliver Cromwell. So he went over to Brooklyn and he found nearly twenty lives of Cromwell, including the one by Mr. Roosevelt and the other by John Morley. I wish you would find out whether that is really so, Mr. Hill, for I found it hard to credit it; and yet I had to in order to keep my good reputation among the clergy, for he happened to be a clergyman.

"Now, I hope your week here will be pleasant, and if there is anything that the Mayor during your stay can do to add to your comfort or to your information, or in the way of giving you access to anything in the city that you wish to study, why I shall be very glad to do it."

The Mayor sat on the platform during the first part of President Frank P. Hill's speech. Mr. Hill reviewed the library situation in New York. He deplored the great number of small library societies, and thought there shauld be fewer small conventions and more large gatherings. He also spoke of the growth of the libraries and the increased demands being made upon them.

W. P. Cutter of the Engineering Societies Library invited the members to visit his library, and told them of the splendid equipment, "due to the benevolence of Mr. Carnegie," he explained.

Rural libraries were discussed by William P. Tuck of Cornell, J. I. Wyer, Jr., of the New York State Library, and Miss Ida Curry, Superintendent of the State Charities Aid Association. Reports of committees ended the session.

The Baker & Taylor Company gave a reception to the librarians yesterday afternoon at the Aldine Club. Invitations to visit many prominent publishing houses were read by the Secretary at the morning session.

The annual meeting of the Special Library Association will begin a two days' session to-day. This association is interested in collecting and arranging the material relating to particular businesses and industries. The discussion will cover technology libraries, statstical and information bureaus, office libraries, indexing of current literature, and the qualifications of librarians and statisticians. The meetings will be held in the Engineering Societies' Building and will be open to the public.

POPULAR VALUES IN BROADHURST PLAY

THE ACTING IS SPLENDID

Fine Playing by Principals, with Frank Craven Scoring a Hit in a Most Amusing Comedy Role.

BOUGHT AND PAID FOR. A play in four acts. By George Broadhurst. The Playhouse.

Robert Stafford	Charles Richman
James Gilley	Frank Craven
Oku	Allen Atwell
Louis	Edgar Hill
Virginia Blaine	Julia Deane
Fanny Blaine	Marie Nordstrom
Josephine	Dorothy Davies

It would not be so very surprising if George Broadhurst's play, "Bought and Paid For," enjoyed much the same sort of popularity as Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full." If it does not Mr. Broadhurst may attribute it to the fact that his play, excellent comedy-drama when it attempts to be nothing more, contains a blot in a scene so offensive and unnecessary that it is likely to keep away from the theatre a great many of the very people who otherwise might find it highly entertaining.

Like the people in Mr. Walter's first successful play those in "Bought and Paid For" are attractive chiefly because they belong to that lower middle class which works for its living and measures its income in combination of two figures—and figures generally quite small. Again the telephone girl is the heroine of the story, though in quite another way from that in which she figures in the new play at the Republic. Here she meets a multi-millionaire, successful business man and financier, and agrees to marry him, though she is not sure she loves him. He wants to honor and protect her, and though not certain on his part that he loves her in just the way she wants a man to love her, he believes that ultimately love will come for both. Incidentally, the windfall for her is a windfall for her hard working sister, and the man she wants to marry, a fourteen-dollar a week shipping clerk, who is short on everything but ideas, of which he has about one a minute.

James Gilley, the clerk in Mr. Broadhurst's play, is one of the most richly humorous rôles that has come along in many a day, and it will do as much as anything to make the piece popular. Incidentally, it provides the first real New York opportunity that has come to a very excellent character actor, Frank Craven, who, as fat as the part is, succeeds in extracting every bit of fat there is in it, and adds his own value in a personality and method that suit the part exactly.

If one hesitates in the recital of the story to dilate upon Mr. Craven and his rôle it is because, as far as anything is possible, they succeed in relieving the unpleasant flavor of what develops immediately after the telephone girl has become the wife of the millionaire and changed her simple clothes for a more luxurious wardrobe. For now, let it be whispered, as Virginia Blaine must whisper it to her sister when the secret will no longer keep, her husband, Robert Stafford, is the best of men—when he is sober. But Robert will drink too much at times. And then Virginia suffers torments—"if it were love or honest passion," but, no, what follows is merely the action of "a strange man who feels that he has bought a woman."

Now, it is bad enough to be told all this in the tearful accents and with the feverish unrest of a woman who is suffering—and Miss Julia Dean assuredly makes the suffering seem real—but presently it must all be seen. So the "big scene" comes with the wife protesting against her husband's maudlin attentions, and reasoning with him as far as a woman can reason with a drunken man who insists that he "has bought and paid for her." Presently she defies him, and ultimately, being overpowered, flees from his kisses to be pursued by him after he has broken a panel of the door leading to her room and let himself into her presence against her very emphatically expressed objections.

Mr. Broadhurst's muse is less feverish after this impassioned incident, and what follows will be far more satisfying to people who lay claims to good taste. There is a well-written and, as it is acted by Miss Dean and Mr. Richman, highly effective scene between the husband and wife, with the former attempting an apology and the latter insisting that nothing short of his absolute promise not to drink another drop will induce her to continue living with him. Curiously enough, at this point he takes the highly moral attitude that as she has issued an ultimatum, it is up to him as a man and a master to put her to the test. Moreover, he insists that he will not make such a promise, as he is not sure that he could keep it. She departs and he swears he will not see her unless she sends for him.

It is the more surprising then, at the end of the next act, that the wife is as ready to accept a promise as he to give it. For the shipping clerk having at last had a real idea—he calls it that, and as it works out why take exception—sends word to the millionaire that his wife wants him to come to her. So there is mutual forgiveness, mutual understanding, and the husband assures the wife that she has not backed down from her principles, which, apparently, is satisfying all around, and, particularly, to the shipping clerk who is now again assured of his more lucrative position with a motor car for baby.

Barring the raw quality already noted in the second act the play undoubtedly has much to commend it as entertainment. It is a bit lachrymose at times, but that is a quality not despised by many people who go to the theatre. Its humor, too, is most inviting, both the character of the shipping clerk and that of his good-natured little wife being very amusingly drawn. If the transitions in character are at times a bit sudden they are not more so than are to be expected in a play for which the author can surely make no claim of the higher, finer qualities.

The acting throughout is admirable. To Mr. Craven, as has been said, the opportunity comes for the greatest popular success, and he avails himself of it fully. But more difficulties are to be overcome in the role of the wife, which is played with absolute naturalness and much varied emotional expressiveness by Julia Bean. As far as is humanly possible she lightens the figure with attractive by-play and prevents it from becoming maudlin. From natural good humor and charm she passes to the deeper phase suggesting with fine and expressive acting the mental stress which the woman is suffering. As the husband, Charles Richman approaches a sometimes thankless task with considerable sincerity, and he plays with vigor, charm, authority, and variety. Miss Marie Nordstrom has never appeared here to such advantage, and she contributes one of the appealing figures, while Allan Atwell as an amusing Jap servant has an excellent make-up, and, in his lesser way, is to be credited with a distinct personal success.

POINT IN KITTY GORDON SUIT.

Her Contract for Sunday Performances Alleged to be Illegal.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton reserved decision yesterday on the application of Nathan Burken, counsel for Kitty Gordon, the actress, for an order to examine Lee Shubert before trial in a suit brought against the theatrical manager for breach of contract. The actress alleges that the Shuberts owe her $2,300, which he has refused to pay. She said she had been engaged for the Winter Garden for ten weeks at a salary of $1,000 a week, and that there is three weeks' salary due her, of which she has received only $700.

William Klein, counsel for the Shuberts, admitted the contract, but said that it was illegal because it called for Sunday performances in violation of a State law. He asked that the suit be dismissed.

May Robson Appears in 'Three Lights.'

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The first production of "Three Lights," in which May Robson is the star, and of which she and C. T. Dazey are the authors, was given here to-night. The play was well received.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie will close their Newport cottage on Saturday.

The wedding of Charles Henry Topping of this city to Miss Margaret Langhorne Ellis will take place to-day at Madison, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Munford Ellis, near Shawsville, Va.

Mrs. William H. Force and Miss Katherine E. Force plan to leave for the Virginia Hot Springs to-day.

Mrs. James P. Kernochan, who has been at Sea View, Newport, all Summer, expects to come to New York and open her house, 824 Fifth Avenue, about Oct. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Drexel Godfrey and Mrs. Joseph C. Hoagland are booked to sail from Europe for New York to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, who have been abroad, will sail for home on Oct. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Francis Hyde have returned to town from Greenwich, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Twombly, who have been at Profile House, N. H., all Summer, arrived here yesterday, and are at the St. Regis.

WALLER GLAD TO ACT HERE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—"I am naturally very much interested and excited at the idea of making my acquaintance with American playgoers," said Lewis Waller, the well-known actor, to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day while superintending his packing prior to sailing on the Majestic to-morrow to create the principal rôle in Robert Hichens's "The Garden of Allah."

"You know I've been on the point of going to America a number of times, but something always interfered. Perhaps it was because I never had a chain of circumstances which seemed propitious to me before, and so, when the right opportunity came along, I was exceeding glad of the chance to make the acquaintance of the American playgoers, who I have always understood are very splendidly generous, with a keen appreciation of the drama."

As to "The Garden of Allah," Waller thinks it is a very striking play. "It's introspective, a sort of modern 'Hamlet' on a small scale," he said.

Waller is enthusiastic about the force of his part, which comes at the end of the fifth tableau, when he gives what he says he believes is the longest speech ever delivered, and which takes from eight to ten minutes to deliver, during which he tells the whole story of his life from the time of entering the monastery up to the time of the action of the play. "It's a very difficult speech, as can be imagined," he continued.

Waller expects to rehearse for about two weeks before the production, although the company will do without him for two weeks. He only finished a tour of "The Butterfly on the Wheel" Saturday night in Glasgow, being not at all unwilling to shake off the cares of management, as he put it, and become simply an actor again.

Waller is an enthusiastic golfer and motorist, and is taking an automobile with him.

BOSTON OPERA FEATURES.

First Presentation of Aubert's "La Foret Bleue"—The Repertoire.

The Boston Opera Company, of which Henry Russell is the Director, has just issued its prospectus for the coming season, and it contains several announcements of interest. Aubert's opera, "La Foret Bleue," will have its first presentation in Boston. Weingartner is going to make a brief two weeks' visit there, conducting, in all probability, only "Tristan," in which Lillian Nordica and Jacques Urlus will sing the title parts.

One of the most interesting features of the season will be the appearance of Mme. Georgette Le Blanc, who in private life is Mme. Maeterlinck. She is to appear not only in Debussy's version of "Pelléas et Mélisande," but also in the play as Maeterlinck wrote it, without music.

Zina Brozia of the Paris Opéra is a new comer, and so is Lucille Marcel, the American girl who sang Elektra in Vienna. Miss Marcel comes with Weingartner, and will be heard in a few performances, probably including one of "Tosca." Mme. Emma Eames has been engaged for two performances.

The company will receive frequent supports from members of the Chicago and New York companies. Emmy Destinn, Johanna Gadski, Mary Garden, Louise Homer, and others will make some appearances there.

The répertoire contains only two German works: "Tristan und Isolde" and "Hänsel und Gretel." The French list is a long one, containing, besides "Pelléas," "L'Enfant Prodigue," "Samson et Dalila," "La Habanera," "Werther," "Manon," "Carmen," "Thaïs," and "Faust." There is also a long Italian list, of which Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Boito's "Mefistofele," and Wolf-Ferrari's "Segreto di Susanna" are not in the present Metropolitan répertoire.

There is one opera in English, Converse's "The Sacrifice," which was given at the Boston Opera last season. The third season of the company will open on Nov. 27, and will last eighteen weeks, with performances on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

MME. SIMONE IN "THE THIEF."

Her Engagement at Daly's to Begin on Oct. 16—Plans of Other Stars.

Liebler & Co. have decided that Mme. Simone will begin her engagement at Daly's Theatre in "The Thief" on Oct. 16 instead of Oct. 9, so that she may have an extra week for preparation for presenting in English a play she has always given in French.

Margaret Anglin's season in "Green Stockings" will begin at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre next Monday evening, and on Tuesday evening Gertrude Elliott will appear at her sister's theatre, the Maxine Elliott, in Joseph Medill Patterson's drama, "Rebellion."

May Irwin has taken up her residence in New York, and next week she will meet the author of her new comedy, Miss Crimmins, and begin to prepare for rehearsals. Rehearsals of "The Garden of Allah," another Liebler & Co. production, will begin on the stage of the Century Theatre next Monday, with the scenery and effects that are to be used in presenting the play.

DIPPEL BACK, TELLS OF OPERA NOVELTIES

Chicago Company Will Present Here "Cinderella" and "The Jewels of the Madonna."

"CARMEN" THE OPENING BILL

Mary Garden to Appear in Title Role for First Time in New York—Other Operas and Casts.

The Kaiser Wilhelm II. brought in several people connected with opera in this country last night, among them Andreas Dippel, the general manager of the Chicago Opera Company; Pasquale Amato, the baritone, and Prof. Stengel, the husband of Mme. Marcella Sembrich.

Mr. Dippel went from the boat to the Hotel Knickerbocker, where he spent last night. To-day or to-morrow he will go to Philadelphia, returning to New York in another week.

"I have not only filled the vacancies in my company for the coming season," he said, "but while touring in France, Italy, and Germany, I heard many new and promising voices, and have taken options on the future of these singers. The entire list of artists engaged for this season will be published in a few days.

"The Philadelphia-Chicago Company will give six performances in New York this season, on Feb. 6, 13, 20, 27, and March 6 and 13. Of the operas scheduled for New York, two, and possibly three, will be novelties. Massenet's 'Cendrillon' and Wolf-Ferrari's 'I Giojelli della Madonna' (The Jewels of the Madonna) are assured. I am now negotiating for the production of another novelty of great interest. The opening performance in New York will be 'Carmen,' in which Miss Mary Garden will appear for the first time in the title part before a New York audience. Miss Maggie Teyte will be the Micaela, Charles Dalmorès Don José, and Maurice Renaud Escamillo.

Miss Garden as Prince Charming.

"In 'Cendrillon' (Cinderella) Miss Garden will sing the part of Prince Charming, Miss Teyte the title rôle, and Miss Jenny Dufau the part of the Fairy. Miss Dufau appeared recently at the Royal Opera in Berlin. I consider her a great lyric soprano, although she is but at the beginning of her career. Mr. Dufranne will sing the rôle of Pandolfe, and Mme. Berat will be the Mme. de la Haltiere. Mme. Berat created the part of the Mother in 'Louise' at Covent Garden.

"The second novelty will be Wolf-Ferrari's 'I Giojelli della Madonna.' Operagoers will doubtless recall with pleasure this composer's 'Secret of Suzanne,' which met with so much success last season. In his latest opera Wolf-Ferarri has written a very dramatic work, filling an entire evening. I think no opera since 'Carmen' has made the impression this work will make. It contains two intermezzi of unusual melodic beauty. Mme. Carolina White, Amodeo Bassi, and Mario Sainmarco will have the principal rôles. The composer will come to Chicago to superintend the performance.

"The other three performances will be 'Samson et Dalila,' with Mme. Gerville-Rache, Messrs. Dalmorès, Dufranne, and Huberdeau; 'Thaïs,' with Miss Garden, Messrs. Renaud and Dalmorès, and 'Le Jongleur de Notre Dame,' with Miss Garden and Mr. Renaud, on the same evening with a one-act opera, either d'Albert's 'Die Abriese,' Bizet's 'Djamileh,' or Massenet's 'La Navarraise.' All the performances will be under the direction of Mr. Campanini.

No Duplication of Operas.

"The subscription for the series of New York performances will open shortly and further details will then be published. There will be no duplication of operas in the New York series."

Mr. Dippel was asked to make a statement in regard to the fact that the Puccini operas will not be given this season by the Chicago-Philadelphia company. Beyond admitting the correctness of the assertion Mr. Dippel refused to commit himself for the time being, but added that doubtless he would have much of interest to say about the matter sometime later.

Mrs. Dippel did not accompany her husband to this country, but will arrive early in November.

The Philadelphia season of the company is to be divided this year. The season will open there on Nov. 3 with "Carmen," when Miss Garden will sing the title rôle for the first time on any stage. Two weeks later the company will got to Chicago. In February the company will return to Philadelphia, and it is then that the New York performances will be given on Tuesday nights as they were last season.

Prof. Stengel said that Mme. Sembrich would not visit this country this season, but that he had come here in relation to contracts for a concert tour for her for the season of 1912-13. She will sing in Russia this Winter.

Pasquale Amato has been singing "La Fanciulla del West" in Rome, and recently made his first appearance in Berlin. He will be heard in some concerts before the opera season here opens.

NEW YORKERS WED IN PARIS.

Miss Lois Swan and Richard Lawrence Married in Episcopal Church.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—Miss Lois Swan of New York City and Richard Lawrence of New York were married to-day by the Rev. J. B. Morgan, pastor of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Paris. Among the witnesses were the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter N. Kernan of New York, the American Ambassador, Mr. Bacon, Secretary Bailly-Blanchard, and Major Mott of the American Embassy, Third Secretary Robbins, also of the embassy, and Mrs. Robbins.

Miss Swan is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph R. Swan of Albany, N. Y., and when in this city made her home with her sister, Mrs. Kernan, at 130 East Sixty-seventh Street. She has a brother here, Joseph R. Swan, who is a member of the University and Racquet and Tennis Clubs.

Mr. Lawrence is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence of Boston and lives at 135 Madison Avenue. He is a member of the Knickerbocker Club.

ORATORIO SOCIETY'S PLANS.

Brahms Festival in March and the Usual "Messiah" Concerts.

The Oratorio Society, Frank Damrosch conductor, announces that it will devote itself this season to a Brahms Festival in March, and will give no other performances, with the exception of the usual "Messiah" concerts at Christmas. The Brahms works to be given are "Nänie," "Song of Triumph," and "A German Requiem." There will be four Brahms concerts in the Festival, which begins March 25. Two of them will be wholly orchestral, and on these occasions Mr. Walter Damrosch will conduct the New York Symphony Society.

"The Messiah" will be sung on Dec. 27 and 29. The soloists will be Florence Hinkle, Christine Miller, Reed Miller, and Arthur Middleton.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first performance of "Next," the new comedy by Rida Johnson Young, will be given at Daly's Theatre on Saturday afternoon, next. The opening will be given as a matinee in order not to conflict with Lew Fields's production of "The Never Homes," at the Broadway Theatre on Saturday evening.

Billie Burke will begin her New York engagement at the Lyceum Theatre on Oct. 9, in her new play, "The Runaway." Early in the Spring Miss Burke will go to Paris to appear at the Gymnase Theatre, in French, in a new comedy by de Caillavet and de Fleurs.

Marie Doro will begin rehearsals of her new four-act play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," next week. She will open in Atlantic City early in October, and will appear at a New York Theatre soon after.

"The Poor Rich" is the title selected by Paul Wilstach, author of the dramatic version of "Thaïs," for the new comedy he has written for Tim Murphy. The piece is in rehearsal and Mr. Murphy will play it occasionally on his Southern tour, before making it his exclusive offering about Thanksgiving.

GATES ARRIVES FOR WEDDING

UNIONTOWN, Penn., Sept. 26.—Charles G. Gates, who is to marry Miss Florence Hopwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hopwood of Minneapolis, Minn., here to-morrow night, arrived in Uniontown to-day in his private car. With him came his private secretary and a party of guests to the wedding. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Lagrone, pastor of the Methodist Church at Port Arthur, Texas. He arrived to-day. The bridesmaid is to be Miss Margaret Clemens of Charles City, Iowa, and the best man Wayne Dodge of Detroit.

The wedding will be a quiet one, only relatives and school friends of Miss Hopwood to be present. The guests have all arrived, with the exception of Mrs. John W. Gates, the mother of the bridegroom, who will arrive at noon to-morrow and will leave immediately after the wedding. The marriage license was issued to-night at the Hopwood home. Miss Hopwood was indisposed this afternoon and her uncle, R. F. Hopwood, arranged to have a deputy Recorder come to his house to issue the license. Late this afternoon Mr. Gates played golf on the links of the Uniontown Country Club and was entertained at dinner there to-night.

The wedding ceremony will be performed to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Among the guests here for the wedding are Mrs. C. L. Gurney, New York; Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Roach, Miss Deloras Roach, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wolford, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Gould, Minneapolis.

MISS GRACE OTTESON WEDS.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 26.—Miss Grace Otteson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Otteson of this city, and Ensign Riley McConnell, U. S. N., attached to the United States Steamship Vermont, were married at 8 o'clock this evening at All Souls' Unitarian Church by the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Dickerson. The edifice was thronged with relatives and friends of the couple, including a number of United States Naval officers.

The bride, a graduate of Smith College, class of 1911, had for her maid of honor and bridesmaids graduates of the same college, while the bridegroom selected for his best man and ushers graduates of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, from which institution he was graduated in 1907. The bridegroom, best man, and ushers were attired in the full naval dress.

The bride was gowned in white satin charmeuse, court train and veil, and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was Miss Ethel Ayres of New York. The bridesmaids were Miss Eleanor Williams of New York, Miss Florence Foster of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Miss Helen Bartholomew of Philadelphia, and Miss Helen Stevenson of Pittsburgh, Penn. The best man was Lieut. H. R. Stuart, U. S. N., and the ushers were Lieut. F. H. Roberts, U. S. N.; Ensigns R B. Coffman, U. S. N.; Oscar Smith, U. S. N., and C. G. West, U. S. N.

Miss Amie Myers to Wed on Oct. 14.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Amie Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, to Latham Ralston Reed, which is to take place on Saturday, Oct. 14, at 3 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Hempstead, L. I. Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Latham Gallup Reed and the grandson of Mrs. Sylvanius Reed of this city. He is a graduate of Columbia, class of 1908, and a member of the St. Anthony and other clubs.

Miss Mary Myers will be her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Jeannette Myers, another sister of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Eunice Reed, a sister of the bridegroom. Francis Jenkins Danforth will be Mr. Reed's best man.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Dr. Joseph Longworth Anderson has issued invitations to the marriage of his daughter, Miss Ethel Anderson, to Dr. Henry Clark Thatcher of New York, on Saturday, Oct. 21, at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square. The ceremony will take place at noon, to be followed by a breakfast at 2202 Massachusetts Avenue, which residence Dr. Anderson has rented for the Winter.

The bride-to-be is the eldest of the three daughters of the family, and in having her wedding celebrated at St. John's in this city is returning to the home of her childhood. Dr. Anderson has in recent years occupied a Summer home at Elk Ridge, Md., and with his daughters passed the Winter in Florida. He is the uncle of Representative Nicholas Longworth and Larz Anderson of this city and also of the Misses Harriet and Catherine Anderson of Cincinnati, who now are regarded as prominent members of the Executive household by reason of their frequent visits to Mrs. Taft and Miss Taft, their aunt and cousin, respectively. The latter will be among the guests at the wedding, which the President is also expected to attend.

Miss Staats Weds Ensign J. A. Nelson.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Davenport Staats, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Staats of this city, to Ensign John Arthur Nelson, U. S. N., took place yesterday at the Summer home of the bride's parents, Greenwich, Conn. The city home of Mr. and Mrs. Staats is at 30 West Fifty-fourth Street.

Fox—Dowell Wedding.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Myer Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian C. Dowell of this city, to George Edward Fox, son of the American Minister to Ecuador and Mrs. William C. Fox, will take place Wednesday, Oct. 11, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, will officiate. The bride's attendants will be Miss Eusetra Fox, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ruth Campbell, and Miss Edith Endicott. Osgood H. Dowell will be best man. The parents of the bridegroom are now en routef rom South America to attend the ceremony.

SUFFRAGISTS DON'T AGREE ON A PARADE

TWO 1912 PARADES, MAYBE

New Men's League for Equal Suffrage in Kings County Plans Aggressive Work.

Six women suffrage organizations of New York have formed a co-operative committee, whose object seems to be to refuse to co-operate. The six organizations announced yesterday that they would have a suffrage parade next May 25 or May 26 in which 25,000 women would march down the "Great White Way" (the words of the announcement) all robed in white and with police on white horses in attendance.

The suffrage parade on May 6 of this year in which most of the Woman Suffrage organizations took part was arranged and was the idea of the Woman's Political Union of which Mrs. Stanton Blatch is President. The union planned the parade to be a big annual affair, and have been working ever since for a larger one, and have already announced the committee in charge and the plans as far as they have been made. The Committee of Arrangements will hold its first meeting to-day.

Now, the six other large organizations of the city, the Woman State Suffrage Association, the Woman Suffrage Party, the Equal Franchise Society, the Political Equality Association, the College Equal Suffrage League, and the Men's League have formed a co-operative organization and announce a parade to take place about the time Mrs. Blatch was planning for hers.

Mrs. Blatch was invited to join the co-operative committee, which has held two meetings recently, and it is said that on the first suggestion that there was to be talk of a parade other than the one she had in mind she remembered another engagement and hurried away. That Mrs. Blatch's union would organize another parade was announced informally immediately after the last parade.

The Co-operating Committee in their announcement of yesterday say their parade will take place either Saturday afternoon—or possibly in the evening—or on Sunday that the laboring people may take part, and that it will equal if not excel the Englishwomen's parades. If it is in the evening the women will wear white gowns and carry electric torches and transparencies.

Mrs. Blatch, upon hearing of the proposed parade of the Co-operative Committee, said:

"I think it will be impossible to organize a parade with many different heads. There must be one organization taking charge. I don't think either that there should be a night parade for the women, for it is too dangerous. The union held a small one at one time and we found then that it could not be done safely. As for a Sunday parade, that will be impossible, for a permit will not be issued for one by the police. The city will not allow it. I don't think either that it will be possible to get 25,000 women together—to increase the 3,000 or 4,000 we had last year to that number. We shall have our parade the first Saturday afternoon in May, and I think members of most of the organizations will take part if the leaders do not."

The union has a $5,000 fund under way for the expenses of the parade.

Mrs. W. W. Penfield, acting head of the Woman Suffrage Party, yesterday received a check for $400 from a donor whose name could not be given, the first installment toward a $100,000 fund the party is to raise for its work.

A new men's League for Equal Suffrage has been formed in Kings County, with Col. Alexander S. Bacon of Brooklyn as President. The men held their meeting of the organization at 1,609 Dorchester Road yesterday. The new organization plans to be more aggressive than the older Men's League for Woman Suffrage.

GERAGHTYS TO COME HERE.

Family Will Forgive Chauffeur's Bride If She Will Return Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

The Rev. W. J. BLANDON, a missionary of the United Presbyterian Church, died on Sunday at Sialkot, India. His home was in Butler County, Penn., and he was a graduate of Westminster College. He was 37 years old.

RICHARD LEOPOLD LEO, an architect, the eldest son of the late Arnold Leo, is dead at Belle Harbor, L. I. He was a graduate of the School of Architecture, Columbia University, 1895, and had practiced his profession since 1898, under the firm name of Janes & Leo. Mr. Leo was a member of the Architectural League of New York, Columbia University Club, and the Bohemians, a society of musicians. He was unmarried.

SAMUEL G. ORCUTT, Superintendent of the Wallabout Market Branch of the New York Central Railroad, died on Monday at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. William E. Losee, 86 Jagger Avenue, Flushing. He was 43 years old, and had been connected with the railroad since boyhood.

LEWIS MAAS, a retired baker, who started the first "hot waffle" bakery in this city, died on Sunday at the home of his son-in-law, Herman Prager, 145 Rutland Place, Brooklyn. He was 81 years old, and was born in Germany.

Mrs. FRANCES ALMEDA GESNER, widow of Dr. Brower Gesner, died at her home, 636 Fifty-second Street, Brooklyn, on Sept. 19. She was the youngest daughter of George Field, a cousin of Cyrus Field. Her husband was chief of the ambulance corps of Gen. Hancock's staff. Mrs. Gesner's honeymoon was spent with the Army of the Potomac.

Mrs. SARAH JEFFREY, a granddaughter of Jacob Boerum, after whom Boerum Place, in Brooklyn, was named, died from blood poisoning at her home, 953 Lafayette Avenue, in Brooklyn, on Saturday. She was 61 years old.

J. L. HEVER DIES OF INJURIES.

Riding Teacher Secretly Married Andrew Carnegie's Niece in 1904.

James L. Hever, the riding instructor who married Miss Nancy Carnegie, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Coleman Carnegie of Pittsburgh, and favorite niece of Andrew Carnegie, in 1904 under somewhat romantic circumstances, died on Sunday at his home in Far Rockaway. Mr. Hever had been confined to his bed for the last two years on account of a fall from a horse at the Sheepshead Bay track. He was operated on last January for tumors on the spine. He was 40 years old.

His marriage with Miss Carnegie after he had been employed by her family as riding instructor, eight years ago, caused quite a sensation. After acting as coachman and horse trainer for the Carnegie family at Pittsburgh and in Georgia, Mr. Hever gave up his position came to this city. Miss Carnegie followed him and they were married. The marriage was secret and was announced several months later by Andrew Carnegie when the couple returned from a wedding trip abroad. Mr. Carnegie, in making the announcement, said he had given the couple a substantial sum of money. He expressed approval of the match, saying he was glad that his niece had "married an honest man instead of a dissolute Duke."

EX-JUDGE H. P. HEDGES DEAD

Nestor of Suffolk County Bar Was Oldest Alumnus of Yale.

Ex-Judge Henry Pierson Hedges, the oldest alumnus of Yale College and the nestor of the Suffolk County bar, where he had practiced for more than fifty years, died at his home in Bridgehampton, L. I., yesterday. He was eighteen days less than 94 years old. Mr. Hedges was born at Wainscott in 1817, the son of Zephaniah and Phebe Osborn Hedges, and traced his descent back to William Hedges, who came to this country from England in 1638 and bought a large tract of land at Easthampton, where he founded the family long associated with Long Island history. Judge Hedges's grandfather, David Hedges, was a member of the Continental Congress and the Convention of the State of New York that ratified the Constitution of the United States at Kingston.

Educated at a village school, Judge Hedges at the age of 14 years entered Clinton Academy at Easthampton, and at 17 entered Yale. He was graduated there in 1838, but spent another year at the Yale Law School. After his admission to the bar he went to Ohio, but soon returned to Easthampton, and in 1843 opened a law office at Sag Harbor. In 1856 he helped found the Republican Party, and was ever loyal to that party. He was for four years District Attorney of Suffolk County, and for ten years Surrogate and County Judge. In 1869 he was made President of the Sag Harbor Savings Bank and held that office till 1899. He took a strong interest in Sag Harbor and Easthampton and compiled histories of both places when he was 80 years old. He delivered historical addresses on both the 200th and 250th anniversaries of Easthampton.

Conservative Investment
THERE is no greater incentive towards thrift and economy than that induced by conservative investment. It is a mistake to imagine, however, that conservative investment is to be determined by surface conditions alone. Margin of safety, stability of earnings, marketability, interest rates and other important factors all have a bearing upon safe and profitable investment.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Downward Movement Halted and Most Issues Made Small Gains.

STEEL SELLING CONTINUES

Heavy Liquidation Accomplished Without Causing Further Decline in the Common.

Wall Street derived little comfort from Attorney General Wickersham's vaguely worded statement, issued late Monday night, taking the stand that any meaning could be read into it according to the temperament of the reader. The market opened with lower prices and a promise of continued liquidation on the scale which had caused such a downward movement on the day preceding. The first quotation on Steel was for 10,000 shares at prices ranging from 55 to 54⅝, which represented a loss of ⅝ to a full point. Union Pacific opened a point below Monday night's close. Copper opened with a loss of three-quarters of a point over night, while American Smelters declined 1⅛.

The opening prices were soon followed, however, by higher quotations and the improvement continued through the first hour. It became known that a meeting of the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation had been called for the afternoon, and it was at once inferred that this would result in an official utterance by Judge Gary, which would clear up some of the uncertainty under which holders of Steel shares have been laboring. The market showed signs of a better support at various times, but on the whole its tone was wavering, and it appeared to be digesting the heavy transactions in stocks which it had been forced to handle on Monday. Sentiment appeared to be little improved by the check in the recent downward movement, and the market had a professional look.

Although there was a pronounced falling off in activity as compared with the feverish trading on Monday, yesterday was another "million-share day," with total sales of 1,086,263. Of this total Steel common alone furnished 448,200 shares. There was a sudden spurt in bond activity due to the demand for the American Tobacco issues since it became known that a settlement of the reorganization plan is now in sight. Tuesday's bond sales totaled $7,538,500, making this the biggest bond day since June 4, 1909. The improvement was in the volume of transactions, rather than in the range of securities dealt in, as $5,553,000 consisted of sales of the Tobacco issues alone.

A somewhat discouraging commentary on the current business situation was furnished by the publication of Atchison's August earnings. Gross revenues of $8,867,000 represented a decrease of $202,000 as compared with the second month of the last fiscal year. Moreover, operating expenses, which were expected to show a big shrinkage with the economies thought to be in force, increased in August by nearly a half million, so that the month's net earnings of $2,512,000 represented a decrease of $682,000, as compared with August, 1910. It was said that the Atchison had been engaged in an extensive maintenance and improvement programme which would be carried to completion in spite of the slump in business.

The market closed at a level but little below the best prices of the day, and net gains were registered for nearly all issues, although the advances were small by comparison with the declines of the previous day. Traders were of the opinion that the action of the market to-day depends to a large degree upon the nature of the statement promised by Judge Gary. It is felt that the Steel shares would show better resisting power if it were definitely known either that the corporation was preparing to resist any effort toward dissolution or that it would avoid a suit by voluntarily reorganizing.

Copper, spot	54	8	9	54	7	6
Copper, futures	55	5	0	55	3	9
Pig tin, spot	172	15	0	171	0	0
Pig tin, futures	171	10	0	169	15	0

The market ended firm. Spanish pig lead was easy at a recession of 1s 3d, to £15 2s 6d. Spelter was unchanged, at £27 15s, and Cleveland warrants at 46s 4½d.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Turkish and Italian Securities Again Weak Owing to Fear of War.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Money was in demand to-day for the settlement, and discounts hardened to near the rate of the Bank of England.

The stock market opened heavy, on the suspension of the Bank of Egypt, and gilt-edged securities were most affected. Consols fell ⅝, but later all the losses were recovered, and the market closed firm. Kaffirs and Mexican rails were dearer, but Turkish bonds and Ottoman banks were weak.

American securities opened weak under liquidation, but recovered on covering by shorts. The whole market weakened upon the receipt of the New York opening quotations, but later recovered sharply, under the lead of United States Steel, which jumped 2¼ points over the final New York prices yesterday. The closing was firm, with prices at the highest point of the day.

Money, 2 per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3¾@3⅞ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3⅞@4 per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid 8.95, and at Lisbon 8.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The tone on the Bourse was quiet to-day, and prices were generally firm, except Turkish and Italian securities, which were depressed.

Exchange on London, 25f 17½c for checks.

Private rate of discount, 3½ per cent.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The threatened trouble between Turkey and Italy over Tripoli restricted trading on the Boerse to-day, but prices, with a few exceptions, ruled fairly steady.

Private rate of discount, 4⅝ per cent.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

After a day of violent fluctuations the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange closed with a vigorous rally in progress. Reports that following a meeting of the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation a reassuring statement might be given out by Chairman Gary were the impelling influence in bringing about the final improvement. The market had opened weak, reflecting Wall Street disappointment over Attorney General Wickersham's statement regarding the Government attitude toward the trusts. Transactions were again very heavy, the sales totaling 167,690 shares, distributed over a list of fifty-six different stocks. Steel common accounted for 71,450 shares of the aggregate, Union Pacific being second with 31,220 shares.

CRUCIAL TIMES FOR CORPORATIONS
The following news item was sent out by one of the Ticker Services to their subscribers during the height of the excitement on the Stock Exchange last Monday:
"Moody's Manual could not be borrowed even for a minute in the commission houses doing a big speculative business. In every such firm some one was busy going over the book which had furnished Mr. Wickersham with his evidence of the existence of 100 Trusts."
Moody's Manual of Railroads and Corporation Securities is used by the Government Departments because they demand the best. Can you afford to get along with anything less?

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Slight Error.

One of the ticker services perpetrated such a colossal blunder early yesterday morning that it carried its own refutation on its face. Without warning the ticker announced as a matter of ordinary news that the Bank of England had suspended payment. When the statement was called into question a few moments later a correction was put out to the effect that it was the Bank of Egypt which was in trouble. When Wall Street is sufficiently excited few stories are too wild to be accepted, but in its early morning mood yesterday no one seemed disposed to credit the story of the collapse of the Bank of England.

The Atchison in August.

People who regard railroad earnings as a good barometer of the trend in business were somewhat startled by the Atchison's showing in August. A decrease of $200,000 in gross earnings is not regarded as serious, but it has been so generally believed that all of the principal railroads were operating on a rock bottom basis that it came as a surprise to find a considerable advance in the Atchison's operating costs and a loss of $682,000 in net earnings. In the first two months of the new fiscal year the Atchison's net earnings have run $1,247,000 behind those for the corresponding two months of last year, and the total is the smallest in many years. The loss in net earnings is partly accounted for by improvement work which the company has had under way and which it saw no reason for suspending. In consequence the road is expected to show a considerable curtailment in operating costs in future months.

⁂

Talking Copper Merger.

The rumor of a merger of the leading copper producing companies appears at irregular intervals, but its publication yesterday at a time when the Sherman law is being so well advertised was received as an excellent piece of humor. Yesterday's story came from Duluth.

⁂

Low Records Among Inactive Issues.

The fifteen low records made in yesterday's market were without exception confined to the less active stocks. American Car and Foundry sold at 42½, American Cotton Oil at 45⅛, American Express at 201, American Smelters Securities preferred B at 82, American Writing Paper preferred at 24½, Distillers Securities at 29, General Motors at 38, General Motors preferred at 75, Homestake Mining at 82¼, Kansas City Southern preferred at 61½, Missouri, Kansas & Texas at 27, P. C. C. & St. L. at 90⅛, Tennessee Copper at 30¼; United Dry Goods preferred at 97½, and United States Rubber 2d preferred at 66.

Half Steel Common Turned Over.

The six days of trading ended yesterday produced transactions in steel common aggregating 2,559,050 shares, which is approximately one-half of the 5,084,952 outstanding shares of the corporations common stock. In the period the price has ranged between 64⅞ and 51⅝, a swing of 13¼ points. In yesterday's market, aggregating 1,082,263 shares, 448,200 shares were Steel common. The biggest day in the last six in Steel was Friday, when 716,950 shares were traded in.

Tobacco 6s at High of Year.

Yesterday's transactions in American Tobacco 6s, aggregating $3,250,000, put the price to 112⅝, which was a net gain of 3⅜ and the high price of the year. The 4s, of which $2,303,000 appeared in the market, made a gain of 1⅞, and at 88½ were still 5 points below the high of the year.

NEW CHICAGO SUBWAY STOCK

Reorganization Plan Will Give Cash Capital of $10,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The reorganization plan of the Chicago Subway Company will be announced in detail next Monday.

The essential points are that the outstanding $35,000,000 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds will be assessed approximately 10 per cent.

Preferred stock to the amount of about $30,000,000 will be issued in lieu of first mortgage bonds now outstanding. New stock to the amount of $25,000,000 will be issued in lieu of $45,000,000 stock now outstanding, holders of old stock being taxed $5 a share for the new issue. In other words, old stockholders will be assessed $5 a share and their holdings cut approximately in half. A new issue of first mortgage monds will be created—possibly $10,000,000 or $15,000,000.

The above plan will give the company a cash working capital of $10,000,000. This will be sufficient to retire present outstanding receivers' certificates and place the telephone branch in a fair way to success.

HOME TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Further information regarding the following Home Trade Opportunities may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

812. ROCK FOR PIERS.—Sealed proposals for furnishing about 1,000 tons of rock for the piers at Alpena, Mich., will be received at the United States Engineering Office, Jones Building, Detroit, until Oct. 16, 1911, and then publicly opened. Information on application to C. McD. Townsend, Colonel Engineers.

813. OLIVE COTTON DUCK.—Sealed proposals in duplicate will be received at the Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., until Oct. 2, for furnishing olive drab cotton duck in the following quantities: Nine thousand yards, No. 9, weighing 16 ounces per square yard, 36¼ inches wide; 1,600 yards No. 2, weighing 27 ounces per square yard, 22 inches wide, and 500 yards No. 1, weighing 28 ounces per square yard, 22 inches wide. The goods must be able to withstand each of the prescribed tests and fulfill each specification given in "detailed specifications for olive drab cotton duck," a copy of which will be furnished upon request to the arsenal. Duck to be furnished in cylindrical rolls containing about 100 yards, and material must not have blue selvage line. Each proposal must be accompanied by at least a ten-yard sample of each weight of material upon which proposal is submitted. Further details can be obtained by addressing the Rock Island Arsenal, Ill.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

INDUSTRIALS ARE ACTIVE

Swift & Co. Weak in Boston and Chicago, but Recovers Some of the Decline—Odd-Lot Buying in Philadelphia.

Trading in the principal out-of-town markets was generally lighter than on Monday, and industrial stocks were the feature.

On the Boston board interest centred in Steel common, and it moved up and down in accordance with prices at New York. Amalgamated was moderately active, and some North Butte changed hands at slightly higher prices. The rest of the copper stocks were quiet, and the changes in them narrow. American Telephone was in light demand and steady, and Sugar was firm. There was some odd-lot selling of Woolen preferred, but it held up well. Swift & Co. sold at 97¾, a new low record for the year, but subsequently grew firmer. The Swift officials say they cannot understand the weakness in the shares, and declare that the annual report will show more than a full dividend earned on the stock.

Trading on the Chicago Exchange was in fair volume, but confined mostly to industrial corporations. Swift & Co. stock was again sold heavily, but, while showing an easier tendency, held well above the low price touched on the previous session. Sears-Roebuck improved on its closing price of yesterday, and Diamond Match held steady. Illinois Brick shares tumbled over a point, but reacted fractionally. Pneumatic Tool and People's Gas advanced fractionally.

The trading in Philadelphia was quiet and without special feature. The price variations were slight, but generally represented small fractional gains from last night's closing level. After these recoveries were made the trading lagged and the market settled into a narrow rut. A pronounced shrinkage in the volume of dealings in the New York stocks gave the market even a duller appearance, and about the only feature of local interest attached to the movement of these stocks was the renewed small-lot buying of Pennsylvania.

Seaboard Company shares were strong in Baltimore, and on small transactions made good gains, the second preferred showing an advance of 2½, and the common was up 3 points from the last previous sales. One explanation for the present sluggishness of the stock market is that bankers and brokers have been advising patrons to hold their cash during the present disturbed financial conditions, arguing that it is preferable to lose interest on the money for a time rather than run greater risks.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

ILLINOIS CENTRAL INCREASE.

Net Operating Revenue Up $3,092,310—All Departments Gain.

Operating revenues were $60,977,031, an increase of $3,092,310, and operating expenses $43,856,228, an increase of only $535,497, making the net operating revenue $17,120,803, an increase of $2,556,313. Outside operations show a net deficit of $56,464, an increase of $34,416. With taxes deducted the operating income was $14,393,049. Other income was $6,742,438, and deductions $9,820,143, leaving the net corporate income $11,315,344. Dividends were $7,650,720, and $164,847 was appropriated for additions and betterments, leaving the balance to credit of profit and loss $3,499,777, as against $182,478 in the preceding year, an increase of $3,317,299.

Although the revenues in 1910 were the largest in the history of the company, they were exceeded in practically all departments during the last fiscal year.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

ADVANCE IN RUBBER SHARES

Curb stocks made in many instances substantial recoveries yesterday, though trading was in reduced volume. Intercontinental Rubber opened at 16¼, 1½ points above Monday's close, and rose to 17½ on sales of 500 shares. Among the coppers, Giroux rose from 3½ to 3⅝ on sales of 1,500. Inspiration, after gaining ⅛, closed even with the opening, at 5¾. Ray Central was one of the exceptions, selling off from 1⅜ to 1 3-16. The Cobalts were strong. Kerr Lake was up 1-16, closing even with the opening, however, at 3⅝. La Rose also gained 1-16 and closed at 4⅛. Nipissing advanced from 7⅞ to 8.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

An Examiner's Error Is Responsible for Lower Duty on Friction Matches.

Bernard, Judae & Co. were partially successful yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers when it was disclosed that the Examiner of Customs had made an error in the return on matches imported by the firm. The importation, which consisted of matches, was returned for duty as "fancy" matches, whereas the importers alleged that they were friction matches. Under the classification as made by the Collector the merchandise was called upon to pay a tariff tax of 35 per cent. on the value. The importers insisted that they were dutiable at the lower rate of 6 cents per gross, under the provision for "friction" matches.

It appears that at the hearing the Examiner who passed the goods was called to testify, and in the course of his examination stated that he had made an error in his classification of certain cases—that instead of the contents of the packages being fancy matches they were in fact common friction matches. Judge McClelland, in view of the testimony, holds that the lower rate accrues on the matches erroneously returned by the Examiner. The assessmen as to the remainder of the goods is held to be correct and the Collector affirmed.

The Board sustained a claim filed by F. Blumenthal & Co. regarding the classification of wreaths made of artificial flowers attached to a wire frame. The merchandise was assessed as "artificial flowers" at the rate of 60 per cent. The importers relied on the claim that the wreaths are in chief value of metal. This contention is sustained, and the Collector directed to reliquidate the entries on the basis of a duty of 45 per cent. on the value.

Judge Sharretts sustained a claim by G. W. Sheldon & Co., and held that small bracelets composed of collodion are "toys," dutiable at 35 per cent. They were returned for duty at 60 per cent. as "jewelry." The decision remarks that the articles are of such flimsy construction that they can be used only as playthings for children.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The tendency of the market appeared to be toward a higher level yesterday, and although there were periods of depressions, these were not severe, and offerings tended to diminish at the lower level. The net result of the day's operations was a slight gain, and it was apparent that a little bull support together with a scattered commission house inquiry, indicative of sentiment in the main favoring higher prices, was sufficient to absorb the surplus offerings.

News from abroad continues bearish, and this serves to a larger extent in undermining confidence among holders than other factors. Liverpool continues to send disappointing cables with Continental markets also weak, reflecting favorable crop conditions in Europe and free offerings from the exporting countries competing with the United States. There was an official report on the wheat crop in Italy placing the outturn at 192,000,000 bushels, but which was 10,000,000 bushels less than the previous estimate, although still 40,000,000 bushels above the outturn of last year.

Weather conditions in the American and Canadian Northwest were more settled, and therefore favorable for movement and thrashing. Receipts of Spring wheat were 772 cars at Duluth and Minneapolis, against 744 last year, while Winnipeg receipts were 477 against 545 last year. The hedge sales against this movement continue to be well taken, and while quality reports vary considerably, there is a slight tendency toward improvement. Bullish thrashing returns were at hand from the Canadian Northwest, but these advices were not general.

Considerable of the buying recently has been based on the strength at the Southwestern markets. It is asserted in some quarters that Northwestern mills have been fair buyers at Kansas City and St. Louis of hard wheats, since the rejection of the proposed reciprocity amendment, and predictions are that a narrowing of differences between the Northwestern and Southwestern markets will occur. The slow foreign demand, however, acts as a damper to bull enthusiasm with sales yesterday totalling 104,000 bushels, claimed to be low grade Manitoba wheat. The Bradstreet report was in line with expectations showing an increase of 5,000,000 bushels for the week. American stocks are now 65,000,000 bushels, against 53,000,000 bushels last year, and European 82,000,000 bushels, against 181,000,000 bushels last year.

Cash No. 2 red, quoted at $1, elevator export basis, and $1.01½ free on board, afloat, for export; No. 2 hard, $1.07½; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.18½ No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.08.

CORN.—Continued favorable weather conditions with forecasts of more liberal receipts caused some selling early. Claims are still made that the buying is of good character, although considerable of the recent pressure has emanated from interests originally identified on the bull side. The firm, feed crop situation, small stocks of old corn, and steadiness in wheat, however, keep sentiment rather bullish, while the absence of export inquiry restricts speculative demand to a large extent. Export sales yesterday were reported of four loads. Cash No. 2 Western was quoted at 75½c domestic basis, and 75c free on board, afloat, for export.

OATS.—There was a steady undertone for a time in sympathy with other grain, but on freer offerings from the country pressure was great enough to bring about a fair reaction. Sentiment continues in favor of higher prices, but no aggressiveness is noted. The cash inquiry was slower. Bradstreet's increased 600,000 bushels for the week, with stocks 32,000,000 bushels, against 34,000,000 bushels last year. Cash standards quoted at 52c; No. 2 white, 52½c; No. 3 white, 52c.

PROVISIONS.—The undertone was easy during the entire session. Some buying for foreign account was claimed, but on the whole support was lacking. Hog advices from the country are bearish in regard to future supplies.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The pressure from hedging sales was greater than at any time this season and was reflected in substantial declines at the close, with further concessions granted of from 2 to 3 cents on the Curb. Sales at the South were reported on the basis of 4.40, so that the future market is attractive for the placing of hedges. The recent decline in cotton, with the prediction of record-breaking ginning, are not stimulating to speculative inquiry, while the tendency in lard has not encouraged domestic consuming demand. Foreign oils are irregular, but show spasmodic firmness, while on the scale down there are still purchases for foreign account in this market, part of which, however, are believed to be speculative.

COTTON.

It was a day of varied price movements, but apparently the extent of the decline recently was bringing about conservatism in the ranks of the bears, and those who had profits were in many instances tempted to accept them. At the start prices were only slightly changed, followed by decided advances, but on the bulge offerings again increased, accompanied with bearish spot reports, only to rally sharply near the close. Large commission houses were on the buying side, while the improved feeling in Wall Street led to some demand from that quarter, and takings by consuming interests also helped to assimilate the surplus. Predictions by inveterate bears of cotton below 10c. prior to next Monday were again in circulation, but on the whole a rally on natural conditions was anticipated.

Reports by The Journal of Commerce on Louisiana and Mississippi conditions were rather bullish, confirming private advices, to some extent, of more or less deterioration from insects. The condition of Mississippi was given at practically the same as a year ago, when it was 63.9 per cent., with some tendency reported to hold cotton, while the Louisiana condition was placed at 62.4 per cent., against 49.3 last year. A report by Habersham King was also rather favorable to holders, it being claimed that in consideration of the recent worm damage and conditions in Texas that a record crop was unattainable. Selling by the South during the day was in somewhat lighter volume, and the tenor of spot advices more mixed, with an improved inquiry reported from European sources at several southeastern sources, although from the Western belt pressure of the actual cotton was again noticeable. It is generally thought that there is no concentrated holding movement at present, and in most cases it is among individuals, while the banks are said to be against loaning heavily on the staple held.

Movement of cotton continues fairly good, with receipts yesterday of about 88,000, against 84,000 last year, and promising to make bearish comparisons to-day. A bearish ginning report is expected next Monday, but it was asserted that this had been fairly well discounted and will probably be offset by a bullish condition report expected on that date. Southern spot markets generally showed declines of ⅛ to ¼c., with New York quiet at unchanged quotations. Middlings, 10.55. The weekly weather report was bearish, and conditions over night were favorable for picking and maturing. Buying by trade interests is still noticeable as prices recede, but this is on a conservative scale, while dry goods advices are fairly good, considering the recent slump in the raw material. The foreign market is inclined to follow fluctuations in our market very closely.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following Foreign Trade Opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

7,391. COTTON GINS.—A business organization in the United States co-operating with the Bureau of Manufactures in extending the sale of American goods in an Asiatic country states that a group of firms in the country in question is interested in forming connections with manufacturers in the United States and desires now to purchase cotton gins.

7,392. MACHINERY OF VARIOUS KINDS.—An American Consular officer reports that a business house in his district is interested in the following machinery: Machines for the manufacture of agricultural machinery, locomotives, railway carriages and wagons, foundry plant, molding machines, cupolas, blowers, &c., woodworking machinery of every description, and portable slotting machines for cutting large keyways in the bosses of large fly wheels, rope pulleys, &c. Correspondence with such manufacturers is desired and bank references are furnished.

Year Ending Aug. 31 Shows a 12 Per Cent. Increase Over Last Year.

BUT LESS OF IT WAS USED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—There was an increase of more than 12 per cent. in the supply of raw cotton in the United States during the cotton year which ended on Aug. 31, according to the Census Bureau's preliminary report on the supply and distribution of cotton issued to-day. The supply amounted to 13,655,479 bales, compared with 12,188,021 bales for the previous year, when there was a decrease of 20 per cent. from that available in 1909.

Notwithstanding this increase in the total supply, the consumption of cotton in the United States showed a decrease of slightly more than 2 per cent. over last year, and was the smallest consumption during the last three years, being 4,696,316 bales. It was said semi-officially that the high price of raw cotton during the year was principally the cause for the decreased consumption. This consumption during the year was larger in the cotton-growing States than the previous year, while in all other States it was smaller.

The exports were 22 per cent. greater than during 1910, the amount being 7,781,414 bales, compared with 6,339,028 bales a year ago. The year was fourth largest in the history of the export trade.

The net imports increased more than 52 per cent., the total amount, 231,191 bales, being greater than any year in the history of the industry.

The supply and distribution of cotton in the United States in running bales, including linters, for the cotton year which ended Aug. 31, with comparisons for previous years, were announced by the Director of the Census, E. Dana Durand, as follows:

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The disturbance that was over New England Monday night passed rapidly east and west followed by clearing weather throughout the East Tuesday. Another barometer depression covers the Northwest and has been followed by light rains in the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys.

Temperatures have fallen decidedly in the Middle Atlantic States and New England and the Upper Ohio Valley. The weather is warmer in the Upper Mississippi Valley.

The disturbance over the Northwest will move east attended by rains and will cause unsettled weather Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England following fair weather Wednesday in these districts.

Temperatures will rise Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, but changes elsewhere will be unimportant.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate northeast and east on south and light variable on north coast; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate east shifting to southeast; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate variable winds, and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Wednesday; Thursday increasing cloudiness and warmer; probably showers in north portion; moderate east to southeast winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Wednesday; Thursday unsettled and warmer; light to moderate east and southeast winds.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two Big Deals In the Bronx that Foreshadow the Erection of More Apartments—Tenements in Good Demand—Builder Buys Valuable Plot at Corona, L. I.

Two important sales which will be followed by extensive improvements in the Bronx comprised the features of chief interest in the realty market yesterday. One of the deals involved a block front in the upper part of the borough, while the other included a plot of sixteen lots on College Avenue, extending through to Findlay Avenue, 200 feet north of 168th Street, having a frontage of 200 feet on both College and Findlay Avenues and 200 feet deep. The property was sold by the Yorktown Realty Company (Charles Gross and Milton M. Silverman) to the building firm of Conroy Brothers, who are planning to improve the lots with several five-story apartment houses.

The property was acquired by the sellers with several other parcels in the Bronx and Manhattan in June, 1910, from the Morris estate in exchange for the ten-story Dreadnought apartment on the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Cathedral Parkway. The deal was negotiated by the Columbian Realty Brokers, Cahn & Nordlinger, as attorneys, represented the Yorktown Realty Company.

The other thansaction was the sale of the block front on the north side of 180th Street, between Hughes and Belmont Avenues, fronting 154.3 feet on the street by 47 and 70.10. It was purchased by the Kovocs Construction Company from the Adams Realty Company, M. E. Oppenheimer, President, who acquired it a few days ago from the Lippman estate. Jacob Leitner was the broker in both deals. The new owners will improve the property.

Tenements in Demand.

The Columbian Realty Brokers have sold for Wolf & Steinberg, 1,440 Park Avenue, a five-story tenement, 25 by 100, on the northwest corner of 106th Street. In part payment the Channel Realty Company gave property at Cragsmore, Ulster County, N. Y.

Mrs. S. Oppenheimer has purchased from L. Miller 134 West 113th Street, a five-story double flat on a lot 27 by 100.11, between Seventh and St. Nicholas Avenues.

Joel Jacobs has sold to Williams & Grozinsky 443 West Fifty-sixth Street, a five-story tenement, on a lot 25 by 100.5, near Tenth Avenue. Corn & Co. were the brokers in the deal.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Israel Lebowitz, a three-story dwelling at 854 West End Avenue, size 17 by 55 by 72, to a client for occupancy.

James Kyle & Sons have sold for Emil Fuerth the three-story and basement private house 830 Lexington Avenue, on plot 20 by 90 feet.

Mary E. Troup is reported to have sold 865 West End Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 79.3, 40.11 feet north of 102d Street.

Bronx.

Emma Lee has purchased for investment from the Interne Construction Company the southwest corner of Intervale Avenue and 165th Street, a five-story new-law house, on plot 40 by 102 by irregular. In part payment for the southwest corner of Intervale Avenue and 165th Street, the buyer gives to the Interne Construction Company the two-story frame dwelling, on plot 67 by 100, at the southwest corner of Tinton Avenue and 166th Street.

Brooklyn.

The John Pullman Real Estate Company has sold 666 Carroll Street, a three-story and basement brownstone dwelling, 21 by 45 by 110, for Claus Postal, Mary M. Shieb, the buyer, will occupy.

Joseph P. Day has sold for the Manhattan Beach Estates a plot 40 by 100, on the east side of Corbin Place, 390 feet north of the Esplanade, to a Mr. Bokat. Mr. Bokat's brother bought the forty-foot plot adjoining, and each will build early next Spring.

Long Island.

Pease & Elliman have sold to Philip L. Gill one of the new Woodmere houses, with about an acre of land, situated on Wood Lane, between the South Country Road and the water.

Thomas Daly has purchased in Corona a block of property, consisting of about fifty-five lots, 25 by 100, at the side and rear of School No. 15, on Junction Avenue. The land runs through to Evergreen Street at Grace Church. It also fronts on Park Avenue. Ever since the days of the old Fashion race course, this property has been known as the Cooper-Hewitt estate. Three years ago four lots were sold to the Episcopal diocese at the rate of $800 a lot. The lots on Park Avenue and Junction Avenue are considerably higher in price. It is understood that Mr. Daly will develop the land immediately.

The Briarcliff Realty Company of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., reports the sale of the Elms cottage, with one acre of land, to Mr. F. S. Rollins of Briarcliff Manor; also the sale of one lot on Oak Street to Mr. John D. Terwilliger, Pleasantville, N. Y.

New Jersey.

E. Sharum sold for a client two frame dwellings on Palisade Avenue, Englewood, each on a plot 20 by 100.

Jere Johnson, Jr., Company has sold to the Essex County Park Commission some nineteen acres of its property at Nutley, N. J. This new public park is in the centre of Nutley proper and adjoins a considerable tract of land belonging to the town, on which are located the Town Hall, the high school, and various other municipal buildings. Jere Johnson, Jr., Company originally owned about forty acres, which said property once belonged to the late A. T. Stewart.

Ten acres were sold last April, and so the balance retained by the Johnson Company consists of about ten acres, bounded on the south and west by the new park, on the north by Chestnut Street, the main business street of Nutley, and on the east by Passaic Avenue, one of the principal residential thoroughfares. Contracts are now being let for the proper improvement of this remainder.

Theatre for Port Richmond, S. I.

Plans are being prepared for a new theatre to be erected in Port Richmond, S. I., by Henry Hyams, Sr. The building, which is to be strictly fireproof, will be erected on a plot having a frontage of 52 feet, a depth of 180 feet, and a width of 83 feet in the rear, located on the southerly side of Richmond Terrace, between Maple and Richmond Avenues. The theatre is to be devoted to high-class vaudeville and motion pictures, and will have seating accommodations for 1,000 persons. The property was sold by the William A. Ross estate and the Henry Johnson estate, through Sewell Brothers.

New Factory Building for Brooklyn.

Herbert Russell Ludden has leased to the General Kompolite Company a factory, to be erected at Kent Avenue and North Eighth Street, by the Young estate. Building will contain 25,000 square feet of floor space, and is leased for ten years, with option of purchase.

J. P. Morgan Forecloses $60,000 Mortgage.

Proceedings have been brought by J. P. Morgan to foreclose a mortgage of $60,000 on the property formerly known as the Gambrinus Brewery at the northwest corner of Second Avenue and Forty-seventh Street. The sale of the property has been advertised to take place at the Vesey Street salesroom on Oct. 11. Herbert A. Sherman will be the auctioneer. The total amount due is about $100,000.

The title of the action is nominally Walter B. Horn against the Manhattan Transit Company. Mr. Horn is connected with the Morgan firm, and has frequently held title to property for Mr. Morgan. The plot is a large one and comprises about 33,000 square feet, including 231 to 247 East Forty-seventh Street, and 883 to 889 Second Avenue.

Leases.

McCarthy & Fellows have leased for the Centerboro Realty Company for a term of years the store and basement at 176 Madison Avenue to Smith & Watson, dealers in rare and antique furniture. Messrs. Horace S. Ely & Co. were associate brokers.

Sidney L. Warsawer has leased for a term of years, for Daniel L. Korn, the store at the northeast corner of Eighth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street; also the store at the southwest corner of Park Avenue and 109th Street, to Charles Papas, and the store at 220 West Thirteenth Street, to William Larson.

Roe & Gould, in conjunction with H. L. Moxley & Co., have leased to Frederick Ruppert, for the 168 Madison Avenue Realty Company, the second loft at 168 Madison Avenue, for five years.

Cross & Brown Co. has leased for J. Michaels for a term of years to A. J. Picard & Co. the three-story building at 1,720 Broadway, on plot 26 by 86.

Ogden & Clarkson and Herman Le Roy Edgar leased the five-story building, 241 Broadway, near Park Place, to Weber & Heilbroner. The lease is for a long term of years, beginning May 1, 1913, at a gross rental of about $200,000. This includes the unexpired lease of the Underwood Typewriter Company, which recently vacated the premises to remove to its new building on Vesey St. The lease of the building as previously announced by George R. Read & Co. refers to the unexpired Underwood term.

Edison Building Near Times Square.

Plans have been filed for a nine-story office building on the south side of Forty-second Street, 225 feet west of Sixth Avenue, for the New York Edison Company. It will have a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 88.9 feet. The facade will be of brick, granite, and terra cotta. The interior will be elaborate in design, having a staircase in the entrance hall, with an electrical fountain of artistic design having a life size bronz bust of Thomas A. Edison at the top. Over the entrance door will be carved in the stone, "Edison Service." D. H. Burnham & Co. of Chicago and New York are the architects. The cost will be $120,000.

Notes.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Harlem Property Owners' Association will be held Thursday evening at 147 East 125th Street.

The Advocate Realty Company has been incorporated with a capital of $150,000. The officers and Directors are Benjamin A. Morton, Frank B. Makepeace, Jr., James F. Sandefur, R. Noel Hammond, and Louis A. Klipp.

Margaret McKeon sold the three-story dwelling, 150 West Ninety-fifth Street, and not No. 15, as reported.

H. A. Kelly is the buyer of the dwelling 322 West Seventy-seventh Street, the sale of which by Frank Griffen was recently reported.

The Harthill Company, agents and brokers, for several years at 847 Fox Street, Bronx, has opened an office at 234 Fifth Avenue, corner of Twenty-seventh Street, and will conduct the Bronx office as a branch.

On September 30th, 1911,
"WAMPAGE SHORES,"
on Manhasset Bay, Sands Point, L. I.
R. R. Station, Port Washington.
Two years' work and a large expenditure of money have created ideal conditions for homes on this beautiful little Peninsula, which stretches far out in the broadest and most picturesque part of Manhasset Bay. No development of similar completeness and attractiveness has ever been attempted in the neighborhood of New York. WAMPAGE SHORES, with one mile of beautiful beach; with no road or reservation in front, makes ownership possible of a type of property with private beaches, heretofore only within reach of the very wealthiest.

Found Speechless on Top of Train.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Physicians are puzzled by the case of a young man who was found several days ago speechless on the top of a Western train when it reached Highland Mills. [illegible] man was removed to the County Almshouse at Orange Farm. His condition has not improved, and nothing can be learned regarding his identity.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—MAE WEIL, Plaintiff, against SIGMUND WEIL, Defendant.—Summons—Action to annul a marriage.—County Clerk's number, 20,568, 1911.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated December 10, 1910.

DAVID C. MYERS, Plaintiff's Attorney, office and Post Office address, No. 309 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City.

To SIGMUND WEIL, the defendant above named:

The foregoing summons is hereby served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Edward J. Gavegan, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 16th day of September, 1911, and filed with the original summons and duly verified complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, on the 18th day of September, 1911.

Dated New York, September 18th, 1911.

CITY COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.—THE FIFTH AVENUE BUILDING COMPANY, Plaintiff, against WILLIAM A. GRANT, Defendant.—Summons:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within ten days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated August 7, 1911.

To William A. Grant, defendant:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of the Hon. Thomas F. Donnelly, Justice of the City Court of the City of New York, dated the 1st day of September, 1911, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the City Court of the City of New York, at 32 Chambers Street, Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, the original summons and complaint having been filed in said office on the 17th day of August, 1911.

Dated New York, September 5th, 1911.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF New York, County of New York.—HARMON W. HENDRICKS, as sole surviving trustee of the trust created by the last will and testament of FANNY HENDRICKS, late of the City, County, and State of New York, deceased, for the benefit of BLANCHE HENDRICKS, Plaintiff, against JACOB HOLLAND and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 5th day of September, 1911, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 5th day of October, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

"All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, of the City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning at a point in the southerly side of Sixty-first Street, distant one hundred and seventy-five feet westerly from the southwesterly corner of First Avenue and Sixty-first Street, running thence southerly parallel with First Avenue one hundred feet five inches to the center line of the block between Sixtieth and Sixty-first Streets, thence westerly along the center line of the block and parallel with Sixty-first fifteen feet, thence northerly parallel with First Avenue and part of the way through a party wall, one hundred feet five inches to the southerly side of Sixty-first Street, and thence easterly along the southerly side of Sixty-first Street fifteen feet to the point or place of beginning, said premises being now known by the street number 334 East Sixty-first Street. Subject to the provisions of an agreement as to beam rights recorded in the office of the Register of the City and County of New York, in Liber 1,874 of Conveyances, page 397."

Dated New York, September 12, 1911.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

AT A STATED TERM OF THE DISTRICT Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, held in the Post Office Building, Manhattan Borough, New York City, on the 25th day of September, 1911.—Present Hon. Charles M. Hough, Judge.—In the matter of JAMES DINUOVO and ANTONIO DINUOVO, doing business as co-partners under the name of THE DINUOVO BROTHERS CHEESE COMPANY, Alleged Bankrupts.

It appearing to my satisfaction by the petition of Charles H. Fuller, verified September 19, 1911, that a petition in bankruptcy was duly filed in the office of the Clerk of this Court on the 20th day of July, 1911, praying that the above-named alleged bankrupts be adjudicated bankrupts, and that a subpoena directed to the said alleged bankrupts was duly issued out of this Court to the Marshal of this District, and that the said Marshal has been nable to serve the same, and that the said alleged bankrupts are not now within this District, so that personal service may be made upon them, and that diligent efforts have been made to ascertain the whereabouts of said alleged bankrupts, but that they are not now within the jurisdiction of this Court. Now on motion of Charles H. Fuller, attorney for petitioning creditors, it is hereby Ordered that the above named alleged bankrupts plead, answer or demur on the 12th day of October, 1911, and in case of their failure to plead, answer or demur thereto, adjudication shall be made according to the prayer of the said petition, and it is further Ordered that this order be published in the New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 27th day of September, 1911, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said alleged bankrupts at their last known residence or place of business, 216 Elizabeth Street, Manhattan Borough, in the City of New York, on or before the date of the first publication.

GRAND JURY MAY ACT TO-DAY IN FLAGG CASE

VEILED WOMAN TESTIFIES

The Federal Grand Jury took up yesterday the case against Jared Flagg, Daniel N. Morgan, and the other persons alleged to have associated with them in a misuse of the mails in connection with a stock brokerage scheme. The principal witness was a woman who appeared in the Federal Building robed in black and heavily veiled. She is understood to have gathered evidence against Flagg as an employe of a newspaper, and her identity has been sedulously guarded. Twenty or thirty young girls who were in the employ of Flagg were also examined.

The Grand Jury found that their work was delayed by a vigorous protest on the part of Flagg. As Assistant District Attorney Abel I. Smith was about to present the case to the jury he was halted by an order signed by Judge Lacombe, and directed to him and Marshal Henkel, to show cause why they should not be compelled to surrender the books and papers seized at Flagg's office at 105 West Fortieth Street.

This was returnable at 1 o'clock, and at that hour Robert C. Beattie presented an affidavit, in which it was contended that District Attorney Wise and Marshal Henkel had no authority to make any seizure of books and papers, and that Flagg is hampered in the conduct of his business and also in the preparation of his defense by their removal.

District Attorney Wise replied that neither he nor Marshal Henkel ever had the books and papers in their possession. The property, he pointed out, was seized by the police, and Flagg was in their custody for four hours before he was turned over to Marshal Henkel. The books and papers are now held by the Post Office Inspectors in support of their complaint before Commissioner Gilchrist.

Judge Lacombe ruled that in these circumstances he could not order District Attorney Wise to give up something that he had never had, and that it seemed to him the only recourse for Flagg was an action in replevin.

In order to prevent Flagg from renewing his action before Judge Lacombe when the books are handed over to District Attorney Wise it is believed the Grand Jury will bring in this morning such indictments as are to be handed down. In that case the examination of the defendants, which they have asked for before Commissioner Gilchrist, will not take place.

Two more of the defendants were admitted to bail yesterday. Elbridge C. Sewall, alleged to be Flagg's cashier, was released on $10,000 bonds furnished by Ernest Flagg, the architect, of 109 Broad Street, brother of Jared Flagg, and Henry A. Jackson, who is said to have been one of Flagg's "cappers," was released on $2,500 bonds, which Ernest Flagg also provided.

Madeline Russe, who the Postal Inspectors say was Flagg's confidential telephone operator, has not yet been found, but it is hoped that she will present herself before Commissioner Gilchrist this afternoon. She has not been found by the authorities, but a woman who said she was Miss Russe called up the Postal Inspectors yesterday and declared her intention of coming down to the Federal Building forthwith. She explained that she had kept away because she had been in difficulties about securing real estate bonds that might be received as her bail. She declined to say where she was telephoning from, but it was from the White Plains exchange, and the postal authorities failed to trace the number.

Jared Flagg issued yesterday a short statement denouncing the postal authorities for having sequestrated his books and papers, and declaring that if they were restored to him he would be glad to submit them to any one who had any interest in the matter. He declared, moreover, that as soon as he recovered them he would have them investigated by a firm of public accountants of recognized standing, who would then report on them publicly.

Asked if he was intending to resume business, Mr. Flagg replied:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I and other members of the family to which he belongs are proud to claim relationship with Jared Flagg. We are not ignorant of his faults, the worst of which is an apparently uncontrollable habit of exaggeration, or are we unacquainted with his perfect honesty and other good qualities, which far outweigh them. If we did not know him to be utterly incapable of what has been ascribed to him we should be overwhelmed with shame.

Jared Flagg comes of stock which does not produce criminals. Since 1637 on the paternal side, and since 1630 on the maternal side our people have borne honorable records in this country, and many estimable and useful citizens have been numbered among them, but none more able and, in many respects, remarkable than he of whom I speak; and I may also say there has never been one so misunderstood and misrepresented by those who do not know him personally, as this same Jared Flagg.

I shall not attempt to defend him for he is perfectly able to defend himself if his books and papers are restored to him; but I want to protest against what seems to me one of the most high-handed and outrageous persecutions to which innocent people were ever subjected.

With no other excuse than that some one suspected he might do something wrong in the future, his office was raided, his books and papers seized, he, his friends, customers, and clerks dragged off to jail by people acting in the name of the United States. While the newspapers, without a scrap of evidence, and in spite of statements of esteem and confidence from those who were interested personally in his financial operations, and who knew most about what he was doing, treat him as a common swindler, put words in his mouth which could only be uttered by a low braggart, call his assistants "cappers," whatever that may mean, and hold perfectly innocent and honorable gentlemen up to scorn and insult, simply because they happened to be in his company.

The whole proceedings is shameful, but not for them or him.

My brother, his family, and friends are able to regard what has been done with composure, because they know that it is only a question of time when this shame will be placed where it justly belongs.

ERNEST FLAGG.

New York, Sept. 26, 1911.

Joshua Brown, who is one of those included in the complaint against the Flagg concern and is now out on $2,500 bail, declared yesterday that he considered his arrest an outrage.

"I had nothing to do with the company," he said, "except to be employed at a small salary. I have retained John F. McIntyre as my counsel, and I do not like the way I have been treated in the newspapers. I am from Tennessee, and am a Southern gentleman, and everybody knows me."

WANT EDDY HEIRS INCLUDED.

Suit Involves Will and Might Lead to Further Litigation.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—A phase of the litigation over the estate of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, the founder of the Christian Science denomination, appeared today in the Equity Session of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, where Assistant Attorney General Field, representing the commonwealth, asserted that in a friendly suit of the Directors of the Christian Science Church against the trustees of the estate, the heirs of Mrs. Eddy now living outside the State, should be joined.

Involved in the present case, is the validity of the provisions of the will under the act which prohibits bequests to any one church of property in which the income is more than $2,000 annually. The Assistant Attorney General asserted to-day that the heirs of Mrs. Eddy should be joined in the Massachusetts case, in order that a final decision in the matter might be complete and preclude these heirs in case they were dissatisfied from bringing another proceeding.

The motion of the Assistant Attorney General was opposed by counsel for the Church on the ground that the heirs were not residents of Massachusetts.

In reply Mr. Field said that if the heirs did not become parties to the suit, he would compel service by publication.

PARADE IN BORDEN'S HONOR.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—"The Union Jack Is Good Enough For Us," and "Reciprocity Is Dead," were the emblems carried at the head of a triumphal parade here to-night in honor of R. L. Borden, the Conservative Leader.

The demonstration was the greatest of the kind that Canada's capital has ever seen. It exceeded in enthusiasm and numbers any of the demonstrations accorded to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Fifteen thousand persons took part in the parade, which started at Mr. Borden's residence, and after a march of five miles through cheering crowds returned to the home of the new Prime Minister, who, in a brief speech, promised "good government in the interest of Canada and the British Empire."

"The people of Canada have spoken their mind as to whether Canada has 'come to the parting of the ways,'" said Mr. Borden. "They have told us that we are not to part from the Empire, and we are prepared to abide by their decision."

The Liberal Government is closing up its affairs, and will tender within a week its resignation to Earl Grey, the Governor General. Mr. Borden will then be called upon to form a new Government.

VINCENZO SABELLA FOUND.

Boy of That Name Was Reported Missing on July 31.

A patrolman of the Lee Avenue Station, Brooklyn, picked up a wandering boy late last night. The boy said he was Vincenzo Sabella. A boy of that same name was reported missing by his father, Vincenzo Sabella, a wealthy merchant of 369 Broome Street, on July 31. After a police search had proved fruitless the father declared that the boy had not been kidnapped and ordered detectives sent from Police Headquarters to consult him off his premises. The police found letters in which extortioners threatened to kill the boy. Late last night the police sent for the elder Sabella to go to Brooklyn and identify the boy.

According to the police the extortioners demanded $5,000, which they declared the father had agreed to pay in three installments. The elder Sabella was beaten in a store on East Fourteenth Street five days ago, and the police declared that his injuries had been inflicted by Black Handers with whom he had kept an appointment. Sabella, however, stoutly asserted that he had no such appointment and that he had been beaten by three men who had made an unsuccessful effort to steal $700 he had in his pocket.

$1,000 FOR HER BLOOD.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Miss Clara Rickenhouse, a young and comely woman of Carlyle, Ill., to-day received $1,000 as recompense for the transfusion of blood from her arms to the veins of the late Julia A. Sparks, a rich widow in whose employ she had been for some time prior to her death. The young woman permitted physicians to take her blood to prolong the life of her aged employer.

She was assured, she says, that there would be no injurious results, but she was greatly enfeebled. She filed suit against the executor of the estate for $20,000 damage, but accepted one-twentieth of that amount as a compromise.

$25,000 FOR WIFE'S LOVE.

Physician Sues Banker Whom He Recently Assaulted in Public.

Special to The New York Times.

NETCONG, N. J., Sept. 26.—Suit for $25,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections was brought to-day by Dr. Henry W. Thayer against David W. Cook, President of the Citizens' National Bank of this place. Dr. Thayer recently assaulted the banker at the railway station here. After that he accused J. Frank Best, cashier of Cook's bank, of abstracting papers worth $10,000 from a safety deposit box which he rented there.

These incidents brought to light the fact that Dr. Thayer regarded the banker as the destroyer of his domestic happiness. Mrs. Thayer denied that she ever entertained any affection for the banker, but said that on the contrary resented his unwelcome attentions. Cook boarded at the home of Dr. Thayer when the latter and his wife lived next door to the bank.

Mrs. Thayer accused Postmaster Abram J. Drake of sending her improper letters some time ago. After the Post Office Inspectors exonerated Drake she shifted the blame to Cook.

Family's Jewels Stolen.

When Frank A. Fort, a real estate operator, returned with his wife to their apartments in the Hanover, 823 West End Avenue, after a few hours' absence last night, they found that jewelry valued at $825 had been taken. The jewelry included five diamond rings and a gold watch. The police were communicated with and detectives from the West 100th Street Station made an investigation and arrested Cora Brown, the negro servant.

Skipper Gets a Silver Service.

A handsome silver service was presented last night to Capt. Hans Ruser, commander of the Hamburg-American Line steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, on board that vessel at the company's Hoboken docks. Capt. Ruser gave what he calls a "Beer Evening" to sixty guests, comprising men prominent in produce, shipping, and railroad circles. It was the fifth that he has given on the ship.

SELF-SLAIN LAWYER ACCUSED OF FORGERY

CLIENTS HAD TRUSTED HIM

Through a motion made yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton for the appointment of a receiver of the rents of a six-story double apartment house at 648 and 650 Robbins Avenue it became known that actions are pending against the estate of Morris H. Hayman, the New York lawyer, who killed himself by a combination of laudanum, illuminating gas, and strangulation in a Newark hotel early last April, to foreclose a mortgage for $40,000 on this house, it being alleged that a satisfaction piece had been forged by Hayman.

Hayman left the city on March 31 last, and was found dying in the Holland House, in Newark, on April 2. Every effort to save his life was made, his brother-in-law giving up blood for transfusion, but Hayman died on April 7.

While he was on his deathbed attachments amounting to more than $25,000 were issued against him and a petition in bankruptcy was filed against him on the day of his death. Most of the creditors asserted at the time that they had intrusted money to Hayman as a real estate operator and as counsel and that it had not been accounted for.

Among the securities in Hayman's possession at the time of his death were papers said to belong to a man named Solomon Hoffman, who had intrusted money to Hayman. Hoffman brought action to foreclose a forty-thousand-dollar mortgage on the Robbins Avenue property, which, it is alleged, was executed by the Froma Realty Company to Morris H. Hayman on Nov. 26, 1909. The Title Guarantee and Trust Company was also brought into the action, on the ground that it had subsequently loaned to the Froma Realty Company $40,000 on the strength of a satisfaction of the Hoffman mortgage which Hayman produced. At this juncture Hoffman insisted that the satisfaction had been forged, and that even if it had been, he, as a client of Hayman, should not be held responsible for the forgery. This action is now pending.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company and the Froma Realty Company and the Brockavall Realty and Holding Company, the present owners of the Robbins Avenue property, have interposed answers denying that the satisfaction piece was forged and contending that even if there was a forgery Hoffman should nevertheless be held responsible for Hayman's actions.

Another action has been brought by the Froma Realty Company against Gustave Hoffman and Louis Jacobus, to set aside a second mortgage on the Robbins Avenue property, on the ground that Hayman, who held the mortgage, did not pay to the Froma Realty Company $8,500 which was due it. Jacobus interposed an answer, saying that he paid Hayman the $8,500 and that the Froma Realty Company received it. Hoffman set up that the assignment to Jacobus was forged by Hayman.

Benjamin Locker of the firm of Locker & Locker, counsel for the Froma Realty Company, said yesterday that the property at 648 and 650 Robbins Avenue was valued at $72,000.

"We shall deny, of course, that Hayman made any forgeries," he said yesterday. "Although the motive for his suicide has not yet been ascertained, we know that it was not because of any of the alleged forgeries. He was a man of good character, and, so far as we know, did not conduct any large financial schemes which would have required a large amount of cash. It is impossible to tell just where so much of his money did go."

Justice Pendleton reserved decision on yesterday's motion to have a receiver appointed, the motion being opposed by counsel for the Froma Realty Company.

CALLED A 'FEMALE RAFFLES.'

Detectives Say Mrs. Lipowitz Is "an Artist" in Use of Skeleton Keys.

Mrs. Fannie Lipowitz, twenty-seven years of age, 1672 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, described by Detective Lieutenant James Reynolds as the "prettiest and most skillful female Raffles" he has yet encountered, was a prisoner yesterday in the New Jersey Avenue Court. Mrs. Henry Horowitz of 477 Sackman Street alleged that Mrs. Lipowitz entered her apartment with a skeleton key, searched the rooms, appropriated a gold watch and chain and a bracelet and got away, all within five minutes or less. Reynolds and his detective partner, Joseph Donelon, say the woman is an artist in the use of skeleton keys. She can pick any lock, they believe.

When Mrs. Horowitz upon her return discovered the robbery she learned that a blonde beauty of Amazonian build had been seen in the house by other tenants. The detectives, who say they were aware of the presence of the Lipowitz woman in the district, her alleged police record causing them to keep her under surveillance, arrested her on the description given of the suspicious visitor. They say she admitted the theft and handed over a pawn ticket issued at a Bowery pawnshop to which she had taken the jewelry shortly after the robbery.

In court she told Magistrate Fitch that the charge of burglary made against her would not hold good. She explained that no burglary had been committed inasmuch as the door of the flat was unlocked. She denied having used a false key. She smilingly said she would "waive examination" in the Magistrate's court and in default of $1,000 bail was held. Her familiarity with court routine amused the Magistrate. She is the mother of three small children.

LIGHTNING MISSES CHILD.

Damages Nursery and Wrecks Geddes Home, but Sleeping Boy Escapes.

While the thunder storm was surprising Long Islanders yesterday morning lightning struck the home of Donald Geddes, a wealthy resident of Dosoris, near Glen Cove, badly damaging the house and just missing five-year-old Gerald Geddes, who was asleep in the nursery. The lightning tore a hole in the ceiling and the plaster fell all about the sleeping boy, but did not injure him.

The bolt passed downstairs and wrecked the lower floor, breaking lighting fixtures, tearing pictures and plaster from the walls, and tearing through ceilings and floors.

Mrs. Geddes, who was Miss Grace Maxwell, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Maxwell, was alone in the house, with the exception of the servants. Awakened by the crash she rushed to her child, and when she reached the nursery and saw the gaping hole in the ceiling above his bed and the rubbish on the floor, it was hard to convince her that the boy was not hurt.

LET PATRIOTIC SONGS REST.

Pittsburgh Teachers Plan to Get "Star-Spangled Banner" Properly Sung.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Sept. 26.—Music teachers and professors are urging that the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America" in the public schools be discontinued for at least two months. Francis Scott Key's stirring song is sung by the youngsters with too much riotous gusto, while "sour" notes creep into their rendition of "America." Both it is said are sung improperly, and it is the aim to have the airs in both, particularly in the high-keyed "Star-Spangled Banner," technically taught to the youngsters after the shouting renditions have ceased to become a habit.

Prof. E. R. Rinehart, Prof. George Smink, Miss Louise Loomis, and Miss E. E. Maladey, the latter two Supervisors, have urged the action. Their attitude caused a storm in patriotic circles to-day until it was explained what the idea was.

"Whenever we hear 'The Star-Spangled Banner' sung there are different pitches, strains and tempos," said Miss Loomis. "It has become a habit with the children, and the only way to correct their singing is to begin over again after a month or so of suspension."

MISS SHERMAN TO WED HERE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—The wedding of Miss Mildred Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Watts Sherman of Newport, and Lord Camoys of England, will take place in New York Dec. 5 at the residence of the bride's parents, 838 Fifth Avenue. Lady Camoys, mother of Lord Camoys, will come from England for the ceremony, the details of which are not fully arranged at this time.

Lord Camoys has been here the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman may remain at Newport until the middle of October, or later, before opening their New York residence.

After the wedding Lord and Lady Camoys will spend a part of the honeymoon traveling about this country, and will sail for England after the Christmas holidays.

English Military Aviator Arrives.

Among the passengers who arrived from London in the transatlantic transport liner Minneapolis yesterday was Capt. Patrick Hamilton, one of the British Army aviators. Capt. Hamilton flies under the name of Donald E. Patrick. He comes to take part in the Nassau Boulevard meet. He believes that the military possibilities of the flying machine are great and that it will play an important part in any wars that may be fought in the future.

The Dr. Wiley incident has brought into strong light the tremendous interest of all the people in pure foods.

Do you know the vital significance of this question to you?

Do you know its relation to your own health and the health of your family?

Do you know why some food manufacturers use the coal tar drug, Benzoate of Soda, and why some do not?

Heinz 57 Varieties
Domestic Science Exposition
Madison Square Garden

You can see there illustrated our model kitchens with their uniformed work people, and learn how good, fresh materials can be preserved in a clean place by clean methods without the aid of drugs and chemicals to make them keep.

You can also see and taste pure, clean, wholesome foods in almost infinite variety—Preserves, Jellies, Fruit Butter, Mince Meat, Tomato Soup, Baked Beans, Tomato Ketchup, etc.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes
Fall Clothes Here
COME here as soon as ever you can and see our Fall Stocks. They are absolutely splendid this year. English models and American models, and such a variety of fabrics and patterns—truly Hart, Schaffner & Marx have opened even our eyes by making us such wonderfully fine garments. They are better than even we had any idea—and we have mighty big ideas when it comes to value. We repeat, come and see them.
Overcoats, $15 to $65. Suits, $18 to $50.
